Doctor, Woman Flown to B.C.

By PAT MURPHY

Dr. Glen Stewart, who has been questioned by RCMP in San Francisco in connection with the death of a camp caretaker at Pachena Bay, was flown under police escort to Vancouver Friday night.

United States immigration authorities in San Francisco said Friday Stewart had agreed to a "voluntary departure under safeguards" following an immigration hearing during which the former Vancouver Island doctor was denied a release under bond.

Stewart arrived on a regular airline flight from San Francisco in company with two U.S. immigration men.

With Stewart were two detectives from the Victoria subdivision of the RCMP who have been questioning Stewart in San Francisco, and a third RCMP officer from Prince Rupert who was reported to be questioning Stewart about the disappearance of a woman from Smithers.

The woman was identified Friday by Prince Rupert RCMP officers as Mrs. Sheila Haupt, 34. Mrs. Haupt's mother reported her missing about nine months ago.

Mrs. Haupt's husband is serving with the armed forces. Shortly after her disappearance a suitcase containing some of her belongings was found in the Bulkley River near Smithers.

RCMP Superintendent A. M. Nelson of the Victoria detachment said earlier Friday Stewart would be taken into custody on his arrival in Vancouver on a bench warrant charging him with failure to appear in court in Port Alberni on a non-related matter.

He is charged with being in possession of stolen goods worth more than $50. The charge involved a liferaft valued at about $500 taken in the area of Bamfield, about four miles north of Pachena Bay.

Stewart made one appearance in court in October and pleaded not guilty. He was placed on $2,500 bail and scheduled to reappear on Tuesday. When he did not, a bench warrant was issued.

★ ★ ★

Nelson said Stewart would be held in Vancouver Friday night and be escorted to Port Alberni to appear there in court.

An inquest into the death of Gordon Adrian Kralt, 23, of Duncan, whose badly-decomposed body was found in a field Sunday three weeks after he was last seen alive, was opened in Port Alberni Monday night.

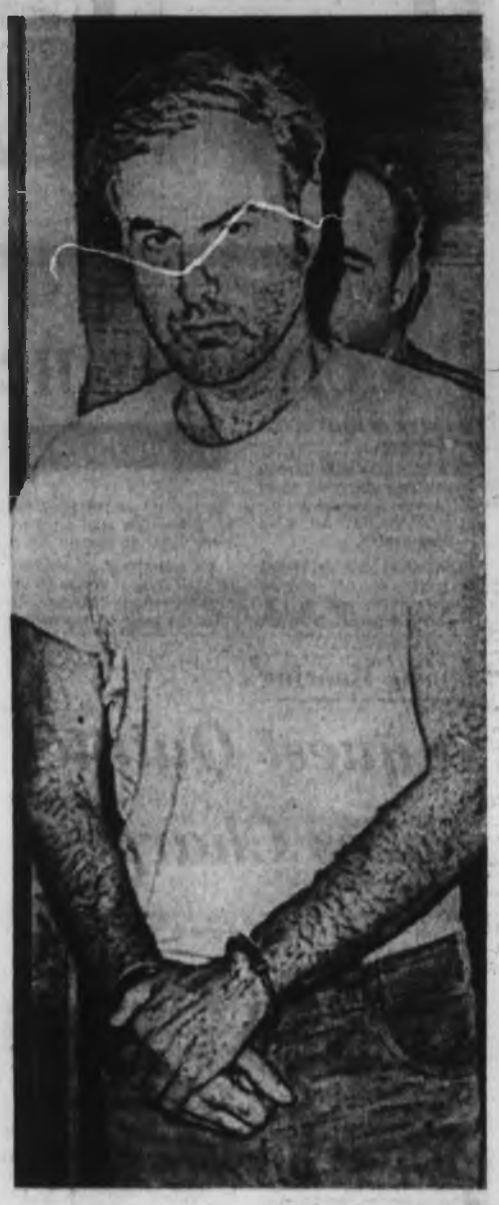

The corpse was viewed, identification and medical evidence given after which the inquest was adjourned with no date fixed for it to reopen. Port Alberni RCMP said it may be waived altogether.

★ ★ ★

Although the exact cause of death could not be determined because of decomposition of the body, police have said they believe Kralt was shot in the main lodge of the Shantymen's Camp Ross where he was caretaker. They base their belief on the finding of a bullet from a "large-calibre" gun and bloodstains in the building.

Kralt was last seen alive Oct. 30 and is believed to

51 Die, 171 Survive Jet Crash in Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — A DC-8 jetliner carrying 229 persons, most of them military personnel bound for Vietnam, crashed and a few minutes later exploded during takeoff Friday night, killing at least 51 persons.

State troopers confirmed the death toll after rescuers made their way to the wreckage.

Police said 51 bodies were recovered from the wreckage and there were 171 known survivors. Seven persons were unaccounted for.

Most of the survivors escaped unhurt or with minor injuries, as the plane broke up into three pieces on impact.

The four-engine jet, chartered by the United States military, lifted off from Anchorage International Airport after dark in a freezing drizzle.

The plane, chartered by the United States military, began its flight at McChord Air Force Base in Tacoma, Wash. A spokesman for McChord said the passengers were believed to be army and air force personnel.

Witnesses at Anchorage International Airport said the plane aborted the takeoff, exploded twice and burst into flames.

Witnesses also said 15 to 20 men were seen running from the burning plane.

★ ★ ★

Airport police said the plane was a DC-8 owned by Capitol International Airways.

The plane carried 219 passengers and 10 crew members, spokesmen said. It was to have stopped in Yakota, Japan, en route to Vietnam.

A spokesman for the Alaska state troopers said most of the bodies were believed to be still aboard the plane. He said flames prevented an immediate search for bodies.

The crashing plane left a 500-yard trail of fuel, an airport spokesman said. He said parts of two motors and the wings were widely scattered.

★ ★ ★

A survivor, who received first aid at the airport terminal said the plane "only climbed for a few seconds, then it sort of glided down."

The man, who refused to give his name, said he had been sitting near the centre of the plane.

John Pederson, an airport mechanic, said: "It was too fast to land and too slow to take off."

He said the plane nosed down, crashed and then exploded twice about three or four minutes after it hit the ground.

Snow Blankets Roads From Malahat North

Snow blanketed highways on Vancouver Island Friday night but no serious accidents were reported.

Cities reported streets generally clear but in some rural districts more than seven inches of snow were reported.

RCMP offered words of advice—if highway travel could be avoided it would be wise to avoid it. On the Malahat, the highways to Port Alberni and Gold River and Kelsey Bay from Campbell River snow tires were mandatory and carrying chains was advised.

Farther north, a massive blanket of cold air covered the three prairie provinces and northeastern B.C.

Fort St. John, B.C., set a record low for the date with 33 below and four record lows were set in Alberta communities.

Victoria and Up-Island forecasts call for clouds and snow flurries.

Production, Employment Thursday Budget Targets

OTTAWA (CP) — New government measures designed to pep up laggard productive activity and fight unemployment will be outlined in a special federal budget next Thursday night.

Finance Minister Edgar Benson briefly told the Commons Friday that he would present a budget at 5 p.m. PST Dec. 3, but he warded off questions.

Details of spending or tax changes in a budget traditionally are a closely-guarded secrets until presented to Parliament.

However, it has been known that the cabinet planned a budget revision for the current financial year ending March 31. The aim is to stimulate an economy that has slowed down under the squeeze of anti-inflation spending and credit restraints during the last two years.

Customarily, the way governments try to encourage increased industrial activity and the jobs that go with it is by reducing taxation, stepping up government spending or both.

★ ★ ★

Reducing taxation leaves more ready cash in the tills of corporations or the pockets of consumers. This increases demand for goods and services and stimulates suppliers to speed up activity and staff to meet the demand.

Increased government spending has the same effect.

In Vancouver Benson's announcement of a new budget was welcomed Friday by Conservative leader Robert Stanfield, who said Benson is simply taking his advice.

"I have been urging him to do this," Stanfield said, "and in the course of doing so he should give an accurate indication of precisely where the federal government would like the economy to go.

"He has been making only general statements and as a consequence no one knows how much emphasis the government is placing on expansion as opposed to anti-inflationary measures. I hope that any measures he does take will be enough to get the economy moving again."

Syria Joins Projected Federation

CAIRO (AP) — Syria has joined the projected federation of Egypt, Sudan and Libya, Sudan's official radio said Friday.

No deadline has been set for creation of the federation. The four countries have agreed, however, to set up joint commissions to supervise the gradual unification of their political, economic, military, cultural and agricultural policies.

Increased Pension Coming for Needy

By MARJORIE NICHOLS

OTTAWA — The federal government has decided to completely revamp the old age security system to provide regular pension increases only to those who demonstrate need.

The application of the old age pension will continue to be universal. That is, every Canadian age 65 or over will be eligible for a basic pension.

Only those who are needy, however, will be provided with annual increases. The remaining pensioners will receive a flat amount every month, with no provision for increases.

Under the government's plan, the outlines of which were disclosed Friday, the universal old-age pension will be a flat $80 a month after Jan. 1.

Pensioners living in B.C. receive a provincial supplement of up to $38.59 which is entirely separate from the federal basic pension and any supplementary payments by Ottawa. A provincial welfare spokesman said Friday it is impossible at this stage to predict what effect, if any, the announced increases will have on the provincial supplement.

★ ★ ★

In Saskatoon, T. C. Douglas, national leader of the New Democratic Party, said the proposed increase of the basic old-age pension "doesn't begin to compensate for increases in cost of living over the last few years."

He said old-age pensioners have been getting two per cent on the cost of living, "whereas the cost of living has been going up four or five per cent."

Douglas reiterated his stand that the basic old-age pension should be increased to $125 a month, with another $50 for persons with no other income.

★ ★ ★

The present basic pension is $79.58 a month. Thus many pensioners — in fact more than half of them — stand to receive only 42 cents a month more under the new scheme.

For the needy pensioners, however, the pension boosts they are receiving next April 1 will be substantial. They will also be guaranteed annual increases thereafter.

In short, the government has established the new $80-a-month pension only as a base on which to build its new system.

Of the 1,700,000 old-age pensioners in the country, about 880,000 now qualify for the supplementary benefit paid on the basis of need.

In effect, only these 880,000 stand to benefit from the new scheme. They are, however, in the government's view, those who need the help.

All of the pension increases will be applied to the income supplement schemes. The maximum supplement now is $31.83. Government officials refused to disclose the amount of the planned increase to the supplemental scheme, but one spokesman issued assurances that it would be "substantial."

Full details of the new pension scheme will not be made public until the government tables its long-awaited

Auditor Check Being Dropped

● Auditors' auditors urged for CN, Air Canada. Page 5

OTTAWA (CP) — The government will quietly let die its bill to restrict the powers of the auditor-general, cabinet sources said Friday.

And it also may give up a month-long attempt to push through Parliament its public order bill as a temporary replacement for the War Measures Act regulations.

Informants said the government is reviewing its entire legislative program in the light of three weeks lost on the public order bill and an extra week that now may be required for a budget debate.

Saturday Commons sittings are a possibility, one informant said.

Bills that the government would have liked to see passed at the current session which began Oct. 8 are already being discarded, sources said.

The first to go would be the auditor-general's legislation, which the opposition says would need government closure to pass.

To Pope Paul

Second Threat Blocked

MANILA (Reuter) — A young woman carrying a small knife was detained today outside the special nuncio where Pope Paul is staying during his visit to Manila.

Police said the woman was spotted in a small crowd waiting outside the pontiff's residence as the pope drove away to go to the University of Santo Tomas to meet students.

She was taken to police headquarters for questioning.

The pope narrowly escaped severe injury Friday morning after his plane touched down at Manila airport when a Bolivian painter carrying a foot-long knife lunged at him but missed.

Smiles Become Tears If Dream Vanishes

By BILL THOMAS

The borderline between a child's smiles and tears is impossible to measure but the one dissolves into the other in an instant especially when a long-cherished expectation vanishes on Christmas morning.

In good times and bad there are always those who for one reason or another find themselves in trouble — parents who can't realize even a fragment of tiny dreams. It was 14 years ago that Colonist readers took the lead trying to put the glisten back with their gifts to the 500 Fund.

This year more people than ever find that, despite the affluent society, they will be in need.

Last year Colonist readers swelled the fund to more than $25,500 to bring aid to the truly needy. All money donated is turned over to families chosen by the Christmas Bureau, a Community Chest agency.

Anyone willing to help with a gift may bring it or mail it to the Colonist, 2631 Douglas, or donations may be left at Avis Rent-A-Car, 900 Douglas.

have died shortly after that time.

Meanwhile, Nanaimo RCMP said Friday Kralt's missing car was found in the Nanaimo bus depot parking lot.

★ ★ ★

Divers had been searching the bottom of the Alberni Inlet and sea off Bamfield for the white Volkswagen.

Maria Trigiani, a woman companion of Stewart's, was in the group which flew to Vancouver Friday.

Stewart and Miss Trigiani were rescued Tuesday from a gas-filled room in which they locked themselves after immigration department officials had knocked on their door.

Stewart was released from hospital Wednesday but Miss Trigiani was reported to have developed pneumonia. However, San Francisco police said Friday she had recovered and decided to return to Canada.

Although Stewart on arrival was to be held in custody pending a court appearance in Port Alberni, police said there was no charge against Miss Trigiani and she was free to go.

Phone Rate Cut

OTTAWA (CP) — Reductions averaging 22 per cent in long distance calls between Canada and Hawaii will come into effect at midnight tonight, TransCanada telephone system announced Friday.

RCMP said Stewart and Miss Trigiani reached the United States on a 35-foot boat, The Gypsy, owned by Stewart.

Stewart and a woman described by the U.S. Coast Guard at Astoria, Ore., as "his wife Maria," and two other persons were rescued from the boat after it ran aground at the mouth of the Columbia River, near Astoria, Nov. 7. Stewart, at that time, gave his address as Sausalito, Calif., and said he was returning to California from B.C.

The boat broke up off the Oregon coast and it was not known how Stewart and Miss Trigiani reached San Francisco from there.

Stewart is still licensed to practice medicine in B.C. and, it is reported, lived at Courtenay and practised there and in Comox and Cumberland during 1963 and 1964. He later practised at Sicamous but left in 1968.

RCMP have been careful not to link Stewart and Kralt officially or relate the missing woman from Smithers to the case.

"At this stage it is still speculation," an RCMP sergeant said.

Pension Increase

white paper on social welfare next Tuesday.

In fact, it was only through a mistake that the news about the planned changes to the Old Age Pension act were disclosed Friday.

Someone apparently placed the notice of the planned changes to the act on Friday's order paper in error.

The notice was not scheduled for publication until after the white paper is brought down.

As a result most government officials refused to discuss the planned pension changes.

On the basis of information made available on the order paper, however, the general philosophy of the government's new pensions scheme was readily apparent.

Other sources said this same philosophy of greater emphasis on need rather than universality will be carried through in all other social welfare schemes with which the white paper will deal.

There has, for example, been considerable speculation that the government will try to base family allowances and youth allowances on much the same need philosophy.

Canada now spends approximately $3 billion a year on social welfare. The government more than a year ago started to work on the white paper, which it is hoped will provide a fresh approach to all welfare schemes.

Laporte Hearing

Inquest Quintet Faces Charges

MONTREAL (CP) — Three men and two women who testified earlier this month at an inquest into the death of kidnap victim Pierre Laporte, were charged Friday under the War Measures Act.

All five testified about a west-end apartment where one kidnap suspect, Bernard Lortie, 19, was arrested Nov. 6 and where three other suspects hid behind a false wall in a clothes closet during the police raid.

Charged Friday were two brother-sister pairs, Richard and Colette Therrien and Francois and Francine Belisle, and Francois Roux.

Miss Therrien, 22, was charged with being or professing to be a member of the outlawed Front de Liberation du Quebec and with communicating statements on behalf of or as a representative of an illegal association, the FLQ.

Her brother Richard, 20, was charged with communicating statements and with helping a person he knew or had "reasonable cause to believe" was guilty of an offence under the act with the intention "to prevent, hinder or interfere with the apprehension, trial or punishment of that person."

★ ★ ★

Belisle, 19, was similarly charged with communicating statements and helping a person guilty under the War Measures Act.

His sister Francine, 22, faces the helping charges.

Roux, 21, was charged with contributing "anything such as dues or otherwise to an unlawful association or to anyone for the benefit of an unlawful association."

Each charge carries a sentence of five years in prison on conviction.

★ ★ ★

The FLQ, outlawed when the War Measures Act was proclaimed Oct. 16, has claimed responsibility for the kidnappings of James Cross Oct. 5 and Pierre Laporte Oct. 10. Cross, British trade commissioner in Quebec, is believed still in captivity. Laporte, former Quebec labor minister, was strangled to death Oct. 17.

Chain Crash Kills Nine

DOWNINGTOWN, PA. (UPI) — Nine persons, six reported to be children, were killed Friday in a four-vehicle chain-reaction crash on the Pennsylvania Turnpike near here.

Five others were reported injured in the smashup which occurred in the westbound fast lane.

State police said one of the four vehicles was a state turnpike truck en route to another collision six miles away in which a truck driver was also killed.

Stolen Paintings Worth $900,000

MONTPELLIER, France (AP) — Eighteen paintings including a Matisse, a Degas, a Corot and a Utrillo, were stolen Thursday night from a museum here. The value of the paintings was estimated by authorities at $900,000.

Light Changes Pupils

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What makes the pupils of your eyes dilate at times? Would this be serious? I have a grown son and also a six-year-old grandson and I notice that at times their pupils get large. They both seem to be on the nervous side. — Mrs. H.P.

Several things can cause the pupils to enlarge or contract.

Basically, the pupil changes size to regulate the amount of light entering the eye. In very bright light, the pupil will squeeze down to very small size. In dim light, the pupil enlarges to admit more light.

That's why, when we go into a dim room from a bright sunlit day outdoors, at first we can't see much. Then we become accustomed to the dim light, and can see very well. Why? The pupils have enlarged to suit the illumination.

Absolute size of the pupils can vary considerably from one individual to another, but all change according to brightness. One-sided dilation or constriction can be due to a defect in the nerve control of the pupil — not a very common occurrence. Report such a condition to an ophthalmologist.

And drugs can affect pupil size, in both directions. Narcotics (morphine, heroin) cause a small pupil. Belladonna and others cause a large, also marijuana. Older folks using "drops" for glaucoma will have small, contracted pupils.

I doubt, Mrs. P., that in your case you have anything to worry about.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How to control emphysema? My husband has it. Would this condition make him frigid? — Mrs. J.M.

No, but it can have a considerable bearing on sexual vigor, which may amount to somewhat the same thing so far as you are concerned. The disease deprives him of abundant oxygen. Advance emphysema can, therefore, sap his physical energy. Sheer fatigue can dull or destroy the sexual urge.

Four Dive, Dash to U.S.

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Four East Germans seeking political asylum leaped from a cruise ship into the Atlantic Ocean Friday, three of them apparently joining on impulse the fourth's carefully-planned escape.

A waiting rescue boat picked up Karl Bley, who plotted the escape in letters to his brother in the United States, and the three medical scientists who joined him in the 35-foot jump from the East German ship's deck.

Eric Bley, Karl's brother from Villa Park, Ill., pulled the four men into his boat, raced to shore and delivered them to immigration authorities. They were released after being interrogated and receiving asylum in the United States.

The Bleys said they used coded language in correspondence as they planned the escape for nearly a year.

As the four men were pulled aboard the rescue boat, the East German vessel Volkerfreundschafp out of Rostock made a 90-degree turn, but soon turned back and proceeded on its course for Havana, Cuba.

The others escaping were Henrich Kupfer, 33, a pathologist from Zwickau; his brother, Manfred, 37, a neuro-pathologist from Leipzig, and Peter Rost, 37, a microbiologist from Zwickau.

"We had no idea of escaping until the very instant Bley jumped," Rost said.

Argentine Terrorists

U.S. Homes Invaded

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Terrorists armed with guns and chains invaded the homes of three U.S. military men and stole arms, uniforms and personal documents Friday in the latest of a series of such attacks.

The wives of two of the men — who were on their way to work at the U.S. embassy when the simultaneous attacks occurred — were knocked to the floor and chained until the extremists made good their escape.

Hundreds of Argentine federal police threw up roadblocks on major arteries of this capital of 8.5 million persons. They searched car trunks to no avail and caused long traffic snarls.

The attacks occurred on tree-shaded Fernandez Espido Street in the residential Acassuso section where the three men live near each other.

The three were army Lt.-Col. Joseph Charles Rodriguez, 42, Rialto, Calif., a Medal of Honor winner in Korea; air force Tech. Sgt. Edward Stanchick, 43, Philadelphia, Pa., and Master Sgt. Robert Thomas, 35, of Tell City, Ind.

"It was all well-planned and simultaneous," said a spokesman in the military section of the embassy. "Nobody was actually hurt, but the wives of Rodriguez and Stanchick were knocked to the floor and bound with chains around their arms."

The military section spokesman said the terrorists claimed to be members of the front which supports the return of ex-dictator Juan Peron to Argentina.

Buehrle

Swiss 'Krupp' Guilty Of Crisis-Spot Sales

LAUSANNE (AP) — Dieter Buehrle, multi-millionaire head of Switzerland's largest arms making company, and five of his company's officials were convicted by the Supreme Court Friday of illegally exporting large quantities of war material to international crisis spots.

The biggest shipments, made between 1963 and 1968, went to South Africa, Israel and Egypt.

The 49-year-old Buehrle, sometimes dubbed the "Swiss Krupp," was sentenced to a suspended term of eight months in prison, and a fine of $4,000.

Gabriel Labedinsky, 46, chief of the arms sales division and a personal friend of Buehrle, received an 18-month sentence.

The four others, also employed by Werkzeugmaschinenfabrik Oerlikon Buehrle A.G., Zurich, drew terms ranging from 16 months to a suspended three-week sentence.

Buehrle, who concedes he is probably the richest man in Switzerland was found guilty of violating a 1949 government decree under which embargoes are imposed on arms deliveries to countries at war or threatened by conflict.

U.S. Anti-War Group

Hoover Warns Of Kidnap Plot

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said Friday an anti-war group was planning to kidnap foreign diplomats and high government officials — possibly including a White House aide — and hold them hostage until the United States agrees to stop bombing in Southeast Asia and release "all political prisoners."

Hoover made clear his belief that the "incipient plot" had not been broken despite both an "intensive investigation" and the imprisonment of Roman Catholic priests Philip and Daniel Berrigan, whom he described as leaders of the group behind the abduction scheme.

* * *

In written testimony presented to a Senate appropriations subcommittee, Hoover spoke of only one kidnap victim. "The name of a White House staff member has been mentioned as a possible victim," he said.

He told UPI later that the plotters had more than one victim in mind.

The justice department circulated warnings of possible kidnapping attempts to U.S. officials and embassies here following the kidnappings by French-speaking Canadian secessionists of British Trade Commissioner James Cross and Quebec labor minister Pierre Laporte, later strangled.

* * *

An attorney for the Berrigan brothers, Father William Cunningham, S.J., issued a statement for himself and attorney William Kunstler, who also has represented the Berrigans.

Cunningham called Hoover's remarks "scurrilous and self-serving" and said to reply to the specific details "would be to lend it a dignity that it cannot command on its own strength." He said if Hoover had the evidence he claimed he should prosecute

Moynihan

Nixon Aide Rejects Appointment to UN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Daniel Patrick Moynihan, President Nixon's No. 1 urban affairs adviser, has decided to rejoin the Harvard University faculty rather than to become U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

According to published reports a week ago, Nixon had chosen Moynihan to succeed ambassador Charles Yost in the UN post. The administration had no comment until Friday.

Gl's Trial

He Tried To 'Con' Captors

NEW YORK (UPI) — The first U.S. serviceman to be charged with aiding the enemy in the Vietnam war said Friday he made propaganda tape recordings for the North Vietnamese because he wanted to be released and go back to the United States.

* * *

Sgt. Jon Sweeney, 21, said he tried to "con" the North Vietnamese "because I felt I had to get back to the United States and tell people, especially young people in the peace movement, that the North Vietnamese aren't the good guys they think they are."

Sweeney, who could face the death penalty if the marine corps decides to court-martial him, was interviewed by Mike Wallace on the CBS Evening News with Walter Cronkite.

A Study in Isolation

THE FIRST AND SO FAR the only complete regional plan for the Greater Victoria area, Presented nearly 12 years ago, could not and did not foresee some of the major developments ahead. It could not take account of the growth of the University of Victoria in its present location; nor of the new transportation patterns arising out of the establishment of the B.C. Ferries, nor, for another instance, of the proliferation of high-rise apartment buildings. Nevertheless it was a useful general guide to municipal councils in many respects.

The Capital Regional District, having taken over the function of the Capital Region Planning Board which prepared the first plan, now puts high priority on the need to bring forward a new plan, according to its chairman, Mayor Hugh Curtis of Saanich. A new plan too may fail to foretell some of the momentous changes of another decade. But at least it can give the community reasoned recommendations on how best to control and channel growth for maximum benefit to the people of the whole region.

Mayor Curtis also has indicated that the board's approach in the first half of next year will be to consider and put to the public alternative concepts for the future of the region, and that these concepts will in turn involve alternative transportation systems. Transportation, in his logical view, cannot be studied in isolation from the other elements of a plan for development.

Victoria council, however, has instructed its traffic department to define Greater Victoria's future traffic and transportation problems and needs and submit a report as soon as possible, and thus seems to be paying scant heed to the thought that this can be only part of a wider determination of aims. The actual course of action is not entirely clear. When the study was recommended by a council committee, it was said that it would determine the form public transportation would take and who would finance it. Another version is that the city would only gather all available data but would turn the information over to the regional board for possible implementation of recommendations.

If ordering the study is intended only to spur the work of the regional board, possibly there is something to be said for it. Or if the city wants to consider the form or forms of transportation that would be preferable from its own, community-core point of view, this is at least understandable. On the other hand, if the traffic department's investigation is only work that will be done again by the regional planning staff, it may be nothing but a waste of valuable time.

Unacceptable Risks

THE AIRBORNE RESCUE ATTEMPT at Son Tay was a gallant if misguided operation.

Somewhere along the line liaison between intelligence and raiding party went off the track. The result was that a small group of specially trained commando-type men took perhaps unwarranted risks only to find the prisoner-of-war compound deserted. Either by accident or with forewarning, the North Vietnamese had removed the captives.

The risks of the operation involved far more than the lives of the raiders. Even if they had succeeded in rescuing a handful of prisoners the communists insist on treating as war criminals, they were putting their comrades still in captivity in the position of being targets of reprisal.

The Americans must recognize this, so the degree of their desperation can be gauged from the gamble they accepted. Defence Secretary Melvin Laird says American prisoners of war are dying, presumably due to lack of medical attention or food or both. It was this knowledge that prompted the raid.

Mr. Laird also warns of appropriate countermeasures if the North Vietnamese take any reprisals against American prisoners.

Further, the United States would retaliate with a renewal of bombing attacks if communist gunners continue to fire on reconnaissance aircraft.

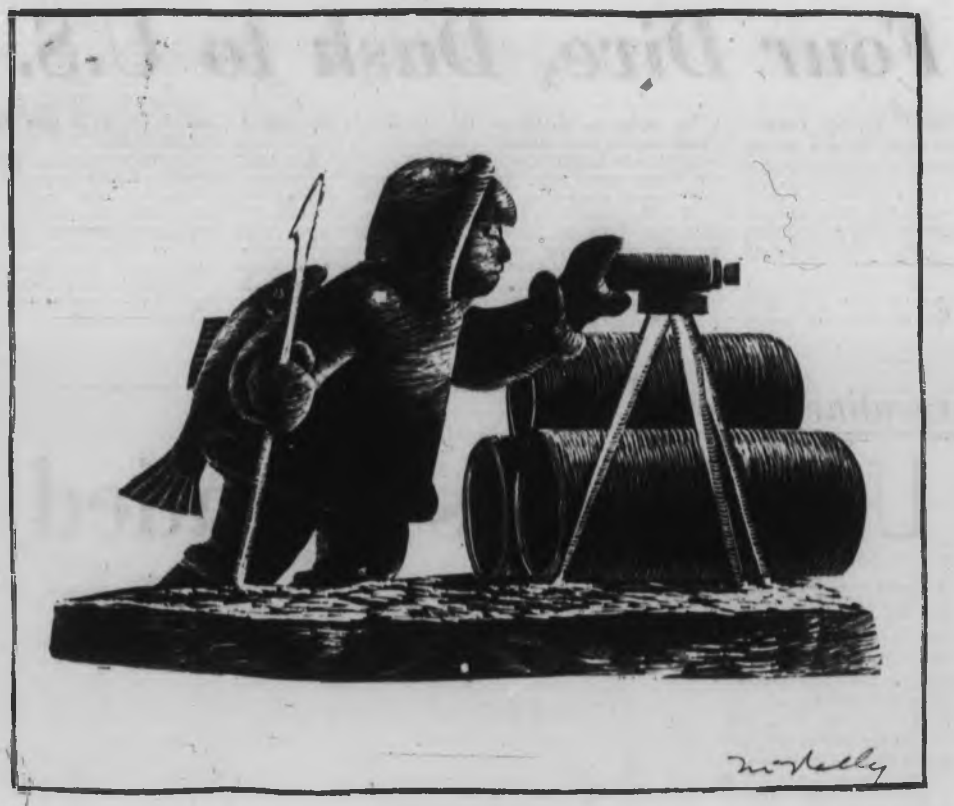

In the event of a major offensive into South Vietnam from the north a full-scale aerial response would be recommended, the defence secretary declared.

These are hard words, and hardly consistent with the promise of Secretary of State William Rogers that the United States will have completed withdrawal from a combat role in South Vietnam by May 1, 1971.

It is clear that Mr. Laird, like all loyal Americans and their friends, is deeply concerned for the prisoners in communist hands. But rescue raids, which he admits may be attempted again, are a rather forlorn hope. The morale-building drama of such affairs as the British commando attempt to kidnap Germany's General Erwin Rommel and the excitingly successful German rescue of Benito Mussolini from his fortress prison, were rather different operations. They did not invite reprisals against prisoners of war, protected under the Geneva Convention. No such protection applies to the Americans in communist hands. They are undeniably in jeopardy.

Not that any one is likely to heed it, but The Times in London offers a sensible commentary: "Time after time actions are shown to have arisen when the ideas of one section — even of one service — have been pressed successfully without proper consultation with others. There were obvious differences at the time of the operation into Cambodia last April. The military got away with that one and may have been emboldened in this latest initiative against the advice of others or without their being consulted."

It would seem, in fact, that there is a lack of consistency in policy as advocated by the secretary of state and the secretary of defence and no concurrence on targets of priority. This could be disastrous.

Dodgers Find Welfare Terrible

By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

WRING out the crying towels. The bleeding hearts having wept over the injustices they see society inflicting on the put-upon suspects of the FLQ are going to be in tears all over again.

Those American draft-dodgers and military deserters who fled in fear to the sanctuary of kind-hearted Canada are having simply a terrible time of it.

The welfare payments on which so many of them are living while loafing are just impossible.

And you know, if some of them feel like making a little extra money for their often-peculiar kind of luxuries, they're starting to find it a bit difficult to get a job.

★ ★ ★

Their long hair, foul smell and shabby reputation, to hear it from an official here of the Canada Manpower Centre — the federal government's official job-placement agency — seem to be getting in the way of work.

But perhaps that could be the way the young American "visitors" intended it to be all along.

Cynical views, these?

Perhaps, but factual, too.

Just the other day to Parliament Hill and the Press Gallery came Charles Hillinger, a staff member of the Los Angeles Times-Washington Post News Service to report on the political battle in the House of Commons over the government's fight with the War Measures Act and the new "Public Order" legislation against the terrorist FLQ.

★ ★ ★

The Los Angeles Times and the Washington Post and Times Herald generally are agreed to be small "P" liberal newspapers, taking the side of toleration and understanding in the most sharply-drawn issues of dissent, protest and even violence.

So staff correspondent Charles Hillinger is no flaming right-winger taking a critical view.

From Ottawa he went down to Montreal for a close-up of the FLQ scene.

And from there he has wired to the Los Angeles and Washington newspapers and the scores of daily papers subscribing to their news service that hundreds of American draft-dodgers and deserters live in fear of arrest — and questioning under provisions of the "Public Order" regulations — with subsequent deportation.

They should worry 'not. Detested by some they may be, but deported never. For unless they have been in the active service of the FLQ or are convicted of some crime, they are safe.

Correspondent Hillinger goes on to break your heart with this intelligence: those deserters and draft-dodgers who may be moved to feeling like a spot of work now are not finding it easy to get jobs.

Surprising, what, when there are something more than 700,000 home-grown Canadians looking for work with a winter fast approaching when unemployment darkly threatens to be the blackest in years.

★ ★ ★

But careful correspondent that Charles Hillinger obviously must be, he isn't reporting all this just off the top of his head.

No indeed, he is quoting qualified authorities on the subject.

He quotes Danny Schwartsman, a New York City draft-dodger now resident in Montreal, as saying that the fugitive American flower-power people who don't want to work, but prefer the good life on welfare are finding things hard.

"Welfare up here in Montreal is just terrible — only $75 a month. You just can't live on $75 a month."

Any Canadian old age pensioner could have told him that.

Draft-dodger Danny Schwartsman's testimony of hardship is supported by Anglican Chaplain Roger Balk of Montreal.

How many of these deprived young Americans are there up here?

The people who are supposed to keep a rough count in the citizenship and immigration department say they can only make a guess — but it has to be a pretty well-based one — at something more, now, than 150,000.

How many of them are the hippie-hoppies?

Authorities at defence headquarters who turned over the nation's armories to the bands of wandering youth last summer estimate the number of Americans, and a heavy percentage of them hippies, "in the thousands."

★ ★ ★

William H. Kelly, retired deputy RCMP commissioner in charge of security and intelligence, asks a good question about these hippies: "Who agreed they should live without working, that they should be given food and shelter at the taxpayers' expense and develop their lazy, immoral, undisciplined and drug-oriented subculture?"

Was it your MP through his permissive silence?

Ask him — send a letter, no stamp required — where he stood when Parliament discussed draft-dodgers, deserters and hippies.

I Beg to Differ . . .

Advantages of a Tank

By FRANK LOWE

AT first glance, the news item seemed a little absurd.

It told about a man in Toronto who is busy planning to sell five 1942 vintage Stuart tanks. You know, tanks like troops use during a war.

As I said, when I first read the item, I thought how ridiculous the whole scheme was. But then I had second thoughts.

A tank, a good heavy tank, might be just what I need in my stocking this Christmas.

★ ★ ★

Think of the fun I could have with it. There is, for instance, a kid in my neighborhood who drives a motorcycle with those special VAAARRROOMMM type exhausts.

As far as I can make out he doesn't drive anywhere. He just circles and re-circles the block going VAAARRROOOMMM. And when I threaten to take him apart, limb by limb, he looks at my short, tubby frame and gives his exhaust an extra-loud VAAARRROOOMMM.

But if that kid came around my block and found me staring at him from the turret of a real tank, I bet you he would not be quite so cocky. One VAAARRROOOMMM out of him—and BOOM.

And I am sure if the jury was made up of adults who live in supposedly quiet residential communities, I would get away with it, too.

★ ★ ★

In fact, I might even get a medal.

The tank, come to think of it, would allow me to relive one of my favorite movies. Remember W. C. Fields in the movie where he went out onto the highway seeking to punish road hogs?

Well, I could be a real avenger in my 1942 tank.

If some smart-aleck tried to cut me off I would not frantically hit the brakes, as I do now.

Instead, I would step on the accelerator, or whatever gadget it is that makes a tank go faster. And sit in my iron-clad cocoon and laugh and laugh and laugh as I listened to the screech of metal on metal.

Then, of course, there is the driver who insists on scaring me to death by passing on a two-lane highway. You know what I mean — you are driving along when up ahead you see a car approaching.

You aren't worried because that car is in his lane and you are in your lane. Then, out from behind the approaching car, comes that speeding maniac who is sure he can get over in your lane and past the other car before he wipes you off the face of the highway.

But somehow I never share that maniac's confidence. I am sure he is going to kill me.

But the tables would be turned, I am sure, if he pulled out into my lane and saw a tank looming in front of him. He would be the one with the sweat on his brow and his heart in his mouth.

A tank, come to think of it, would be useful in quite a few ways. If I remember correctly, they are terribly noisy things to drive in.

A fellow can't hear a word another person is saying, so a tank would be ideal for that Sunday afternoon drive with one's wife.

A tank would also solve the parking problem to some extent. Now if one takes his new car and hands it over to the tender care of a parking lot attendant he can almost be sure that his beautiful mechanical buggy will not come out of the ordeal unscathed.

★ ★ ★

But even the most adroitly malicious parking lot attendant would have difficulty in putting a dent in the side of a tank.

In fact, with any luck this might make a proud parking lot attendant — the fellow who brags that there isn't a car made that he can't muss up in two minutes — quit in frustration.

Of course, there may be some drawbacks. Neighbors might be a mite skeptical about living close to a fellow who spends his spare time driving around in a real tank. And one's driveway might get badly chewed up by those heavy treads.

But in the long run, I think a tank might be the sensible answer to a lot of today's driving problems. And if my wife insists, I'll have it painted in two tones and leave the turret open. She's always wanted a two-tone convertible.

Campaign Spending

Cost of U.S. Democracy Goes Up

By WILLIAM MILLINSHIP from Washington

THE United States Congress, holding its first "lame duck" session for 20 years, has a mountain of unfinished legislation to try to get through by Christmas. One of the first issues likely to be brought to a head is an attempt to set a limit on the amount of money to be spent on radio and television advertising in the 1972 elections.

A bill to do this passed both Houses of Congress earlier this year, only to be vetoed by President Nixon. The bill's supporters in the Senate are now trying to put together the two-thirds majority needed to override the veto.

★ ★ ★

No one really disagreed, at least in public, with the basic principles involved — the cost of running for election has got out of hand, allowing rich men more or less to buy their way into public office is a bad thing, a system to put a ceiling on campaign spending would be a good thing . . .

That said, the reform starts to run into the hard fact of political life that the Republican Party is much richer than the Democratic Party and can afford to buy more time on television. It is an advantage the Republicans are understandably reluctant to throw away.

The Democrats, still about $9 million in debt after the 1968 election, had sound party reasons for indignation when Mr. Nixon vetoed the Campaign Spending Bill. The Democrats' party chairman, Lawrence O'Brien, accused the president of acting to defend "the Republican Party's campaign to saturate the public airways with paid spot commercials."

The bill's main provision would limit the spending on political advertising by candidates for the presidency, Congress, governorships and other offices to seven cents for each vote cast in the previous election, or in small constituencies to a round sum of $20,000. But it also promised candidates more for their money, since broadcasting companies would be allowed to charge only the lowest rates used for commercial advertisers.

By European standards, American candidates would still be able to spend huge sums on selling themselves, but there would have to be marked reduction in expenditure by presidential candidates. In 1972, the Republicans and Democrats would have a ceiling of $5,100,000 each, whereas in 1968 the Republicans spent about $12 million for Mr. Nixon and the Democrats over $6 million for Hubert Humphrey.

These figures explain the cynicism which greeted President Nixon's reasons for vetoing the bill. He argued that it would be ineffective, difficult to enforce, and would give incumbents an unfair advantage over less well-known challengers.

The president criticized the bill for dealing only with radio and television and said it "unfairly endangers freedom of expression."

The mid-term elections earlier this month, however, again illustrated all the old reasons for controlling campaign spending and added one or two others.

According to some estimates, candidates who would be affected by the bill spent something in the region of $200 million on their campaigns. By no means all of it went on broadcast advertising, but this form of publicity all too obviously accounted for a big part of the expenditure. Once again the country watched the curious spectacles of men spending millions of dollars to win jobs worth $60,000 a year.

★ ★ ★

One of the biggest spenders was a Democrat, Richard Ottinger, who is believed to have spent around $3,500,000, much of it provided by his very wealthy family, in trying to become senator for the state of New York. He conducted a television blitzkrieg to win the Democratic nomination, starting from almost total political obscurity, only to be defeated on November 3 in a three-sided race by the Conservative Party candidate, James Buckley.

Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York was probably the biggest spender of all. He won re-election at a cost that can only be guessed at — the wildest guess being $10 million.

There is clearly something wrong with a system which allows wealthy candidates to swamp their opponents with publicity, including "knocking copy" which attacks the rival instead of eulogizing the advertiser.

Congress certainly felt something had to be done, and the bill was originally passed in the Senate with the help of 17 Republicans. But voting to over-ride their president's veto is another matter.

★ ★ ★

One factor that may influence the Senate on this issue is the electorate's apparently increasing resistance to the television political advertisement selling a professionally-packaged candidate. During the recent campaign, slick publicity failed to work in many cases. In a few it visibly backfired. The most outstanding example was that of Democrat Lawton Chiles who won his Senate seat in Florida by walking around the state to prove that he could not afford to buy television and radio time on the same scale as his opponent.

The best known of the "image-makers" who sell their packaging services to candidates ended with surprisingly poor scores. Harry Reteaven, who helped to run Mr. Nixon's campaign in 1968, groomed five Republican Senate candidates this year. Four were defeated. Charles Guggenheim did rather better with four winners and five losers.

One argument of the image-makers is that they are usually called in to work miracles for hopeless candidates. But they are also aware that the ethics of their craft are being questioned by many Americans. A group of several political consultants even came out the other day in favor of the bill which the president vetoed.

Under United States federal law, a head of a household may make up to 200 gallons of wine a year, tax-free, in his bathtub or anywhere else in the house, as long as it is for his own consumption.

Thousands of amateur vintners take advantage of the law, and some bachelors in Cleveland recently decided that it sounded like a good idea, reports the Wall Street Journal.

"Not at all," said the U.S. treasury department. The exception is open only to heads of households, and bachelors don't qualify.

"A most unusual and probably unconstitutional law," one of the bachelor group commented.

But it is either go to the Supreme Court or go to the altar.

Neither prospect has the bachelors exactly enthused.

Dollar Surcharge on Welfare Prescriptions

Pharmacist Group Guilty

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Professional pharmacists Society was found guilty Friday on two charges under the federal combines Act in connection with a $1 surcharge on prescriptions filled for welfare recipients.

At the same time, the Pharmaceutical Association of B.C. was found not guilty on similar charges.

Sentence was to be passed on the society later by Mr. Justice Peter Seaton.

The society and the association were charged under the combines act with conspiring to unduly lessen competition in the sale of prescription drugs sold to welfare patients and with conspiring to restrain or injure trade or commerce.

The society was formed in 1968 to negotiate with the government on handling of welfare prescriptions. Pharmacists claimed they were losing money on the prescriptions.

Evidence was the society in 1969 was advised the minister of social welfare would make no adjustment in the payment for welfare prescriptions. The society then decided to impose a $1 surcharge on each prescription filled effective April 15, 1969.

The surcharge was to remain in effect until an acceptable contract had been signed between the society and the minister.

In finding the association not guilty Seaton said the crown had failed to prove the association was a party to the agreement to impose the surcharge.

Seaton said it was clear the society was the sponsor of the scheme and had assumed the responsibility of carrying it out.

He said it was not the intention of the conspirators to have a permanent surcharge, but to force the welfare department to agree to a higher price for prescription drugs.

Increase in CN Pension Price of Financing Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — New Democrat MPs have again quoted a stiff price for passage of a government bill to provide capital financing for Crown-owned Canadian National Railways and Air Canada.

New Democrat House Leader Stanley Knowles told the Commons Friday the party will seek a commitment from the government that it will call on the CNR to implement pension relief for retired employees.

It also wants a thorough examination by the Commons transport committee of the financial structure of the debt-ridden Crown corporation.

The NDP member presented a motion to delay second reading until the government promises to call on CN to implement changes in its pension plan as recommended in a report of the Commons transport committee that the House accepted Oct. 7.

The motion was later ruled out of order by Speaker Lucien Lamoureux.

Knowles said the party will delay second reading of the bill, as it did last year, until it gets the commitments.

In 1969, the NDP held up the government's legislative program for more than a week on a similar bill. Outside the Commons, the government finally agreed to refer the pension and capital structure issues to the transport committee.

After hearing testimony from both union and management officials last spring, the committee tabled a report in October calling for major changes in the CN pension plan. The rail unions have included the pension issue in current collective bargaining with the railway.

The present bill would authorize CN to spend up to $229 million in 1970 on property, branch lines, equipment, telecommunications, hotels and investment in affiliate companies.

* * *

CN could spend $80 million in the first six months of 1971 for obligations incurred earlier and could pay for other capital projects worth up to $163 million in the same period. Loans and debentures of up to $174 million for Air Canada would also be guaranteed.

John Lundrigan (PC-Gander Twillingate) warned MPs that Newfoundland had been CN's guinea pig to experiment with downgraded rail service and the rest of the country could suffer the same fate.

CN was "moving in a most monstrous manner," secretly planning to end what rail service remained in his province and other regions.

He accused CN and the Canadian transport commission of a "sneaky, conniving, surreptitious plan" to eliminate freight as well as passenger service.

'Auditors for Auditors' In Crown Corporations

OTTAWA (CP) — The government should appoint auditors to audit the auditors of the CNR, Air Canada and other Crown corporations, Jack Horner (PC-Crowfoot) suggested Friday.

The auditor-general, federal watchdog on spending procedures, could have a look as well at the huge CNR deficit and spending on Air Canada aircraft expenditures, Horner said in Commons debate on second reading of the annual financing bill for both corporations.

Perhaps, he said, the government should appoint an auditor or an independent committee, or perhaps the auditor-general should investigate the financial activities of the two corporations.

Horner

He said air traffic to and from Canada has been increasing in the last few years while the Air Canada percentage of these passengers has been going down.

Air Canada has ordered four jumbo jets. All jumbo jets in service for other airlines had been losing money since they started operation. Canada didn't have the traffic to fill them, let alone supersonic jets which he said wouldn't be needed for at least "another 20 years."

The CNR had been increasing freight rates frequently in the last few years but still had a huge deficit. The trend among the railways on passenger service was to "get out at all costs" and to discontinue lines.

To Guard Canadian Trade

Sharp Roughs Up Britons

LONDON (CP) — External Affairs Minister Sharp tackled two British cabinet ministers Friday over possible loss of Canadian exports from two current British moves.

One is Britain's attempted entry into the European Common Market, the other a recent British decision to impose a levy on grain exports to increase the selling price in this country. It is a switch from helping the growers by subsidizing them at the farm.

* * *

The Common Market entry is a long-term prospect, and informants said that after Sharp's meeting with the two ministers he put the immediate emphasis on the grain levy.

They said agreement was reached that there would be a close study by government experts of both countries of the effects of the levy on Canadian trade.

Sharp also emphasized the Canadian idea that there should be another world trade conference, somewhat along the lines of the Kennedy Round of tariff-lowering bargaining.

At a press conference earlier Friday, he said he had made this point both to the British government and to United States cabinet ministers.

* * *

Canada intends, Sharp said at his press conference, to persist in a campaign to get a world gathering under the auspices of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade — GATT — to reduce and eliminate trade barriers.

Later he spoke to British Trade Minister John Davies and to Joseph Godber, junior secretary for Commonwealth and foreign affairs. A spokesman said later that Sharp roughed up the Britons somewhat on the grain levy.

He was quoted as saying that Canada was "taken aback" by an apparent infringement of grain trading agreements between the two countries.

* * *

However, Davies and Godber both said it was unlikely the levy would affect Canadian trade.

The Canadian minister was told, it was understood, that the levy was put on imports because the Tory government wants to get out of socialized-type direct subsidies to farmers while at the same time encouraging them to produce on the basis of price.

Godber said the levy was unlikely to result in any higher production of grain in Britian and should not affect Canada's sale of hard wheat here.

Sharp was quoted as saying: "We're afraid that if negotiations on British entry into the Market are carried on without any corresponding moves on GATT or any form of freer international trade, the negotiations may take a purely inward-looking turn."

Prairie Prison Breakout

Holdup Ends In Capture Of Fugitives

CALGARY (CP) — The search for fugitives from the Prince Albert penitentiary was rewarded Friday as three of the four men sought were taken into custody following a bank robbery.

The fourth man, identified by police as Ralph Cochrane, 43, of Vancouver, eluded capture when he bolted from a moving car as police converged.

Police stopped the car minutes after a Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce was robbed of less than $2,000. With guns drawn, the officers arrested three men.

* * *

They were identified as Mickey Hieboff, 25, of Kamsack, Sask., Hubert Bollman, 37, of Edmonton and George Leclerc, 30, of Montreal.

Cochrane ran across parking lots and between buildings to avoid police. He was reported in various downtown shops but kept a step ahead of his pursuers.

Police said he is dangerous and could be armed with a sawed-off rifle.

* * *

He is the only person still at large from among the 11 who escaped Wednesday night by cutting through a wire fence surrounding the maximum-security prison.

Seven others were captured in Saskatchewan.

Five were captured a few hours after the break about 2 miles from the prison. Ronald Twerdoclib, 19, of Regina gave himself up to a priest Thursday after hiding overnight in the church.

* * *

Robert Desjarlais, 26, of Lac la Biche, Alta., who was serving a life sentence for non-capital murder, was arrested early Friday within 20 miles of Prince Albert.

Three men burst into the bank shortly after opening and one fired a shot from a rifle that went through three desks and missed a woman employee by a few inches.

"All I heard was a real loud shot," said employee Dolores Dussome.

"The bullet finished up on top of my desk."

* * *

The men ordered everyone to the floor and one bandit scooped money from the tellers' cages. After everyone was ordered to the back of the bank, the robbers fled in a car carrying Saskatchewan licence plates.

A person outside the bank wrote down the licence number and police caught the car less than 10 blocks from the bank.

Appeal Critic Fired

VANCOUVER (CP) — The United Community Services' board of directors has removed director Alex Bandy from office, after holding him partly responsible for the failure of this year's United Appeal campaign.

Bandy, secretary of the Unemployed Citizens Welfare Improvement Council, said when the campaign opened Oct. 5 that it fails to meet the needs of the people. He urged people to spend their money elsewhere, wher it would do more good.

This year's campaign, raising money for 65 member agencies, fell short by more than $325,000 despite several extensions.

It reached 91.9 per cent of the $4.3 million goal, collecting $3.97 million.

Armed Forces Get Raise

OTTAWA (CP) — A pay increase for the armed forces averaging six per cent was announced Friday by Defence Minister Donald Macdonald.

The increase applies to both the regular and reserve forces and is retroactive to Oct. 1.

Macdonald told the Commons later the increases apply to the ranks of colonel and below.

The percentage increases vary with rank and occupation. The higher percentage increases go to non-commissioned personnel, particularly corporals.

Macdonald said the increase will cost his department $20 million in the current fiscal year and $39 million in the full 1971-72 fiscal year.

A private who has just entered the armed forces now will receive $250 a month, an increase of $10.

A fully-trained private in the highest pay category will receive $443 a month, an increase of $30.

The highest-paid corporal now will receive $833 a month, an increase of $43.

A chief warrant officer who is also a flight engineer or observer will receive $1,005 a month, an increase of $48.

The new monthly basic pay for a lieutenant will be $525, an increase of $28.

This rate is for a lieutenant with minimum experience and no additional qualifications, one who has just graduated from a university-level officer course as opposed to one who has come up through the ranks.

A corporal with long service and various trades qualifications can thus make more than a lieutenant drawing minimum pay.

The base rate for a lieutenant commissioned from the ranks is $785, up $36.

A captain gets a $41 increase to $830 a month basic; a major $53 to $1,095 and a colonel $78 to $1,557.

A number of revisions have been made in flight pay.

The submarine allowance will be increased to a range of $60 to $180 a month from $45 to $115.

Sea duty allowance is increased by $15 a month to a maximum of $60 a month, depending on rank.

'Income Boosted 10 Per Cent' In Free Trade

TORONTO (CP) — A university economist presented a case for free trade Friday, estimating that Canada's national income would benefit by about 10 per cent.

Prof. Ronald Wonnacott, chairman of the economic department of the University of Western Ontario, said world tariffs cut the country's trading income. Ten per cent was a "conservative estimate" of the loss.

Wonnacott told a conference sponsored by York University and the Canadian Importers Association that elimination of tariffs would increase consumer purchasing power by about 4 per cent.

R. K. Joyce, director of international economic relations and trade policy for the federal department of finance, told the conference that Britain's negotiations for entry into the European Economic Community are a principal concern to Canada and its potential for development of foreign trade.

A. J. R. Smith, chairman of the Economic Council of Canada, said Canada's export and import trade has the capacity to more than double in volume by 1980. He said the proportion of trade with the United States is not likely to change much during this decade but may increase slightly.

Smith said the high value of Canada's floating dollar would harm the country's trade picture if it continues.

Hearing Told

Officer Slow Learner

TORONTO (CP) — A federal inquiry was told Friday that Donald Rowland, co-pilot of an Air Canada jetliner that crashed here July 5 killing all 109 persons aboard, "learned procedures slowly and lacked confidence" in his own ability.

First Officer Rowland was on the flight deck of California Galaxy Flight 621 which smashed nose-first into a farmer's field three minutes after bouncing off a runway at Toronto International Airport.

The aircraft hit the runway seconds after the ground-spoiler braking system Rowland was operating was prematurely deployed while the DC-8-63 passenger jet was still airborne.

★ ★ ★

Assessments of the first officer's flying capabilities and personality traits prepared by Air Canada examiners during the last six years were read into the inquiry record.

At Thursday's session, a transcript of what was said in the cockpit by Rowland, Second Officer Harry Hill and the pilot, Captain Peter Hamilton, during the last 12 minutes of Flight 621 was entered as evidence.

In the three minutes between impact on the airport runway from a height of 60 feet and the final crash, Rowland apologized to Captain Hamilton three times.

★ ★ ★

Friday, reports on all three officers prepared by Air Canada supervisors were introduced by Allan Clark, a federal transport department operations specialist.

Clark backgrounded the voice recorder transcript with interpretations of technical phrases the three men used and their personal flying and training histories.

Of Rowland, the reports said.

"He learned procedures slowly and lacked confidence ... very slow to learn ... considered satisfactory, but further improvements required ..."

★ ★ ★

However, one Air Canada examiner said in the fall of 1967 that Rowland had shown "satisfactory potential to become an Air Canada captain."

But in July, 1968, Captain G. K. Edwards, assistant general manager of Air Canada's flight operations, wrote into Rowland's record: "Extremely doubtful captain material."

Clark said there was nothing in Second Officer Hill's record indicating anything other than that he was thoroughly competent to act as a second officer.

★ ★ ★

He made similar observations about Captain Hamilton with one major addition — the veteran pilot had deep reservations about the methods Air Canada used to deploy the ground spoiler system, believed a factor in the Toronto crash.

Urban Transit

Federal Help Hinted

VANCOUVER (CP) — Opposition leader Robert Stanfield said Friday he can see no reason why the federal government shouldn't get involved with urban transportation.

"It has to be a three-way thing like the approach to urban redevelopment and low-cost housing," Stanfield said during a talk at city hall with Mayor Tom Campbell and B.C. Hydro chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum.

Campbell said Greater Vancouver was facing a bill of up to $1 billion for transportation "which is beyond the realm of possibility as far as payment by local taxpayers is concerned." He said the federal and provincial governments would have to help.

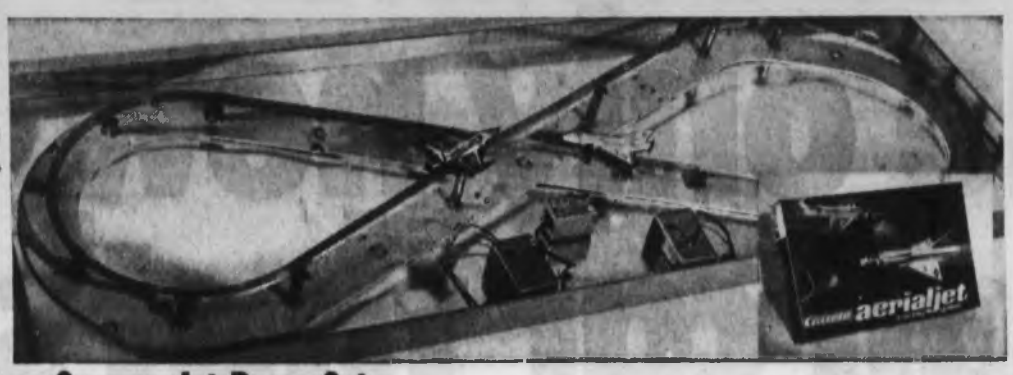

The conservative leader flew back to Ottawa later Friday, after two days in British Columbia.

Fire Kills Six

Premiers' Views Vary on Deutsch Report

Maritimes Weigh Political Union

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Premiers of the three Maritime provinces showed varying degrees of enthusiasm Friday toward a new proposal for full political union of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island.

They received the proposal from Dr. John Deutsch, who headed a 24-year Maritime Union Study commissioned by the three provincial governments.

Deutsch calls for complete political union within 10 mey and lays out a course of action to bring it about.

Premier Richard Hatfield of New Brunswick showed the most support for the idea. Premier Alex Campbell of Prince Edward Island the least. Premier Gerald Regan of Nova Scotia pursued a middle course.

However, the three agreed to meet in January to consider the report. Exact time and place were not specified.

Deutsch, principal of Queen's University in Kingston, Ont., told reporters after presenting the report he does not expect action toward union to be taken immediately but "the main thing is to get started as soon as possible."

He recommends reconsideration of the whole idea after five years if progress at that time shows complete union is unlikely to be accomplished in a further five years.

Hatfield, a Conservative, said his reaction to the report is "I like it."

"The commission has given us a vehicle that we can use to seriously discuss the union of the Maritime provinces," Hatfield said.

He suggested union would "give us the best chance to have some control over our own destiny in negotiations with the government of Canada."

One of the first things to learn would be the attitude of the federal government toward the concept. He hoped Ottawa would make a proposal as soon as possible.

The Liberal premiers of Nova Scotia and P.E.I. were more restrained. Regan acknowledged he has changed his opinion somewhat since the study began two years ago. At that time his reaction was "not one of great enthusiasm."

"I think it is timely in this region that we should be prepared to study any way in which we can improve our economic conditions," he said.

However "the people of Nova Scotia must be the final arbiters of whether political union or some lesser form of integration comes about."

He noted that Nova Scotians were brought into Confederation in 1867 without a chance to vote on the issue. It would not happen again.

Campbell said he is not prepared to commit the government and people of P.E.I. to political union until "we know what the full effects will be."

The report had produced "some answers" and "some indicators" and he received them with an open mind.

"But," he said, "the governments of these provinces do not want to move in certain directions without knowing that these moves will be in the best interests of the people we have been elected to serve."

The only new small car that's better than the Volkswagen.

It has a trunk that carries twice as much as any Beetle ever.
It has a completely new suspension system for a softer ride.
The front track is wider for better handling.
The brakes are bigger for quicker stops.
It has a longer wheelbase than the Beetle.
Yet it has a shorter turning radius for easier parking.
The inside is fully carpeted.
The heating system has outlets in 7 different places.
It has a new flow-through ventilation system with a 2-speed blower.
It even has more map pockets and ashtrays.
All in all, it's 89 ways better than the Beetle of old.
Thereby making it the only new small car this year that stands any chance of replacing the Volkswagen.
And if you think about it, that shouldn't come as any great surprise.
Because this year, of all years, if anyone was going to build a new small car to be better than the Volkswagen, you knew who it would be.

The Super Beetle.

Simple Cure Best

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Medical experts have indicated that plain old Aspirin is still a better buy than the millions of dollars' worth of fancy remedies sold yearly to relieve aches, pains and common colds.

Over and over in detailed testimony before a senate subcommittee this week, the message was the same: no matter how it is dressed up, inexpensive aspirin is the most effective ingredient in costly over-the-counter medicines.

* * *

And, half a dozen doctors testified, sometimes it is the only ingredient that works at all.

Witnesses indicated that aspirin — the yardstick against which similar painkillers are judged — is about the best mild analgesic available for home and hospital use.

They also testified that popular antihistamine cold tablets do nothing to cure colds at all — that it's the decongestants and aspirin added to them that dry up runny noses and ease aching.

U.S. Leading, 4-1 In Sub Missiles

LONDON (UPI) — The United States has a 4-1 lead over the Soviet Union in submarine-launched nuclear missiles and America's missiles are superior in performance to the Soviet rockets, Jane's Weapons Systems 1970-71 said Friday.

The authoritative publication said the U.S. is currently "clearly in the lead over Russia's submarine-launched rockets, outnumbering the USSR by something like 4-1.

* * *

"Unless there is an as yet undisclosed development in the USSR that represents an abnormally large technological advance, however, it seems fairly certain that the best U.S. missiles are superior in performance to the best USSR missiles," Jane's added.

But, said Jane's, official American pronouncements suggest that both the numerical and technical gaps are being rapidly closed by Russia.

On the other hand, Russia has overtaken numerically the United States in intercontinental ballistic missiles Jane's said.

* * *

The Soviet Union is estimated to have a total of 1,300 operational ICBMS, including 300 of the giant SS9 rockets. Experts have warned the latter could threaten America's powerful Minutemen rockets in their underground silos.

The United States, which not long ago had a substantial lead over Russia also in ICBMS, now has 1,054 ICBMS, and has not changed this number for some time, according to a recent report of the Institute for Strategic Studies in London.

* * *

The Soviets have been pushing the ICBM development and have increased them by 169 in the last year, Jane's said.

NDP Bill Captures Praise, But...

OTTAWA (CP) — New Democrat house leader Stanley Knowles won praise by Liberal and Conservative speakers in the Commons Friday as he introduced a private member's bill that would provide two weeks' notice for workers dismissed from their jobs.

Knowles himself said he feels the bill is "so reasonable, so minimal that one shouldn't have to argue about it all."

Framed as an amendment to the Canada Labor (Standards) Code, the bill would simply require that all employees in the federal labor jurisdiction be given either notice of a layoff two weeks in advance or else two weeks' wages in cases of immediate dismissal.

Heath MacQuarrie (P C — Hillsborough) said he agreed completely with the bill.

But the bill did not come to a vote.

Hanoi Raid

Dinner Remark Made Official

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon Friday confirmed President Nixon's Thanksgiving dinner remark that U.S. planes staged air strikes near Hanoi last weekend.

It also declined to rule out Hanoi charges that U.S. bombs were dropped in the area.

A White House official partially confirmed charges by Hanoi that U.S.-made Shrike missiles were fired into North Vietnam. He said "less than five" were fired but he did not say where they landed.

The North Vietnam government has accused the United States of killing 48 civilians by bombs that fell north of the 19th parallel. The U.S. government has contended that all of its activity north of the parallel was connected with the unsuccesful raid to free American prisoners of war from the Son Tay prison camp, 20 miles west of Hanoi.

The Pentagon issued its statement after Army Sgt. Corris Sworn, 23, Pompano Beach, Fla., said that Nixon told him of the air strikes as they sat together for Thanksgiving Day dinner at the White House.

Chess Lead Retained

PALMA DE MALLORCA, Spain (AP) — Robert Fischer of the United States defeated Borislav Ivkov of Yugoslavia in 44 moves Friday to retain his lead in an inter-zonal world tournament leading to the world chess championship.

After 13 rounds in the 23-round tournament, Fischer heads the standings with 9.5 points. Wolfgang Uhlmann of East Germany and Efim Geller of the Soviet Union have 8.5 points each.

Lumber Industry Earnings Plummeting

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

No section of Canadian industry has suffered worse in the 1970 erosion of profits than the companies in the forest product industries, and particularly those in B.C. where labor problems have compounded weak lumber market difficulties.

Another example of the way the province has suffered in its most important industry is provided in the nine-month earnings report by Crestbrook Forest Industries which greatly increased its volume of sales but turned a small profit into a heavy loss.

The up-and-coming Cranbrook company, which has a new pulp mill and two new sawmills in the Kootenays area, ran up a net loss in the nine months ended Sept. 30 of $5,616,283, before relief from taxes. A year ago it had a net profit of $165,625 in the same period.

Yet sales this year have risen to $17,140,933 from $12,643,321.

The return in sales was more than offset by higher expenses, from strikes, the start-up of two new sawmills and union wage increases.

V. C. Brown, president, said the depressed lumber market and the loss of exchange on the floating Canadian dollar contributed to the loss.

The pulp mill is operating near its capacity of 400 tons a day and the new sawmills are continuing to experience some start-up problems.

BOW MAKES OFFER

Bow Valley Industries has made an offer to acquire the outstanding shares of Syracuse Oils Ltd., another Calgary company in the oil and gas production and exploration business.

The basis of the offer is a share exchange which would give Syracuse one Bow Valley share for five Syracuse.

Syracuse, which has holdings in various parts of the world in addition to Canada, had 5,703,841 shares outstanding as of Dec. 31, 1969.

Syracuse shares reacted to the offer by adding .70 at 3.40 in active trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange. Bow Valley was up ¾ at 18.50.

An issue of $25,000,000 Dominion Glass sinking fund debentures is being offered at par.

The debentures are for 20 years and carry a 9⅛-per-cent coupon rate. They are non-callable for 15 years and are dated Dec. 15.

□

SEED PROFITS RISE

A sharp upturn in profits in the three months ended Sept. 30 is reported by Western Canadian Seed Processors Ltd., at $232,103 (9.1 cents a share) against $130,514 5.1 cents) in the corresponding period of 1969.

Earlier this month an offer to buy the outstanding shares of Western Canadian Seed at 54 a share was made by Canada and Dominion Sugar, an offer which the seed company's president said was inadequate.

Western Seed shares rose .20 to 4.00 in active trading on the Toronto Exchange Friday with the top trade at 4.15.

MORE BANK RESULTS

Two more Canadian chartered banks have announced their annual figures to show a record of growth in practically all aspects of banking business.

Bank of Nova Scotia had a balance of profits of $19,900,000 ($1.20 a share) up 12.2 per cent from $17,726,000 ($1.18) on fewer shares outstanding.

Its assets were at an all-time high of $6,369,000,000 at Oct. 31, up 7.2 per cent from a year ago.

The Toronto-Dominion Bank's net earnings after taxes and appropriations for losses were $18,900,000 ($1.26) compared with $17,269,000 ($1.15) a year ago.

Its total assets rose $196,000,000 to a new high of $5,428,000,000 and its real account increased $92,500,000 to $130,000,000.

B.C. Meeting

The B.C. Nursery Trades Association will hold its annual meeting and convention from Dec. 2 to 4, at the Empress Hotel.

Union Angle Stressed

The newly appointed principal of the Ecumenical Theological College at the University of B.C. will give two sermons here Sunday morning.

The principal, Rev. Dr. W. S. Taylor, will preach at the 10 a.m. service in Gordon Head United Church, when the church celebrates its ninth anniversary.

He will also preach at a joint service of St. David's Anglican Church and Cordova Bay United, in St. David's Church, at 10:30 a.m.

Rev. Franck Patterson of the two United churches, will conduct the Anglican communion service along with Rev. Gordon Walker, rector of St. David's.

"Although individual conscience are being respected, it is anticipated that the majority of both churches will be making their communion at this special service and thereby experiencing the union that is at the heart of communion," Walker said.

"Dr. Taylor is an appropriate person to speak on the progress and meaning of union between Anglican and United churches," he continued, "because this week his United Church College has concluded a union with Anglican Theological College at B.C., which is to take effect next June."

The union of the two colleges is the result of several years' negotiation. Taylor is principal of Union Theological College.

He was born in Ujjain, Central India, in 1905, and was educated in India and Ontario. He was ordained in 1929.

He was a missionary in India from 1930 to 1947, at the same time acting as a professor at Indore Christian College at the University of Agra. He was acting principal from 1944 to 1946. He took up his post at UBC in 1948.

□

In observance of St. Andrew's Day, which falls on Monday, members and friends of the Victoria St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society will worship at 7 p.m. Sunday in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. Dr. J. L. W. McLean, honorary chaplain of the society, will preach the sermon.

□

Every year since 1916 the Victoria Particular Council has been aiding the poor at Christmas.

The council, which has representatives from many of the Roman Catholic parishes in the area, collects food and donations each year to make up hampers. Last year 105 such hampers were distributed to needy families.

Again this year the council will give more fortunate families and individuals the opportunity of helping those less fortunate.

Donations of food or complete hampers will be made at Victoria Roman Catholic churches after each mass on Sunday, Dec. 6.

Those wishing to donate cash can send it to the St. Vincent de Paul Society, 582 Johnson. The society is co-ordinating the program.

□

Divine help is always at hand, according to the lesson-sermon to be read at 9:30 and 11 a.m. Sunday in First Church of Christ, Scientist.

The subject is: Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced.

The golden text is from Isaiah: "Fear thou not; for I am with thee: be not dismayed; for I am thy God: I will strengthen thee; yea, I will help thee; yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness."

★ ★ ★

One of the passages to be read from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, by Mary Baker Eddy, states:

"At all times and under all circumstances, overcome evil with good. Know thyself, and God will supply the wisdom and the occasion for a victory over evil. Clad in the panoply of Love, human hatred cannot reach you."

Anniversary

Bill Thompson, Community Service manager of the Union Oil Company of Canada, will arrive in Victoria Monday to take part in the Victoria Boys' Club tenth anniversary celebrations at the Boys' Club Dec. 1. He will also address the Douglas Rotary Club at 6:15 p.m. Nov. 30 in the Carleton Club in Esquimalt.

Tidal Wave Relief $100,000 Higher

OXFAM of Canada has contributed more than $100,000 for the relief of survivors of the cyclone and tidal wave in the Ganges Delta in East Pakistan.

Three helicopters and a hovercraft were sent. Among groups being helped are the Brothers of the Holy Cross, Canadian missionaries working in the area.

Brother Flavian Laplante of St. Aime Que., has worked in the fishing community for 20 years organizing co-operatives and general development. He acted as chairman of the emergency relief committee set up by the government after the 1960 cyclone. He will organize relief measures for all inhabitants of the area.

OXFAM will assist in other ways. Field representative Richard Taylor now is in Chittagong to find out what is the most useful help to give.

Donations are being handled in Victoria by OXFAM of Canada, 795 Meaford Avenue.

Yule Season Marked By CGIT Services

Within the next few weeks CGIT groups in Greater Victoria will be conducting their annual vesper services to mark the approach of the Christmas season.

The services, a tradition for about half a century, are held each year all across Canada in December and they involve churches of various denominations.

Greater Victoria has about 350 Canadian Girls In Training and about as many Explorers who could be described as their little sisters.

★ ★ ★

When CGIT members grow up they continue in the spirit of community service, Gertrude Patmore of First United Church said this week.

Miss Patmore, who works with the church's outreach program, said she noticed this after working with CGIT groups and older groups over the years.

★ ★ ★

"They learn concern for each other and for their fellow man," she said, "and the training persists."

Various groups have different projects. Some adopt orphans or foster children in underdeveloped countries.

When fall and Christmas bazaars are being held in the various churches, there is usually a table prepared by the CGIT and Explorer groups.

The girls at Cadboro Bay United Church will be out in force from 2 to 5 p.m. next Saturday for the church's Christmas bazaar. They'll use the proceeds from their booth to support overseas missions.

★ ★ ★

Earlier this week girls of both groups — Naida Densmore, 16; Janet Streight, 9; Caroline Thwaite, 10, and Laurel Curtis, 9 — were working on their project.

Ecumenical Service For Advent

An ecumenical prayer service will be held in the chapel of Queenswood House of Studies, 2494 Arbutus, at 7 p.m. Sunday involving Catholics, Anglicans and United Church members.

For the past three years members of Cadboro Bay United and St. George's Anglican Churches and the Thomas More Centre have been getting together for the Advent service.

★ ★ ★

Sunday's service will be conducted by Rev. Patrick Ratchford. The sisters of St. Ann will present the readings and reflections.

Bible Sunday, Dec. 6

The Canadian Bible Society has designated the advent season 1970 as a period of special promotion of the daily reading of the scriptures. Amid all of the changes taking place today the message of the Bible remains totally relevant and valid for it speaks into the human situation and offers both an explanation of man's predicament and a way of overcoming it.

Church Music Abounds

Organ, Songs Featured On Sunday

An evening of organ music and song will be held at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in Centennial United Church.

The evening will open with an organ recital by the church's organist, Ian Westmacott. He will play Percy Whitlock's Dolcezza; Healey Willan's Prelude on Quem Pastores; and Richard Peek's Vexilla Regis.

Westmacott is also a tenor soloist and he will sing solo and in duet with Gladys Shvetz, soprano.

The senior choir will sing Portnianski's Cherubim Song and the youth choir will sing Let There be Peace on Earth.

★ ★ ★

The congregation will also have an opportunity to sing when the organist plays some new songs and tunes including Lord of the Dance, Patrick Appleford's Lord, All the World Belongs to You, and Gordon Hartless' setting of Holy, Holy, Holy.

This is the first time Victorians will have the opportunity of hearing Westmacott in recital. A native of London, England, he came to Victoria as a child and grew up here and in Vancouver.

His early schooling took place at University School here. During the Second World War he served with the RCAF Bomber Command.

After graduation from the Royal Conservatory of Music, Toronto, in organ and voice in 1950 he became interested in church music, first as tenor soloist, then as organist and choir leader in a number of Ontario churches.

He was appointed organist at Centennial Church in October, 1969.

Rock Oratorio

The rock oratorio Joseph will be given a repeat performance in First United Church at 7:30 p.m. Sunday. It was originally performed there in June and has since been given at Victoria Fair in August and in Christ Church Cathedral in Vancouver.

Carol Service

Advent carol services will be held Sunday at 4 p.m. in St. John's Anglican Church and at 7:30 p.m. in Christ Church Cathedral.

The service at St. John's will be conducted by the new musical director, John Gallienne, who came to the church this fall. A native of Guernsey, Channel Islands, he is a graduate of the Guildhall School of Music, London.

★ ★ ★

He came to Victoria from Ottawa where he worked with the boys' choir at St. Mark's Church.

Sunday's service at the cathedral will be patterned after the one at King's College, Cambridge, musical director Beal Thomas said this week.

The cathedral will be in darkness at the beginning of the service. The choir will enter in a candlelight procession.

Lessons and music will alternate "to help prepare our hearts and minds for the coming of the Lord to earth at Christmas," Thomas said.

The service will be sung by the newly formed choir of boys and men. The public is invited to both services.

Bach, Dvorak

A concert of sacred vocal and instrumental music will be held in The Church of Our Lord at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Proceeds will go towards restoration of the 100-year-old organ.

Taking part in the program will be mezzo-soprano Andrea Mellis; Elizabeth Chinnick, organ; Jeremy Wilkins, piano; Hilary Frost, oboe; James Kennedy, recorder, and Frances Carter, organist for the church.

Works by Bach, Telemann, Dvorak, Purcell and Britten will be heard.

Children Need Foster Homes

Denson Can Be Certain Of Stampeder Attention

By JIM TAYLOR

TORONTO — Rain spit fitfully over Toronto Friday night, but Jim Duncan didn't have time to worry about it. He was too busy worrying about Moses Denson.

"Denson has become the best halfback in Canada," Duncan says positively. "If we're gonna beat those guys, we'll have to stop him."

"Those guys" are Montreal Alouettes, who play Duncan's Calgary Stampeders for the Grey Cup and Canada's football championship this morning. And Duncan looks at them with the same unqualified respect he had for Saskatchewan Roughriders.

LOT ALIKE

"The teams are a lot alike. Basically Montreal has a running club like Saskatchewan. The only difference is, the Riders used three running backs and Montreal uses two with two flankers.

"We don't know all that much about Bruce Van Ness, except that he's better than Dennis Duncan, the guy he replaced, and that Duncan was the leading rusher in the east last year. Our problem is Denson. He's big elusive, strong and blocks well, and he's been getting better every time out."

Duncan says he's pretty sure Calgary has the defence to stop Montreal, primarily because the Als two-back system makes things easier for middle linebacker Wayne Harris. The entire defence is geared to keeping Harris free so he can go to the ball, and with two backs, says Duncan, he'll be able to find it that much sooner.

However, Montreal's defence has come on of late, to the point where Duncan considers it the best in the east. Still, he feels the Stamps can score. No less an authority than Saskatchewan head-coach Eagle Keys goes further and says the Stampeders will put 28 points on the board.

In the only league meeting between the two this year, the Stamps won, 11-4, but Duncan discounts that one because Montreal was just coming off a game in Regina with only two days' rest.

TARPS PULLED OFF

Today's game is unique among recent Grey Cups in that both teams go into it healthy and should have a good playing field, unless overnight rain damages the newly-turfed sections of CNE stadium. For a change, the game should be decided on the field and not in the infirmary.

Tarpaulins were pulled off the field Friday to dry out, but a night watchman stood guard overnight with crews on standby to roll it back should the rain become heavy. "Ideally," says groundskeeper Ken Twigg, "the field would be at freezing point just at game time. What we don't want, the worst thing that could happen, would be sudden heavy rain to turn things mushy."

Sam Etcheverry, who took over as head coach and helped bring the Als from the cellar to the Grey Cup game in one season, says the key for his club will be Sonny Wade's newly-polished abilities to ready defences and come up with automatics at the line.

DOUBLE COVERAGE

"He hasn't been able to do it until recently, which is one of the reasons Terry Evanshen didn't get the ball as often as we would have liked. Terry had double coverages, and Sonny couldn't adjust to take the pressure off. Now he can, and with Terry's knowledge of the Calgary defence (he was a Stampeder last year), it could be quite a factor. I expect to see Terry catch a lot."

Stampeders' record against passing was the best in the CFL — only 5.6 yards per pass. But Etcheverry feels that the return of Garry Lefebvre at flanker gives the Als extra strength to offset those statistics.

"In other words," he said, "I don't believe they can blanket all our receivers at once. The rest is up to Sonny."

Flame-Red Downs Markers With Lonesome Yardstick

TORONTO (CP) — The 1971 Grey Cup game will be on a Sunday, Nov. 28, in Vancouver; this year's game will feature new flame-red downs markers with a "lonesome yardstick" on the other side of the field.

Studies are going ahead on the possibility of a full interlocking schedule between the Eastern and Western football conferences; the Canadian Football League head office operation costs $1,000 a day.

Commissioner Jake Gaudaur of the CFL came out of executive committee hearings Friday with a report on what the league has been doing this year and what is planned for the future.

There was no decision on television rights, on which the CBC and CTV have bid and on which negotiations are continuing.

The CFL, at the request of the clubs, looked into the possibility of a full interlocking schedule by 1972—the earliest date on which such a move could come about—and presented to the nine teams an "exploratory report."

"We took a look at the full interlocking schedule and made a brief report," Gaudaur said.

"The basis we were working on was that each team would play every other team at home and away once. There are problems to be ironed out. The full interlocking schedule, strangely, is feasible if you have five teams in one division and four in the other as we have now.

"If a 10th team is involved, you're suddenly talking about an 18-game schedule."

At present, Western Conference teams play 16 games during the regular season; the four EFC clubs play 14 each.

NO TARGET DATE

"All this is exploratory," Gaudaur stressed. "There is no target date. We were looking toward 1972 only because that's the earliest year for which no schedule has been drawn up. There are many problems, such as traditional rivalries and travel costs, to be considered."

The commissioner's office is expected to make a fuller report to the CFL annual meeting in Winnipeg on Feb. 9.

NEW FRANCHISE SOUGHT

Gaudaur said preliminary overtures have been heard from London, Ont., for a CFL franchise but that financing plans for a London stadium are not complete.

The 1972 Grey Cup game is scheduled for Hamilton, conditional upon extension of Civic Stadium to bring it up to Grey Cup seating standards. Such enlargement is expected to cost $1.5 million and a civic vote on the issue is set for Dec. 7.

$1,000 PER DAY

Gaudaur said the estimate for next year's operation of the CFL headquarters is $368,000 "or $1,000 a day." This year, for the first time, this will include such major expenses as $125,000 in salaries for league on-field officials, previously a responsibility of the separate conferences.

Grey Cup receipts for this year are estimated at nearly $750,000: $460,000 from ticket sales, $205,000 from television rights, $20,500 from the sale of radio rights, $19,500 from programs and $35,000 from film rights.

The team based on Victoria Centennials outhit the Dominican Republic 11-6, but couldn't get a clutch blow.

Murray Gage-Cole of Vancouver became the first Canadian pitcher in the tournament to go the distance, giving up one earned run, six hits and striking out six in eight innings. He walked none.

The winners scored two runs in the sixth on two hits, a hit batsman and an error by catcher Lorne Bunyan of Victoria.

Barry Harvey of Victoria, Tom McKenzie of Kitchener, and Bunyan each had two hits off winning pitcher Eleodoro Arias. Yves Blanshard of Montreal, with a double, now has nine hits in seven games.

The Canadians left two runners on base in both the second and sixth innings and had the leadoff batter on base three times.

Canada plays Italy today. Italy scored its first win Friday.

In other games at Barranquilla, the United States and Cuba warmed up for their crucial meeting today with easy victories.

Unbeaten Cuba, the defending champion, won its seventh straight by blanking The Netherlands Antilles, 7-0. The once-beaten Americans made their record, 7-1 by crushing Guatemala, 13-1, behind the two-hit pitching of James Crowford.

Italy defeated Holland, 8-2.

Cougars Top Pesky Bruins

Victoria Cougars scored four unanswered goals in the third period to dump a stubborn Chilliwack Bruins, 7-3, Friday in a British Columbia Junior Hockey League game in Chilliwack.

Cougars, leaders in the Coastal Division, had their hands full with the last-place Bruins, winners of only four of 20 games this season.

Bruins jumped into 2-0 lead before the Cougars got one goal back on a power-play in the first period.

NOT QUITE FINISHED

Another manpower advantage early in the second period allowed the Cougars to put things on even terms and they pulled ahead six minutes later. However, Bruins weren't quite finished and tied the score before the period ended.

The heavy-hitting tactics of the Cougars finally paid off in the third period when the Bruins tired and lost their hustle.

Defenceman Bob Mayer, playing one of his best games of the season, and Tom Masp, still sparkling at his new centre position, led the Cougar attack with two goals each. Mark Thomas, Lonnie Miles and Bruce Cowick got the other goals.

Ross Smith, Greg Reid and Ron Kennedy scored for the Bruins.

Cougars were missing forward Rob Little and defenceman Gerry Bond, who had to write university exams. Coach Ron Maxwell used only three defencemen, Mayer, Randy Bock and Dale Pannock.

Little and Bond will return tonight when the Cougars play host to Vernon Essos at Memorial Arena. Game time will be 8:30 p.m.

In other games Friday, Vancouver centennials and Penticton Broncos battled to a 1-1 tie in Penticton and New Westminster Royals dumped Vernon, 5-2, in New Westminster.

Lionel Trudell in the Vancouver net was a standout, making 37 saves, including 15 in the first period when his mates managed only four shots.

Dale Turner scored for Penticton and Ray Todd for Vancouver.

Burnaby North, Cowichan . . . . . Play for Other Spot

North Delta Reaches Final

By KING LEE

Ian Hilder's second goal of the match, on a penalty shot in overtime, gave North Delta Huskies a 3-2 win over Winston Churchill of Vancouver in a B.C. high school soccer championship match Friday night at Royal Athletic Park.

It was a rematch of the two teams which met for the Lower Mainland championship won by North Delta, 1-0.

Instead, North Delta will meet the winner of today's semi-final between defending-champion Burnaby North Vikings and Cowichan, for the provincial title at Royal Athletic Park at 8 p.m.

PLAYED IN BLIZZARD

Playing in an intermittent blizzard, the two teams were locked in a scoreless battle until the last eight minutes of regulation time during which the clubs scored two goals each.

Roger Tetrault got the first goal of the match at 27 minutes, scoring from close in on a neat, three-way passing play from Jim Anderson and Earl Osipov to give Winston Churchill the lead.

North Delta stormed back and Tom Hill intercepted a back-pass from a Winston Churchill fullback to goalkeeper Andy Salt three minutes later and booted the ball into the net.

HUSKIES LEAD

With three minutes left, Hilder gave Huskies the lead when his brother, Glen, fed a pass up the middle and Ian, with his back to the goal, kicked it while falling backwards, catching Salt off guard.

Winston Churchill forced the overtime when Anderson scored with a minute left as he trapped Osipov's pass and waited for goalkeeper Danny Chapman to make his move before scoring.

The winning shot was set up five minutes into overtime when Tom Hill, on a clear shot, had his kick batted away by Brent Francis. Salt was caught out of position and Hill's shot was a sure goal until the hand infraction.

PENALTY KICKS

Winston Churchill scored their second straight 4-0 win in the championship, beating Castlegar in a Friday morning match at University of Victoria grounds while North Delta ran into unexpected trouble with Kamloops before coming out with a 6-5 decision on penalty kicks. The match was tied, 3-3, after 70 minutes of regulation time and 20 minutes of overtime.

Mount View Hornets, knocked out of contention for the provincial title when they lost, 0-2, to defending-champion Burnaby North, came back in a consolation match to blank Castlegar, 3-0.

MEET AT 9 A.M.

Cowichan will meet Burnaby North this morning starting at 9 a.m. at Centennial Stadium.

Cowichan scored their second straight shutout in the tournament, a 2-0 win over Abbotsford. Abbotsford trimmed Kamloops, 4-0, in another consolation match in the modified, double-knockout event.

Ed Thomas scored twice in Winston Churchill's win over Castlegar. Craig Randall and Tetrault were the other scorers.

Bill MacRae, who scored the only goal against Mount View, scored twice and Ian Hilder scored one goal in regulation time for North Delta while Brad Nelson (2) and Blair Smith scored for Kamloops. In the penalty shots, Ian and Glen Hilder and Wayne Trapton scored for the Huskies while Kamloops goals were scored by Mario Commozzetto and Nelson.

SCORELESS HALF

After a scoreless first half, North Burnaby got goals from Ken Crompton and Bob Dean, on a penalty shot, to beat Mount View.

Barry Hilton, Randy Johnson and Bob Bolitho were the Hornets' scorers against Castlegar.

Stan Holman scored in the first half for Cowichan and Bob Nult clinched it with a second-half goal against Abbotsford.

MATTY SCORED TWICE

Tom Matty fired two goals and Ken Garrett and Ray Masse one goal each in Abbotsford's win against Kamloops.

Besides the Burnaby North-Cowichan clash at 9 a.m., Mount View and Abbotsford meet at 11:00 at Centennial followed by a 2 p.m. match between the two losing semi-finalists.

Seals Still Winless In Own Division

OAKLAND — California Golden Seals continued a strange pattern of play when they were beaten, 3-2, by Minnesota North Stars in the only Friday night action in the National Hockey League.

Seals have now played 10 games in their own division without a win, losing nine times and tying once. Their only five victories have been in inter-divisional play, and four of their victims have been long-established clubs.

Seals, who have scored only 13 goals in their 10 intra-divisional games, have defeated Boston Bruins, Montreal Canadiens, New York Rangers, Toronto Maple Leafs and Buffalo Sabres. In addition, they have a tie with the Rangers for a 5-8-1 card in inter-divisional play.

Seals were never ahead in going down to their sixth straight defeat. They twice tied the score in the four-goal second period, then lost to a third-period goal by Jude Drouin.

It was the seventh goal for the rookie obtained in a deal with Montreal Canadiens, and he also drew an assist on Danny Grant's opening goal.

It was quite a show for the ex-Canadiens on both clubs. They accounted for all the scoring with Danny O'Shea getting the other Minnesota goals and Ernie and Bill Hicke scoring for Seals.

Victory moved North Stars into third place in the West Division. They have 21 points from their 20 games, one more than Philadelphia Flyers and six fewer than the second-place St. Louis Blues.

First Test Match

Aussie Batsman Cracks Record

BRISBANE (Reuter) — Opening batsman Keith Stackpole hit a magnificent unbeaten century as Australia piled up 308 for two against England on the opening day of the first test cricket match here Friday.

The powerfully-built Victorian batted all day to finish with 175, including 23 boundaries.

It was his highest score in first-class cricket, topping the 140 not out he scored for Victoria against the West Indies in 1969.

Ian Chappell and Doug Walters both shared century partnerships with Stackpole after the Australians had lost skipper Bill Lawry in the fifth over of the match.

Lawry, who won the toss and elected to bat on a gray, humid morning, attempting to hook fast bowler John Snow with the total 12 was caught by wicket-keeper Alan Knott.

Chappell joined Stackpole and by lunch they had taken the score to 82-1.

Chappell, who made 59, failed to beat Brian Luckhurst's underarm throw from cover.

Walters' partnership with Stackpole realized 145 in 153 minutes by the close.

This is the first test in a six-match series.

Cooper

'Enry's 'Ammer in Business—Briefly

By IAIN MacLEOD

LONDON (CP) — Henry Cooper is back with a bang.

His latest victim, Spain's national hero, Jose Urtain, only had one eye to cry with after his painful defeat—Cooper had closed the other eye with his devastating left hook.

But even though the 36-year-old Cockney has regained the European heavyweight boxing title, he is nearing the end of his long career.

"Two or three more fights and that's it," he said through the sweat after his Urtain tussle. His manager, Jim Wicks, agreed. "He is getting too old to stake championships every time he fights," Wicks said. "Henry is entitled to stay as long as he can at his summit."

Wicks does not see Cooper defending his regained European title before next April, largely for income tax reasons. In between, Cooper is using new tactics against his toughest opponent, the taxman. After Christmas he flies to South Africa to handle a couple of "easier" bouts primarily to improve his bank account.

He has earned in England nearly £500,000 ($1,250,000) during his 16 years of professional fighting but because of tax he hasn't £100,000 he can call his own.

But Cooper is far from broke. With a £25,000 house and an expensive sports car, he lives like a champion. But in the back of every successful boxer's mind is the knowledge that unless he keeps fighting the money will fade away.

Wicks sees the future of a retired Cooper as grim. "All he's got to look forward to is a British Boxing Board of Control pension of £3 a week at 50 for winning three championship belts outright."

But the longer Cooper keeps fighting, the more he has at stake. Terry Goodwin, writing in The Daily Telegraph, suggests that now is as good a time as any to quit: "My view is that the fight with Urtain should be Cooper's last and, trite though it may sound, he should bow out with grace as undefeated British and European champion."

Rumor has it that 20-year-old Joe Bugner, an improving British heavyweight, wants Cooper in the opposite corner early in 1971. The fight should be spectacular, with all Cooper's titles at stake as well as Bugner's fast-rising reputation as a hard man to put down. But June would have to be the deadline for the meeting, Wicks said. After that time Henry will probably make his exit.

Out of the ring Cooper may collect another title before he's through—a knighthood. The newspaper The Sun noted that footballer Stanley Matthews and cricketer Len Hutton among others were knighted for services to their respective sports. The paper suggested that in the New Year's honors list the name of Henry Cooper be added for a knighthood: "No man in Britain commands more respect as a boxer or as a man than the newly crowned European champion."

Cooper's Italian wife, Albina, dislikes her husband's profession. She doesn't watch his fights on TV and never listens to radio coverage.

After the Urtain fight, she spoke of the dreadful moments she experiences when Henry returns home battered after a fight.

His retirement couldn't come too soon for her. "I wish he would quit the ring," she said.

But Cooper may just keep going as long as his left hook, better known as "'Enery's 'ammer", can nail down European opponents.

Rookie of Year

Carl Morton of Montreal Expos, an outfielder-turned-pitcher who piled up an 18-11 record for the last-place Expos has been named National League rookie of the year. Morton received 11 votes from the 24-man selection committee to edge hard-hitting Bernie Carbo of Cincinnati by three.

Namath Out For Season

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Namath was formally placed on the reserve list of the New York Jets Friday, making him ineligible for the remainder of the National Football League season.

The star quarterback, who injured his left wrist in a game against Baltimore Oct. 18, had been on the "move" list, idling him for two games at a time, with the hope that he might be ready later in the year.

Miller Storms to Heritage Golf Lead

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Tour sophomore Johnny Miller carved a sparkling five-under-par 66 and charged into the second-round lead in the $100,000 Heritage Golf Classic Friday.

Miller, 23, seeking his first professional victory, had a 36-hole total of 138, four under par on the 6,655-yard Harbour Town golf links.

He held a one-stroke lead over former national amateur champion Steve Melnyk, 23, a hefty 250-pounder from Jacksonville, Fla. Melnyk, who said he had not yet made a decision about turning professional, had a 67 for 139.

Three strokes back were first-round leader Homero Blancas, Bob Lunn and Bert Greene. Lunn had a 67, Greene a 68 and Blancas a 72.

Bert Yancey, with a 67, and defending champion Arnold Palmer, with a 70, were next at 143.

Jack Nicklaus had a par 71 and was well back at 146.

The six-foot-two Miller, a skinny blonde from San Francisco, is busiest of the touring pros with 123 competitive rounds this year. He has won about $50,000 in this, his first full year on the tour.

Sexploitation Movies Sagging

A Curious Turnabout

By CHARLES CHAMPLIN
(Colonist-Los Angeles Times Service)

HOLLYWOOD — It is not often that bad news is good news. But there are signs that the sexploitation movie houses are suffering badly at the box office, and I can't bring myself to cry.

Driving along Sunset Strip here the other day, I noticed the glossiest of the skinflick theatres had reverted to showing legitimate movies. And a nice little art house which went porno for a while has gone back to playing first-rate foreign films.

* * *

The man who owns the theatre remarked his tenants had played to 10 or 15 porno customers a day, at $5 a head. "Now they're showing good stuff at two bucks a ticket, and the place is two-thirds full."

A local exhibitor confirms many of the exploitation houses are ailing, and for what seems to be a classic Hollywood reason. Everybody jumped on a bandwagon which wasn't going anyplace. The success of a few films in a few houses led to the opening of a large number of new sex theatres. They now find themselves competing for a hard-core audience which proves to be much smaller than the entrepreneurs anticipated. Despite the high admission prices and the cheapness of the films, the profit margins on a handful of daily customers are razor-thin.

* * *

I found it fascinating and significant that Quiet Days in Clichy, which merited comparison with I Am Curious (Yellow) in many ways, came to town recently and played the same two theatres in which Curious had been a year or so earlier. But Quiet Days died swiftly and quietly, while Curious had been a remarkable success.

The reason seems fairly obvious, at least in retrospect. It is clear that an awful lot of us were truly curious to see whether all the scandalous things we'd heard about Curious were true, to see what the new freedom of the screen really amounted to.

There were grounds for taking I Am Curious (Yellow) quite seriously as a work of the film-maker's art, and looking at it as an earnest statement about contemporary Sweden. But let's not kid ourselves that that's why the lines formed at the box offices, obviously.

But in the end watching Curious was a depressing experience; and once you understand that private parts can be made public, there's not a lot else for normal folk to do except say, "Yeah, so what."

* * *

Whatever its right to be shown in public, Quiet Days in Clichy was by its nature strong, special medicine, with few claims to the attention of the mass, mainstream movie audiences. So it turned out.

For those of us who are at once civil libertarians and also advocates of honesty, good taste and restraint, the present signs are very heartening.

My own optimistic argument has been that in an open marketplace in which no unhealthy curiosities are created through artificial shortages, good taste and common sense will quickly assert themselves through free choice. It seems to me this is what has been happening. For all its notoriety, for example, Myra Breckinridge will lose a bundle.

There will continue to be audiences, mostly middle-aged and sad, for the plotless, depersonalized sex stuff; and an occasional film may command the attention of a larger audience (as one of the quasi-documentary Scandinavian films currently has).

But it would seem harder than ever now to make a case for restricting the freedom of the screen for audiences of consenting adults. The spectators have found, as Cecil Smith famously remarked, that sex isn't a spectator sport.

Wildlife on Screen

A soaring bald eagle and a barnacle sweeping microscopic food into its mouth are among the attractions to be seen in Acadian Reflections, an Audubon Wildlife film, photographed by Robert Fultz, showing the variety of wildlife in New England's Acadia National Park.

The film can be seen at 8 p.m., Dec. 4 and 5, with a 2:30 p.m. matinee Dec. 5, in the Newcombe Auditorium at the provincial museum.

Plenty of Piano

Music Week Recognized

By BERT BINNY

In recognition of Canada Music Week 1970, the Victoria Branch of the Registered Music Teachers' Association and the Victoria Conservatory of Music are staging two recitals at the Newcombe Auditorium.

* * *

The first took place Friday night and the second is this evening at 8 p.m.

Of 21 items on the program, 16 were piano solos or piano duets.

Rhythm class activities, led Ann Patterson, and a violin solo by Stephen Calder were the most interesting offerings in the first half of the program the first because the whole affair was so utterly ingenuous and the second because Stephen is a fine violinist and is rightfully more concerned about his music than about the audience.

* * *

Pianists who received high praise during the 1970 Music Festival and who played during the second half of the program were Frances Crampton, Roger Scoble and Lawrence Brown.

Two awards for posters advertising Canada Music Week were presented by Victoria Ald. Percy Frampton and the recipients were Celia Hartnell and Jennifer Rummel.

* * *

This evening's program offers a further 18 pianists along with two solo vocalists, a choir, a mandolin trio, a cellist, two violinists and a violist.

Film-Making Odyssey

Canadian Producer Takes to the Air

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe-circling odyssey of Arctic 7, a flying film studio which will be home to five men and two women for a year, has begun.

Toronto film-maker David Harris and his six assistants will take off in a converted U.S. Air Force DC-3 cargo plane to shoot a series of travel documentaries, for Canadian and American television, in South America, Europe, the Middle East, Africa and Australia.

Harris, who will pilot the plane, is operating on a $375,000 budget, received from CTV and the Hollywood-based Winters-Rosen Productions.

He said this week the venture reflects a new trend in television film production.

"Not even the U.S. networks can continue to spend what it now costs for Hollywood production. That's one reason Canadian film-makers like myself have an edge.

"We learn to work as small independents, with a minimum of people, shooting 16-millimetre, free from the restrictions of big studios. One result of this is that we tend to make more personal films — which we'll be doing on this round-the-world thing. And that's the coming trend."

Operatic Visitors Thrive on Humor

The Canadian Opera Company has an enviable reputation for its presentation of comedy.

This season the company has chosen Orpheus in the Underworld, a satirical opera in three acts by Jacques Offenbach. The work is to be performed at 3 p.m. Sunday and 8:30 p.m. Monday in the Royal Theatre with a new English adaptation by Robert Fulford and James Knight.

The company has gained its reputation for comedy largely as a result of the efforts of Jan Rubes, whom many Victorians will remember for his solo appearance here last year as the music master in an operatic excerpt with the Victoria Symphony.

Rubes combines a rich bass voice with a gift for pure comedy, which immediately communicates itself to any audience. He sings Pluto, while another actor well-known to Victorians — Don McManus — sings Jupiter. The only cast change for the two performances is in the role of Eurydice with Sheila Piercey singing Sunday and Dodi Protero singing Monday.

Seating at the Royal Theatre has had to be rearranged to accommodate the company's orchestra which is under the direction of John Fenwick.

Orpheus is one of those works which was so damned by critics it stimulated public curiosity. When the satire was first offered in Paris in 1858, it was assailed because of its frivolous treatment of Greek mythology.

The antagonism of the critics so stimulated public interest that Orpheus played 228 performances before it closed because the cast was on the verge of exhaustion.

Protestant Commission

Church Union Talks Showing Progress

TORONTO (CP) — Differences resolved, the general commission on church union approved Friday night most of a report by its liturgy commission dealing with the ritual to be followed in ordination services, baptism and other practices of a proposed new Protestant church.

Questions of doctrine, a sensitive point with many churchmen, were shelved and the agenda of this first session of the commission's eighth meeting was revamped to have matters of ritual discussed first. These appear to be less touchy than doctrinal problems, such as the declaration of faith, upon which commission members earlier had disagreed.

* * *

The reports of the doctrinal, liturgy, and other special commissions are to be incorporated in the draft of a proposed Plan of Union, scheduled to come up for study Tuesday. Wringling over such issues was heated.

A decision on acceptance or rejection of the report as a whole was postponed until today.

* * *

Step-by-step consideration of reports of special commissions on a declaration of faith, the liturgy, the diaconate and other points that would become part of a constitution for a new church were outlined in the agenda adopted unanimously at the morning session.

The heart of the proposed union plan is a Covenant of Union, embodying pertinent sections of the special commissions' reports. Delegates protested from the floor that quibbling over minor points in the preliminary stages would recur when the Covenant, to be the basic founding document of the new church, comes up for study and discussion Tuesday.

* * *

The steering committee was instructed to meet early in the evening to revise the agenda and possibly bring the Covenant to the meeting immediately.

At stake in this meeting, termed by participants critical to the conversations on organic union that have been under way since 1943, is a definite outline of what union could mean to the spiritual well-being of more than six million Canadians.

* * *

Three denominations are involved in the negotiations: the Anglican Church of Canada, with a membership of about 2.5 million; the United Church of Canada, with a professed constituency of more than 3.5 million members and adherents; and a small group, the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), with about 5,000 members. The Disciples joined the talks in 1969.

The Baptist Federation of Canada, whose representatives are among official observers from other denominations at the meeting, announced Friday it has finally rejected invitations to participate. General Secretary Fred Bullen said the Baptists were so far apart on questions of doctrine, they could not with Christian conscience join the proposed new church.

* * *

Nor could the general commission agree upon a name for the new church as a suggestion to go before the courts of the church and the full membership. Six names were suggested by the executive—each combining the meaning of a Christian church and a united Church — but none found favor with delegates, about 50 leading theologians and prominent laymen from across Canada.

* * *

One name, The Church of Canada, was termed by an indignant delegate as being "arrogant — as though we are the only church in Canada."

The executive was instructed to prepare a preferential ballot, to be voted upon Monday afternoon, listing the names it "least disliked" and other offered by members.

Athabaskan Christened In Quebec

QUEBEC (CP) — Mrs. H. A. Porter, wife of Rear Admiral Porter, commander Maritime Command, christened the HMCS Athabaskan with the traditional bottle of champagne Friday at the launching of the helicopter-destroyer at nearby Lauzon.

The Athabaskan, built by the Davie Shipbuilding Ltd., is the first of two helicopter-carrying destroyers to be launched. The Iroquois, to be launched today in Sorel, was built by Marine Industries Ltd.

Rare Eastern Bluejay Sighted on Peninsula

An Eastern Bluejay has been sighted in the Greater Victoria area for the first time in about five years.

Mrs. Joan Ward-Harris, of 4491 Prospect Lake Road, said she watched the bird outside the house for approximately five minutes Tuesday before it flew off.

Local birdwatcher sources said it would have been highly unlikely an Eastern Bluejay could have been confused with any other bird.

The bird, which normally lives east of the Rockies, is very seldom seen anywhere in B.C.

An even rarer sight was seen earlier this fall when a Wheatear was sighted at the Victoria International Airport. The Wheatear, which normally breeds in Alaska and Eurasia, has never before been known to have come down the coast of North America.

'Tis the Season to Be Very Wary

Afternoons turn quickly to nights these days. Drivers are confronted with low visibility, complicated by slick pavements, bright lights and dark shadows. Pedestrians have to contend with rain or sleet in face and unsteady footing. 'Tis the season to be very, very wary. William E. John took this photo on Douglas near Bay.

City Manager

Regional Post Given Young

By NANCY BROWN

Victoria city manager Dennis Young was appointed Friday to the position of Capital Regional District executive director and secretary-treasurer.

Young was chosen for the $24,750 a year job from 25 applicants. Eight of them were interviewed by the executive committee, and Friday afternoon Young and another finalist appeared before the full board for interview.

He will take the place of Bill Long who has been with the board since 1967, and who is leaving to take up a similar position with the Municipal Financing Authority which has headquarters in Victoria.

★ ★ ★

Young, 47, became Victoria city manager in 1963. Before that he was treasurer and commissioner of finance for the city of Hamilton.

Young

He had previously been with the city of Victoria, joining the city hall staff as an accountant in 1950, and rising to comptroller-treasurer before being appointed assistant city manager in 1955.

"Mr. Young enjoys national stature in municipal government fields — he is a very valuable acquisition for the capital region," said board chairman Hugh Curtis, announcing the appointment.

"He is a worthy successor to Bill Long."

★ ★ ★

Curtis, who is also chairman of the Municipal Financing Authority, said Long had been confirmed in his position of executive director of the authority in late September, and at the moment is carrying the double load of both regional and financing business.

Young's position will become effective Feb. 1, or sooner if the city can make him available.

Wallace Reaction

Shipbuilding Subsidy Little Help

By BILL THOMAS

"I'd like to get enthusiastic as hell about the government's new 17-per-cent subsidy to shipbuilders but I can't," said John Wallace, general manager of Yarrows.

The government announced Friday in Ottawa that Canadian yards will be granted subsidies for the building of ships for foreign buyers of up to 17 per cent of construction costs for ships up to 40,000 tons deadweight and subsidies of 14 per cent for larger vessels.

David Anderson, Liberal MP for Esquimalt-Saanich, commented in Ottawa the aid should stop complaints from Yarrows. "If, as they claim, they are an efficient shipyard, they now have an opportunity to go abroad and prove it. We're not going to send work to them."

★ ★ ★

Wallace explained his guarded enthusiasm, saying the federal aid will go part way to stemming the differential of 15 per cent which already exists because of lower wage rates in Quebec yards.

"It still gets down to labor costs and we pay higher scales. The suggestion that a profitable world market exists is only partly true," said Wallace.

In outlining world conditions he made the point that most of the business is for supertankers and bulk carriers.

★ ★ ★

World shipyards are clogged, with the Japanese not promising delivery or ready to take new orders until 1974, but most of this trade is for ships that go up to 350,000 deadweight tons.

There is a market, Wallace concedes, for small ships if owners are anxious to pay a premium rate on the Canadian market for fast delivery.

"I know of one Quebec yard," said Wallace, "which was waiting for this subsidy because it has orders for three ships.

★ ★ ★

"We can't expect any business from U.S. customers because the American government has announced subsidies of up to 50 per cent for ships of U.S. registry built in U.S. yards."

The labor force in Canadian yards is down from 10,000 men last year to around 6,000 this year and Quebec still has the price edge. Yarrows' labor force is down to 270 from a high of 1,300.

Wallace predicts that if Eastern yards build up orders there could be some spill-over onto the West Coast yards, but he is cautious.

★ ★ ★

In Vancouver, J. W. Hudson, executive vice-president of Burrard Dry Dock, with which Yarrows is affiliated, indicated similar reaction.

Industry Minister Jean-Luc Pepin forecast the program would attract $300 million in international business and create 14,000 man years employment in the next five years.

Wallace couldn't agree with the minister that the tanker market holds out much hope for local yards.

"It costs $250 million to set up a Japanese yard to build tankers and that figure is based on multiple orders. Our hope is to pick up business in places like South America where nations are expanding their fishing fleets," added Wallace.

Must Do as Victoria Wants

Zoning Blocks Fly-by-Nighters

By HUBERT BEYER

A new zoning regulation designed to make life miserable for fly-by-night developers and land speculators was recently adapted by Victoria city council.

Quietly and virtually unnoticed, council slipped an amendment into the city's zoning bylaw, the effects of which will be far-reaching.

Its bureaucratic title — special development area designation — sounds innocent enough, but it literally forces developers to do what the city wants — no more and no less.

Under this regulation city council may demand a performance bond from a developer; the amendment gives council the power to hold a developer to his plans.

The need for such an amendment has become more and more apparent in recent years. Council has repeatedly reacted with anger and frustration when a developer, contrary to original plans, changed the entire concept and often the quality of his project.

As long as the developer remained within the rather broad confines of the zoning bylaw, council was powerless.

Jack Collier of the city's planning department gave an example:

"Supose the city granted a zoning change to permit the building of a motel in a residentially-zoned area. There was nothing to stop the developer from selling the land, once it was rezoned, to another party who might establish a printing firm on the property," he said.

While a motel may be easily absorbed by a residential district, it was questionable whether the same could be said of a printing firm, he said.

And this is where the new regulation will come in.

If the same developer applied now for a permit to build a motel in a residential area, council may issue a permit under the special development area designation; that means, the developer can build only a motel, nothing else. The permit is only valid for his particular application and becomes null and void if he sells the land.

★ ★ ★

Furthermore, no actual zoning change is granted. Should the development fall through, the site remains residential.

The developer cannot change his plans after he's given the permit under the new regulation. If he has submitted drawings of a two-storey brick structure, he cannot suddenly build a one-storey frame structure.

Council reserves the right to cancel his permit at any time.

★ ★ ★

City Solicitor Terry O'Grady said no other section of the city's zoning bylaw ties a developer down to such an extent.

"He either builds exactly in accordance with the permit or he doesn't build at all," O'Grady said.

Legislation enabling municipalities to incorporate this amendement into their zoning bylaws, he said, was passed by the B.C. Legislature in 1968.

"We are by no means the first to take advantage of it; quite a number of municipalities in the province have used it, but we are the first in Greater Victoria," he said.

The Spencer Castle project has been proposed under this new regulation. To assure residents of the area that he will comply with every detail set out in his plans, Dannie Danzo of Port Alberni has agreed to proceed under the special area development designation.

He has put up a $250,000 performance bond and he will have to comply with every detail of his plans which will be discussed at a public hearing Dec. 17 at the city hall council chamber.

Power Hit At Jubilee

A power failure in the Royal Jubilee Hospital and surrounding area brought emergency power services into play at the hospital shortly before midnight Friday and a hospital spokesman said all essential services were being maintained.

Emergency measures at the hospital included "grounding" elevators" the spokesman said.

Region Asked to Increase Tourist Promotion Budget

All sectors of the community in Greater Victoria should contribute more for tourist promotion because the Capital Region is "the main attraction of the province," Ron Worley said Friday.

"I shouldn't really say this because I'm responsible for promoting tourism throughout British Columbia — but it's true," said the deputy travel minister.

He said local governments, particularly those adjoining the city of Victoria, the business community "and everybody" should contribute a much larger share because tourism this year "at a conservative estimate" poured close to $100 million into the coffers of the Capital Region.

★ ★ ★

Worley added it was "ridiculous" for the surrounding municipalities to claim, as justification for their refusal to carry a fair share of the tourist promotion load, that the city of Victoria was the "only one to get something out of the tourist business."

As an example, he said, among Californians the capital city is often regarded as "some place close to" Butchart Gardens. This illustrates the "definite need" existing for more promotion of less well-known attractions in the area.

"Butchart Gardens is more than just a famous place, however," Worley added. "It puts a lot of money directly into the coffers of Central Saanich municipality. The gardens employ some gardeners all the time and then there is all the temporary help needed in season."

★ ★ ★

Worley continued to defend the position taken earlier by Premier Bennett that $1 of the per capita grant paid by the government to municipalities was intended to be spent solely on tourist promotion.

The deputy minister said Vancouver's finance chairman Ald. Earle Adams "shows he really doesn't understand" the per capita grant system when he charges Bennett was guilty of a misstatement. Adam's own confusion, Worley said, is shown by the fact he lists part of the expenditures on parks as part of Vancouver's tourist promotion effort.

★ ★ ★

Worley added the original $25 per capita grant from the province was made to municipalities on the understanding it would be used to meet the cost of arterial roads, pollution, policing and parks. The latest $3 increase in 1969 was earmarked for ambulance services, industrial development and tourism.

Doing Plenty, Mayors Say

The mayors of Saanich, Esquimalt and Oak Bay said Friday their municipalities were doing their share for tourism.

Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis said there were other ways to aid tourism than by giving money to the Victoria Visitors' Bureau.

Through land acquisition and improvements, Saanich had succeeded in recent years to make the municipality more attractive for visitors, he said.

★ ★ ★

Oak Bay Mayor Frances Elford said her municipality had improved parks along beaches to attract tourists.

Esquimalt Mayor Arthur Young said his council had made donations to organizations such as the art gallery, the symphony society and the Greater Victoria Celebrations' Association.

All these donations, he said, helped create pastimes for tourists and residents.

★ ★ ★

The mayors were responding to charges by Victoria Mayor Courtney Haddock that they aren't spending their $1 provincial per capita grant to aid tourist promotion.

Victoria gives an annual grant of $80,000 to the visitors' bureau; Saanich gave $3,500 this year, Oak Bay $1,750, while Esquimalt made no grant.

★ ★ ★

Haddock has said the visitors' bureau may be outdated and should be scrapped. This statement drew a sharp reaction from Premier Bennett who warned that the per-capita grants might be withdrawn if municipalities failed to spend them on tourist promotion.

Warship May Return

An old-time naval friend, the destroyer-escort HMCS St. Croix, may come back to Victoria from the east coast and undergo a refit.

A naval spokesman could not offer definite confirmation that the destroyer would travel to the west coast but said whether it took place on the east or the west coast the destroyer would be up for a refit. The job would be put up for bids.

The spokesman also confirmed there was a possibility that Canada's remaining two minesweepers, the Chaleur Bay and Thunder Bay, would be transferred to the west coast, probably in the spring.

'Why Can't They Go to an Island?'

Resident Totally Opposed to Cool-Aid

Palmer Berg, 1337 Gladstone, is totally opposed to Cool-Aid plans to convert Emmanual Baptist Church to a youth resource centre, but Cool-Aid staff member Laurie Smith is hoping he will change his mind when he sees what is going on.

"Other people, especially some of our neighbors here on Balmoral, used to be either opposed to us or at least cautious, but they have changed their minds in the year and a half we've had this place," said Smith.

Berg said he hopes residents who signed a petition opposing Cool-Aid plans will be sure to attend the public hearing arranged for 2 p.m. Dec. 17 at City Hall.

He said he had four reasons for his opposition, the principal one being that he had small children, and didn't want Cool-Aid people for neighbors.

"I don't like the way these people are living, especially when they are getting by on handouts and welfare instead of working," said Berg.

He said he was afriad he would have to sell his house to get away from the young people who would be using the hall.

"Why do they have to be in the city — why can't they go off to an island somewhere to smoke pot, and do their thing?" he asked.

Berg said he felt the church was too close to a high school and those using it could exert a bad influence on students.

"I think it's taxpayers' money going down the drain," he said.

"The value of my property might go down, although that's the least important to me," said Berg.

Smith said Cool-Aid had just received a letter from a neighbor — W. G. Smith (no relation) of 937 Balmoral.

In his letter Smith said he was in his 60s and inclined to be somewhat "orotchety."

He said he is president of the Smoke and Noise Abatement Society of Victoria. He had spent a lot of money on his house, he said, and when Cool-Aid moved in he watched them closely, although he didn't quite believe all the stories about sex and drugs.

He said he had been very much on his guard, but after watching them for 18 months had decided that the Cool-Aid staff members were some of the kindest human beings he had met.

He said he was sorry about the indignities which the disinherited young people who went to Cool-Aid were forced to put up with.

DOROTHY WROTNOWSKI

Did you know that 75 per cent of perfume sales are made just before Christmas — and that perfume should be treated like wine — never be exposed to light or air for long periods of time?

•

I didn't until Connie Moreton told me this and a lot of other interesting things about perfume. Connie, whom I've known for a long time, was in Victoria to give a refresher course to perfume sales girls and to promote the new Guerlain perfume Chamade. Connie, who was with a cosmetic firm as well as perfume houses, now is exclusively with Guerlain in Alberta and B.C. and is based at Vancouver.

It think if I had to do it over again, I would choose writing publicity for a perfume house. There are no holds barred and you can let your imagination run riot.

Just look at these excerpts from the Chamade release: "Rarely is a perfume created which is predestined to take its place alongside the world's greatest fragrances, but such a perfume is Chamade, the new creation of Jean-Paul Guerlain, master perfumer of the House of Guerlain.

"The formula for Chamade is known only to members of the Guerlain family, but its name means the beating of the heart under the extremes of emotion, and the blending of the near-priceless ingredients is entirely evocative of this. Essences of hyacinth, lilac and tuberrose are augmented by a base of rare tropical essential oils. Extracts of other natural essences are also introduced to complete this most elegant of fragrances."

Terrific Flourish

That isn't all. It winds up with terrific flourish.

"Exotic, exciting, haunting and highly sensual are all descriptive of Chamade, an ageless perfume but not one for the very young or the faint of heart. This is for the woman who selects her perfume with the same instinct as her wardrobe, and for the woman, however subtle, who's an unashamed huntress at heart. A perfume which lasts and lasts, and grows more beautiful as it is worn."

Well, there it is and what more could you ask of any perfume.

Connie had some more things to say about perfume. Undoubtedly, as 75 per cent of perfume sales are at Christmas, many of you will be giving this as presents. At this busy time of year, it may take a little time for you to be waited on. Connie asks you to think while waiting about the temperament of the person for whom you are buying. Temperament counts in perfume far more than appearance. It also depends on mood, but of course, you can't be expected to know about that.

For a gentle person, she suggests a soft fragrance; for a vivacious personality, a racy, snappy perfume, and for the sultry, the glamorous perfume with more body.

Again depending upon the mood, these can be switched around by the one using the perfume.

Connie suggested Mitsouko for me but my all-time favorite is Vague Souvenir, and that one is not imported into Canada.

That was another point, Connie said. If you really like a perfume and feel good about it — then it is right for you.

A few tips on perfume — if going on a trip by plane put Scotch tape around the top of the bottle to prevent any slight leakage; if you dab yourself with the stopper of the bottle always wipe with cotton wool as the body acid may affect the perfume.

Never test perfume near metal (a watch strap or bracelets) as this can change the odor; never put perfume on leather as it will take on the smell of the leather.

It's a Living Thing

"Perfume is a living thing and when applied to the skin, becomes alive," says Connie.

Another piece of advice from Connie is to keynote your fragrance. Carry it through from bath oil, soap, cologne, dusting powder and perfume.

Summing it all up, Connie says perfume should convey a memory, a dream, love and romance.

There you have it.

Miss Grey Cup

Easterners Score First

TORONTO (CP) — In a storybook finish Nancy Durrell, blue-eyed, blonde Miss Alouette, became Miss Grey Cup Friday night at the end of a contest that may have been an indicator of things to come in the big game today.

Miss Durrell, a 21-year-old student at McGill University in Montreal, seemed out of the running after she was named Miss Congeniality. The pert blonde broke into tears as she was named Miss Grey Cup over eight other contestants.

The team she represents, Montreal Alouettes, play Calgary Stampeders today for the Grey Cup.

As Miss Grey Cup she gets a car and a trophy.

First runner-up was Miss Edmonton Eskimo, 20-year-old Anita Urschel, a student at the University of Alberta.

Second runner-up was Miss Hamilton Tiger-Cat, Linda Endicott, 20, a model.

Langford Woman Scouts Denmark

Where People Count

Denmark is a land where people count and things are less important, a Langford woman said this week.

Mrs. R. R. Peel of 102 Atkins recently returned from a conference of Girl Guides and Scouts in Horne, North Jutland. She was one of two representatives of the Girl Guide Movement of Canada.

Seventy delegates from 12 countries attended the conference in the 12th-century village. Theme of the meeting was promise and law and duty to God.

Some of the questions examined were: Can the Scout and Guide movement meet the challenges of today? Does it have a part to play among the youth of today? Has the church and Christianity anything to give to the movements?

"In our discussions on world crisis," Mrs. Peel said, "we came to the conclusion that scouting and guiding are involved in political issues and situations, and we as leaders are concerned and would like to clarify our roles in this situation, in order to prevent the political manipulation of our movement and-or the indoctrination of our members.

Peel with souvenirs of trip

"This is in agreement with the beginning of scouting when Baden-Powell said scouting for boys meant training for citizenship."

The conference discussed duty to God and the relationship between scouting and guiding and the Christian churches, including the Christian expectation of the coming of the Kingdom of God.

There were those delegates who came from a non-Christian background and they indicated that such discussions were not relevant for their countries.

"Because of this situation," said Mrs. Peel, "we could see the danger of World Scouting and Guiding becoming divided."

Delegates were taken on tours of the country and were entertained extensively in private homes. They also had time for walking and shopping.

Mrs. Peel has been active in the movement for 14 years. She is provincial program commissioner for B.C. Her main concern is keeping programs up-to-date and suitable for the girls' ages.

She is also Snowy Owl at a local Brownie pack as well as trainer for Blue and Brown Guides in the Camosun-Craigflower division.

ROME (AP) — With an Italian divorce bill expected to become law by the end of the year, ads from prospective marriage partners already are appearing in the papers. "Women, future divorcee, affectionate, loyal, 44-year-old writer, remarry true, honest, liberal-minded 50-year-old man," said one. Another from a "man about to be divorced," asked for "a really beautiful girl."

Take That, Women's Lib

Oppressor's Story

By JOHN KASTNER
Telegram News Service

Not the least of the victims of this recession is the movement which calls itself women's liberation.

As thousands of men swell the ranks of the unemployed, the recession is fast destroying the principal myth underlying women's lib: That men have got it good in this world.

The girls of women's lib speak of "male chauvinist oppressors," and point to such rich, brilliant luminaries as Hugh Hefner and Lionel Tiger.

★ ★ ★

But if you want to see the face of another kind of male oppressor, go downtown in many Canadian cities to the unemployment office where, at peak hours, the lines snake down the block and around the corner.

The oppressor stands there with drooping shoulders, worrying about food bills, guilty to be a father who cannot provide for his own flesh and blood, ashamed to be part of this shabby line of unwanted men. This is some oppressor.

★ ★ ★

No doubt it will come as a shock to some members of women's lib that keeping a woman in her place isn't the only hardship in a man's life.

But the spoiled middle-class girls who make up most of the activists in women's lib have never understood the problems of their working-class brothers or sisters.

Even in prosperous times, they would cry that men have all the exciting stimulating jobs, thereby nifitly ignoring the mass of laboring men whose jobs are something less than exciting.

★ ★ ★

While they bemoaned the mind-numbing drudgery of housework and child care, they overlooked the fact the vast majority of men — men in the working class — do things like fix the same seven bolts, nine to five, five days a week, year in and year out. One would be hard put to make a case that driving a truck or working in a factory line stimulates and uplifts the soul more than mind-numbing housework.

The trouble was women's lib is bewitched by a middle-class devil.

Not all men do exciting things like make movies or run ad agencies or design skyscrapers — just a small group of middle-class males.

And unfortunately it is a small group of spoiled middle-class girls who are killing the legitimate women's lib movement. The first priority of women's lib should be one that concerns most women — equal pay for equal jobs. To a working-class girl, equal pay is desperately needed in a poorer family which counts on every penny in a paycheque.

★ ★ ★

But the spoiled middle-class girls have pushed their own hangups with men — their reluctance to play second fiddle to a male — into first priority in women's liberation.

The recession will doubtless clear up many illusions of the glories of being a male.

Along with the role of bossman and breadwinner comes a heavy, lonely burden for men when times get tough.

At the risk of incurring the wrath of womens' lib, I will even go so far as to say that being an unemployed male with a family to feed is even worse than having to do housework.

★ ★ ★

The only thing worse than being an unemployed male, is an unemployed male with a wife who belongs to women's lib.

Can you imagine coming home from a depressing day downtown to a lecture from the little lady on why she must explore her creativity and evolve as a human being and be recognized in her own right, and . . . .

Mourning Customs Puzzle

Their Presence Spoke

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Our baby died this summer and I am just beginning to get over it. I was born and raised in another country and I cannot understand the ways of the people here although America has been my home for 11 years.

Many neighbors and friends came to our baby's funeral. After the funeral they came to our home to sit with us during the lonely hours of mourning. Nobody mentioned our baby's name. Not a single person said, "I am sorry your baby died." Our visitors talked about everything under the sun — except the reason they came.

Please tell people they should at least say, "I am sorry for your loss." If it is an American custom not to say anything it is senseless and should be changed. — Foreign Mother.

Dear Mother: In every country, actions speak louder than words. Your friends did not feel it was necessary to tell you why they were at your side. Their presence spoke for them.

□

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday our 12 year-old son had to stay after school because he misbehaved in class. It has happened before and my husband made a rule that when this occurs Jim must walk home. (I usually drive him.) We live 14 blocks from the school.

About 4:30 it suddenly turned very cold and the sky darkened. I began to worry and got in the car and started out to look for the boy. I found him six blocks from home, cold and worn out. My husband was home when we arrived. He was furious with me for having gone to get Jim. He said I was undermining him by interfering with the agreed punishment. I say the boy might have been caught in a storm and I did the right thing. Please settle it. — Chippewa Falls.

Dear Chip: The fact that a 14-block walk is considered punishment these days is a good example of what's wrong with some of our kids. I suggest the boy walk every day — and it should be called exercise, not punishment.

Dear Ann Landers: Our 20-year-old daughter (pretty, good student, formerly sensible, but now impetuous, rebellious and downright brainless) has just accepted a curtain ring from her boyfriend. He couldn't afford anything else so he gave her a dime store circlet used to hold up a shower curtain.

Jill has had three years of college but didn't return this fall because she preferred to go to work. This was all right with us although we wanted her to get a diploma. The boy she plans to marry is a high school dropout in a low-paying job. He has no skills and no future.

I had a long talk with Jill in an effort to learn what she sees in the boy and why she wants to be his wife. I concluded that she wants to be married because all her friends are getting married and she isn't fussy about the fellow — so long as he is male.

Jill dates other boys secretly which leads me to believe she isn't really in love with this chap. The wedding date is drawing near and although she seems less interested in him than ever, I'm afraid she'll marry him anyway. What can I do? — Innocent Bystander with Bated Breath.

Dear B.B.: Remain a bystander and save your bated breath to cool your soup. Nothing you can say will stop her, but you might say something that could shove her into a marriage she doesn't want. Remain available for counsel and hope for the best.

Porter Since 1881

Andy Won't Quit

GLENDALOUGH, Ireland (AP) — Andy McDonnell celebrated his 100th birthday this week and thinks he must be the world's oldest working hotel porter.

After 80 years of paging, grooming and portering, he has no plans to quit.

"A man must work to keep his mind occupied and his legs going," says Andy, who is still what his youngers call spry.

★ ★ ★

He is a porter in the same hotel where he was born in 1870, the Royal at Glendalough, a picturesque village where Dubliners like to weekend. He only left Glendalough after the death of his wife, when he went to live with his daughter in Dublin, 30 miles away.

Now she drives him back to the Royal every Sunday and on holidays so that he can don his hotel uniform and take his accustomed place in the front hall.

★ ★ ★

Andy's mother was a housemaid and his father a porter in the hotel. When he was 11, he joined the staff as a page boy at two shillings sixpence — now 31 cents a week. He was promoted to groom and finally became hall porter.

The Royal threw a party for his 100th birthday. Said Manager John Casey: "We started very early so that Andy wouldn't get too tired. But he was the last to leave in the early hours of the morning."

The hotel presented him with a cheque for £100 to mark the occasion.

Andy gave up drinking and smoking at 75 "because it was getting bad for me."

But it was only 10 years ago that he gave up working a seven-day week, 6:30 a.m. to 11:30 p.m., all through the season, and with never a day off in 79 years.

Centennial United Church Women will hold a Christmas bake sale and tea from 2 to 4 p.m. today in the Howard Harris Building on David Street and Gorge Road.

Red Barrels Ready For Gifts

The red barrels for Christmas gift donations to the Victoria Branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association have been placed in the Hillside Plaza Mall, Woodwards, The Bay and churches in the city centre. Eaton's will display a People Tree where gifts may be left.

★ ★ ★

Donations of cash may be sent to the Victoria branch office, Room 207, 1951 Cook.

Volunteers of the association will purchase suitable gifts so that each and every patient will receive a gift of hope on Christmas Day.

This year more gifts are needed to ensure that patients, former patients, boarding home residents and young people in residential treatment centres in Victoria are remembered.

Deer Shot at Airport Nets Man $500 Fine

A hunter who described his shooting of a tame deer on Victoria International Airport property "a tragic error" was fined $500 when he appeared in provincial court in Sidney this week.

Clive Rankeeson, a teacher at Royal Roads, was officially charged with discharging a firearm on airport property without permission of the airport controller.

Rankeeson told the court he was unaware the area was outside hunting territory.

Sidney RCMP said the animal was 100 yards from the terminal in a wooded area.

Banff, Jasper, Yoho and Kootenay National Parks

Public Hearings

"The parks are hereby dedicated to the people of Canada for their benefit, education and enjoyment . . . and such parks shall be maintained and made use of so as to leave them unimpaired for the enjoyment of future generations." SECTION 4: NATIONAL PARKS ACT

Public hearings are being held across Canada on provisional master plans for development and use of national parks. The plans outline the Government's proposals for intensity of park use, interpretation of natural history, protection of park environment and development of visitor facilities.

Hearings will be convened in Calgary, Edmonton and Vancouver to hear comments and recommendations on the provisional master plans for Banff, Jasper, Yoho and Kootenay National Parks. (Separate public discussion will take place on plans related to the townsites of Banff and Jasper.) There are four individual plans to be reviewed but because these parks are contiguous they are being considered as a unit for the purpose of public hearings. Dates and places of these hearings will be announced in the near future, but a minimum of 90 days from November 13 will be allowed for the preparation of briefs and submissions. Interested individuals and organizations are invited to submit written briefs, in either official language, on any one or all of the plans and to indicate if they wish ot speak at the hearings.

Copies of all four plans may be obtained for $2.00 or individual copies for $1.00 each (remit money order or certified cheque payable to the Receiver General of Canada) from:

Regional Director, Western Region,
National and Historic Parks Branch,
300 Customs Building,
Calgary 21, Alberta.

Written briefs and requests to speak are to be sent to:

Secretary, Public Hearings Program,
National and Historic Parks Branch,
400 Laurier Avenue West,
Ottawa 4, Ontario.

"Signals? VOS! Chevy 21 Kellogg's 18! Colt 45! . . ."

BUREAU OF USELESS INFORMATION: Friday's answer — A potpourri of horror included Elsa Lanchester, The Bride of Frankenstein; fire, the thing the Frankenstein monster hated most; Victor, Dr. Frankenstein's first name, and Hammer, the English horror-film producers.

Today's question rounds off this horrorful lot with a question I think is a real dandy. One of the most famous pairs of people in all of fiction included two men whose first names are Henry and Edward. The only clues are the horror angle and the fact the story has been a movie three different times. Answers Tuesday.

3:00—Francis Joins the WACs (1954 mule mess), Donald O'Connor—7.

7:00—Goin' to Town (1944 Mae West). Not one of her best—11.

9:30—Queen of the Amazons (stupid 1948 cheapo), Patricia Morison—13.

11:00 — Fever in the Blood (very bad 1961 U.S. politics), Efrem Zimbalist, Angie Dickinson. Don Ameche is lucky; he dies—12.

11:15 — Man in the Iron Mask (1962 French dubber)—4.

11:15—Strange One (first-rate 1957 modern-man drama), Ben Gazzara, George Peppard, Pat Hingle, many more. Worth seeing, once—5.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD and BEE SCHENKEN

Al Sobel of New York, one of the great tournament directors of all time, is also the author of a witty and widely read column in the American Contract Bridge League Bulletin.

He recently wrote up this deal, which occurred in a tournament at New Orleans. West's feat of arms on the deal is described by Al as one of the most curious in his whole experience.

Exactly why East saw fit to double four spades is not made clear, although the contract was in fact set one trick. The remarkable thing is that East, the doubler, did not win a single trick for the defense. All four were taken by West!

Opening lead: Queen of ♣.

The opening lead was the queen of clubs, which held. Then came the 10 of hearts and this, too, was allowed to hold.

At trick three West reverted to his first love, clubs. Declarer won the ace, drew three rounds of trumps — finishing in his own hand — and set the stage for a diamond ruff by leading a low one towards the dummy.

West promptly went in with the nine-spot, thus acquiring his third defensive trick. Then he cashed the jack of clubs to beat the contract all on his own.

Curious enough for anyone's money!

Brothers Tells Malaspina Council

April Merger Possible For College and School

By LYNNE WALLER

NANAIMO — Education Minister Donald Brothers assured Malaspina College council Thursday that plans for a merger with Nanaimo Vocational Training School are definite.

He said his department hopes the merger will take place by April.

He told councillors that he was "greatly impressed" by what the college had been able to achieve in such a short time and that it "excels" in the area of encouraging community interest.

During the meeting, College president Dr. Carl Opgaard said the extent to which the community was involved in the operation of the college was emphasized by the fact that 110 citizens were actively advising on programming. That was in addition to citizens serving on the council.

* * *

Brothers said he had talked with student council president Randy Reigets who complained about crowded conditions in the building.

The minister said he had told Reigets he hoped the department would be able to assist in getting a new campus but he did not go into detail.

"I have been mightily impressed by how you have taken advantage of every square inch of space in this building," he said.

Sites chairman Beattie Davis of Ladysmith said he felt confident that the college would be able to acquire 165 acres of land behind the vocational training school.

He could not say whether the property would be handed over as a gift, leased or bought. But did say that Public Works Minister Arthur Laing favored the idea of the college acquiring the land.

The council will use Nanaimo School Board resources for a feasibility study and make sure the land would be suitable for future college use.

The Navigator, Malaspina College's student newspaper, will receive an additional $200 from the council to bring their budget up to $1,051.

The college receives $1,300 from the student council to operate the paper.

The council was asked for an increased amount from the council to cover rising printing costs caused by an increased number of pages and the cost of printing additional papers with a growing circulation.

Mrs. Avis Mitchell, representing Qualicum - Parksville school district presented rare editions of English newspapers dating from the 1600s.

The papers came from Mrs. William Gould of Hilliers who, for about 20 years, was a Parksville school trustee.

One of the papers, the Weekely Newes of London, was published in 1606 and carried an account of the Guy Fawkes incident.

Included was a first edition of the Scotsman, printed in 1817, and two copies of the London Times. One published in 1805 carried reports of the Battle of Trafalgar and the other, from 1815, gave accounts of the Battle of Waterloo.

The papers will be lodged in the college library.

Port Alberni Crematorium

Improvement Project Nearly Ready to Go

PORT ALBERNI — Alberni-Clayoquot Regional Board met at Bamfield recently.

Board member Frank Stewart of Bamfield introduced the group to spectators who attended from the surrounding district.

In addition to routine correspondence, board members heard from a three-man delegation representing the East Indian community in Port Alberni regarding a crematorium on Saunders Road.

A petition from residents of the Beaver Creek Improvement District requested disallowance of the crematorium which has served the East Indian community for many years.

Sadhu Singh Rai, spokesman for the group gave details of an improvement plan which, he said, had been delayed for two years because of the number of approvals required by the Public Utilities Commission.

Only the approval of the health department was required to enable the East Indian group to proceed with renovations and improvements.

Beaver Creek representative William Hunt indicated he had not signed and did not support the petition. He agreed the property was in a state of disrepair but he had been assured that plans of the society, in conjunction with the health branch, zoning and other regulations would ensure that the renovated facility would not have any ill-effects on the area.

The board agreed to advise the Beaver Creek petitioners that, legally, zoning regulations would not be retroactive and to outline plans to upgrade the crematorium in compliance with health, building and zoning regulations.

The board also decided against making a grant to the Alberni Valley Centennial Committee for its planned museum project "due to the multiplicity of other Centennial projects withing the regional district."

Bamfield fire department's problems were also outlined to the board.

Bruce Adams said the department required $16,000 in capital financing, plus $2,000 for annual operating costs.

The secretary of the board is to report to the board at its next meeting to determine the best way of financing such a project.

Police Identify Second Woman

NANAIMO — Police released the name Friday of a second woman killed in a truck-car crash at the Cassidy Bridge Thursday afternoon.

She was Patricia Ann White, 23, 750 Jarvis Street, Vancouver. Also killed in the crash was Mrs. Marjorie Grace Barton, 26, of North Surrey.

Mrs. Barton was identified by police as the driver of a car northbound on the Island Highway, about eight miles south of Nanaimo. The car and a semi-trailer, loaded with lumber, were involved in the collision.

The two women died instantly.

Truck driver James Douglas Andrews, 30, of Chemainus, was uninjured.

The car, owned by a Victoria man, was said to be a total loss and police estimated damage to the truck at $10,000. The car was crushed beneath the front of the truck.

Hockey Body Will Fight Court Order

EDMONTON (CP) — The Edmonton Metropolitan Hockey Association plans to fight an interim court injunction allowing a 13-year-old player to play for the team of his choice.

In a prepared statement, the association said it will file a statement of defence and make application to vacate an order served on it by the Alberta Supreme Court.

The order, issued Tuesday by Mr. Justice S. S. Lieberman, instructed the association to let Mark McDonald play with the team of his choice. The boy's father, Hugh B. McDonald, had asked the court to take the action because the association refused to give the boy a transfer from a Canadian Athletic Club team to a Knights of Columbus club.

MUST HAVE RULES

Officials of the association said they had not been able to make a representation to the court. They said that if the association's program is to operate effectively and continue to serve the needs of the youth of Edmonton, it must have rules to govern the program.

The fundamental rule, the officials said, is that zoning the city into certain areas and giving jurisdiction over a zone to one of the member clubs.

The association's program involves about 700 teams and 10,000 boys.

Millstone Stables

Couple Plans To Build Indoor Arena

NANAIMO — A husband and wife team provide riding instruction at Millstone Stables, Wellington.

They are Gordon and Louise Garrard who have 28 horses, including five registered quarter-horses, thoroughbreds and Appaloosa ponies. The stables cover 8 acres of pasture and a riding range from 80 feet to 150 feet in size.

* * *

At present 50 children are taking lessons and more than 300 have been taught within a year.

Since they started three years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Garrard have taken part in shows throughout the Island, and other parts of British Columbia.

They recently came back from a trip to Oregon where they bought two quarter-horses. Their future plans include an indoor arena.

Tidy-Up Time

I have a long list of rather dull but essential garden chores to be tackled this weekend — prepared, I might say, before I realized this was Grey Cup Day. I doubt if any of this work will actually get done, for by the time the last touchdown is scored, I am usually too limp even to think about gardening.

One of the jobs scheduled was to clean out the hedge bottom of all its accumulated litter, and on this point I tangle constantly with my neighbor Ernie.

"You are always shooting off your mouth about the value of a surface mulch," he says. "Now you've got a nice mulch of leaves, twigs, blown paper and other rubbish over the roots of your hedge plants, why do you want to take it all away and leave the soil bare?"

★ ★ ★

I have no intention of leaving the soil bare, if have a nice pile of ripe compost in the far corner of the backyard which will be trundled by wheelbarrow and spread over the roots after the clean-up job is completed. The junk which has gathered in the hedge bottom must come out first, though, for it is not only unsightly, but a positive source of danger to the health of the garden.

Such litter and rubbish provides an ideal breeding ground for slugs, woodlice and earwigs, for one thing, and can offer a cosy winter home for the dormant species of various plant diseases, including apple scab. Unlike the vegetable wastes in the fermenting compost heap, there isn't enough heat generated in the hedge litter to kill off these spores and pests.

The leaves and weeds will go to a new compost heap to be rotted down, while all the woody material will be converted to potash fertilizer in our garden incinerator. The soil under the hedge will be pricked over shallowly with the garden fork and a little 6-8-6 fertilizer worked in, about one cupful per running yard on each side of the hedge. Spreading a 2-inch layer of compost over the surface will complete the job.

Another of the clean-up jobs I had scheduled was to pull up all the garden stakes, bean poles and pea sticks, storing the heat of them upside down in a dryshed so the soiled ends can dry out thoroughly. These ends will later be dipped in Cuprinol or in a copper sulphate solution to preserve them. I don't fool around with the bamboo stakes — the hollow ends plugged with soil are pruned off and burnt, for these are notorious breeding grounds for pests.

When you are working with stakes and poles, and more especially with dead branches used for supporting peas and sweet peas, keep a careful eye cocked for patches of brilliant red or orange fungus on the wood. This is coral spot, and any such infected wood should be burnt as the fungus can be very destructive to small fruits and currant bushes.

★ ★ ★

Don't look only on the ground during your spell of garden housecleaning, though; cast an eye up into the fruit trees too. You may find dried specimens of apples, cherries, plums or pears still clinging to the twigs, and this is a bad sign. There is something definitely wrong with a fruit that doesn't fall naturally of its own accord, and usually such mummified fruits are full of the spores of Brown Rot disease, spending the winter resting up for an attack on next year's fruit. All such late-hanging fruit should be picked and burnt.

Worry Silver-Lined

One of the blessing of mature years is that we tend to make fewer errors in the minor details of living. It is the young who lose keys, forget money, run out of gas. So I was surprised the other day when I locked myself out of the house.

As soon as I pulled the front door shut I knew I'd left my keys inside. I was not only locked out, but stranded. My house and car keys were on the same ring. I had been on my way to take part in a book fair. Now I'd be late, if I made it at all.

★ ★ ★

Then I remembered the spares. Months ago I had duplicates made of all my keys and hid them. The police say you can't fool burglars, they know right where to look. I took that into account. I thought of every place a burglar would look, and then hid the keys somewhere else.

The car keys were still there, but the house keys were gone. Some burglar had found the hiding place after all. Why hadn't he taken the car keys too? Burglars are hard to figure.

I decided to go on to the fair, since I had the car keys. The fair was held in a large hall. A dozen authors sat around at tables behind piles of their books. There are a lot of authors out this fall. People were browsing about.

★ ★ ★

A lady showed me to my table. Dr. Irving Bengelsdorf, the science writer, was at the table on my left, sitting behind stacks of his books on overpopulation and pollution. He looked gloomy.

The table on my right was stacked with the books of Dr. Will Durant and his wife Ariel. The Durants hadn't showed up yet.

"Hi, Irv," I said. "Why so gloomy?"

"There's plenty of reason," he said. Bengelsdorf is afraid it may be too late already to save the world from human folly.

★ ★ ★

"Dr. Durante's pessimistic book," I said, nodding toward the other table. "But he's optimistic about it if I read him right."

A motherly woman bounced up and looked skeptically down at our books, then up at us.

"How are you today?" she asked.

"We're worried," I admitted.

"What's to worry, a nice day?"

"Dr. Bengelsdorf here," I explained, "is worried about the environment, and I'm locked out of my house. A burglar got my keys."

★ ★ ★

She clucked. "Tell me," she said, "What were you worried about one year ago today? Hah?"

I couldn't remember.

"See?" she said. "So why worry?"

A black-haired young woman in a yellow suit came up to my table with a pot of yellow chrysanthemums. She was a picture.

"This is for your wife," she said, setting the flowers on my table. "And this is for you." It was a box of homemade fudge.

★ ★ ★

"See?" I said to Bengelsdorf. "What's to worry, a nice day?"

Later on the Durants arrived. I wanted to tell Dr. Durant not to worry either, but he was quickly encircled by admirers and I couldn't get the message through.

★ ★ ★

When I got home I set the chrysanthemums on the porch and went down to the garage for a hammer and screwdriver. I took the patio screen door off its hinges and got into the patio and then jimmied the door into the house.

When I walked into the living room I heard the click and the front door swung in. It was my daughter-in-law.

"How'd you open the door?" I asked.

"You don't remember?" she said. "You give me z'key."

★ ★ ★

"Ah, yes," I said. "From z'hiding place."

So there wasn't any burglar after all.

I want my wife to plant the chrysanthemums. Maybe they'll remind me to be optimistic when I'm pessimistic.

Marilyn Beck's Hollywood

Tony Franciosa, who earned such a bad-boy reputation around Universal Studios he was relieved of Name of the Game chores, evidently wants to prove he's playing a different game nowadays. At MGM, where he's filming Earth II, an ABC movie for TV, he's been the personification of charm and co-operation. Early to work, eager to please. Those MGM fellows are delighted—and relieved. About the only thing Tony acts reticent about these days is discussing his still-pending lawsuit against Universal. Tony's countersuing for having been ousted from their Game, is asking in excess of $1 million in damages.

Vince Edwards was anticipating the cancellation of his low-rated Matt Lincoln series by telling friends he couldn't care less if it survived or not, that he's drowning in offers from producers to star in other series. In the meantime, December-airing episodes of the January-axed show veer further and further away from the original Matt Lincoln concept. Real tear-jerkers, which should, at least, grab the series some lady viewers who enjoy a good cry.

Joanna Shimkus is co-starring with Dick Benjamin in The Marriage of a Young Stockbroker. And the crew has discovered if they want to get under her skin just ask about her relationship with Sidney Poitier. The very mention of his name is enough to make the usually unruffable Joanna extremely uptight.

★ ★ ★

If you think Jerry Maren, the "Little General" on Andy Williams' NBC TVer, looks familiar, you're tipping your age. Jerry used to be Buster Brown on radio and TV. Remember old Buster, his shoes and his trusty dog Tige?

★ ★ ★

The Young Rebels, cancelled as of next January, has meant more than just a co-starring series berth to Lou Gossett. He's a history buff, thanks to first-person stories told to him by his grandmother. "She lived to be 110," the black actor recalls. "She could remember the day that President Lincoln freed the slaves, when she was just a kid and all the slaves went running down the road of the plantation where her family lived."

SYDNEY HARRIS

Why Crime Soars

The most dangerous and widespread fallacy of our time has been successfully promoted by the advocates of "police power." They have persuaded the public that the "effectiveness" of law enforcement increases as "due process of law" is diminished.

It is not true. It has never been true. And it can never be true. The real "effectiveness" of law enforcement depends upon two factors, and two factors only: the degree to which the public respects the law, and the degree to which law enforcement officers perform their duties fairly and honestly.

★ ★ ★

If you take the time and trouble to study the comparative crime picture around the world, you will find that crime rates are everywhere the lowest where these two conditions obtain, and highest where they do not.

Giving the police wider powers is always a symptom of some breakdown in the social and moral functioning of the society.

Crime is lowest in those countries where the public knows that the police are not corrupt or the agents of political forces; where the administration of justice is swift, certain, and equitable; where police and prosecutors are not permitted to conspire in the withholding of evidence unfavorable to their case; where the poor defendant has as much pre-trial protection as the rich one.

And crime is highest — as in the U.S. — where the opposite conditions are rife; where the police are regarded with suspicion and distrust; where the administration of justice is slow, capricious, and weighted heavily against the poor and the ignorant; where prosecutors are more concerned with "making a record" than representing the people; and where defendants who cannot make excessive bail are kept locked up for months.

★ ★ ★

Passing stiffer laws, and giving the police broader powers, can do nothing but further jeopardize the human and legal rights of all American citizens. It is like treating a case of measles by giving the authorities the right to rub coarse sandpaper over the spots, taking off the skin along with the symptoms of illness.

The charge that U.S. courts "coddle criminals" has no basis in fact. The courts protect individual rights from the power of the state.

The defendants who benefit from such decisions as "Miranda" are not the Syndicate chiefs, the gangsters and professionals, who already had expensive lawyers ready to use every legal loophole to get them off; the ones who benefit are the small fry, the pathetic victims of their own ignorance and ineptitude, who take the rap for the criminal with "clout."

★ ★ ★

It is shocking that the United States, a presumably educated nation, knows so little, and cares so little, about the gross malfunctions of justice in its society. This ignorance plays right into the hands of the police state.

Permit 'Very Good Insurance'

How to Build and Remain Happy

By HUBERT BEYER

The following is a bit of advice from experts — which automatically eliminates me — to any potential amateur carpenters, bricklayers, roofers or electricians which does include me.

A couple of cables (or are they called wires?) strung from the fuse box to a bulb doesn't necessarily constitute a proper electrical installation.

The fact that a garage, built by an after-hour carpenter who slugs it out in an office all day, doesn't collapse the first time the little woman hits the door frame, won't indicate good workmanship.

And just because a roof doesn't cave in two hours after it has been finished, doesn't mean it'll pass the rigid inspection of a building engineer.

* * *

Therefore, the experts say, the do-it-yourself man should know what he's doing before he finds out that whatever he has been doing himself turned out wrong.

Many a handyman who applies his skills around the house has unwittingly run afoul of the law, Jim Garnett, Victoria's city engineer, said in an interview.

Any physical changes to a house, including inside alterations exceeding a $25 value, require a building permit, Garnet said.

That applies to electrical installations, plumbing jobs and all types of carpentry work, the city engineer said.

A building permit, he said, is "very good insurance against improper work." A permit for a $100 project costs $1.50. The fee for a $1,000 job, he said, is about $6.

* * *

"In case of electrical installations, our inspector may virtually tell an applicant how he should do the job and there's no fee for that advice," he said.

The engineering department requires plans of the proposed project at the time of application for a building permit.

"They don't have to be very elaborate as long as they show what the chap's about to build. Some people come here with a rough drawing on the back of an envelope," Garnett said.

When the job is completed, city inspectors will either pass or reject it. They will point out what has been done wrong and how to correct it.

In the case of plumbing installations, Garnett said, the most frequent pitfalls are the wrong grade for pipes or improper placement of air vents.

"As far as electric wiring is concerned, people often use the wrong size wire or they have too many connections on one circuit," he said.

"Therefore we try to encourage people to come and ask us for advice. Especially in the case of smaller alterations, we aren't very bureaucratic."

* * *

What happens if someone is caught having built an addition to his house, a basement room or a garage without a permit?

"We usually impose a double-permit fee. In very rare instances do we go to court over an infraction of our building permit bylaw," Garnett said.

No permit is required for the building of a fence, the city engineer said.

Basically, the same regulations apply in all Greater Victoria municipalities.

Older Boys' Parliament

Future Leaders Will Meet Soon

The 40th session of the Older Boys' Parliament of B.C will be held Dec. 27 to 31 in the legislative buildings.

As in years past, the participants will be billeted in private homes in Greater Victoria.

Arrangements for accommodation are being co-ordinated by Rev. R. A. Faris of First United Church.

Nominations for members of parliament and observers call for young men, aged 17 to 21, who have high qualities of character and are involved in Christian youth groups, Faris said this week.

"The Older Boys' Parliament is doing more than talking about responsibility and communication," he said. "The boys put it into practice. As they take part in the parliament they will be given invaluable experience as the future leaders of our country in how to act responsibly, how to communicate effectively through parliamentary procedure and what it means to mature in fellowship and service with fellow Christians."

Faris can be reached at First United Church, 388-5188 or at home, 385-1128.

IN CASE OF EMERGENCY, CALL (416) 755-9221 COLLECT.

Suppose your washing machine goes on the blink right after you move into a new town. You're miles away from the dealer you bought it from and you don't know the name of a reliable serviceman. Where can you turn for help?

Or what if your refrigerator breaks down just after you've loaded it with a week's supply of food. Where are you going to find someone to fix it fast?

Well, if it's an Inglis appliance, your search is ended. You just call the number listed above. Collect. Any time of the day or night.

When you call, an Inglis Service Technician will answer. (If a woman answers, don't hang up, that's our answering service.) Our Technician will give you the name and number of the Inglis Service Centre nearest your home. Which means that your appliance will be repaired by men trained and authorized by Inglis. Men who know every Inglis appliance inside and out.

So if you own an Inglis appliance, we suggest you cut out our number and paste it somewhere on the machine. And if you don't own an Inglis, we suggest you save it anyway, because someday you might.

Inglis is the first major appliance manufacturer in the country to provide a service like this. Although, since our machines need so few repairs, we should have been the last.

Policeman Wrestles Shouting Rebel

Shouting "Death to Fascism and long live the Communist Party of Canada," Keith Philip Gibbens was wrestled out of Victoria's provincial court by a policeman Friday on the order of Judge Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre.

The slim, blond, 19-year-old who gave no address to police, was charged with vagrancy during the morning court session.

When asked to plead he responded with an outburst.

"I am not going to plead to this bogus charge. It is clearly an attempt to stop the spread of revolutionary ideas. I was posting anti-fascist notices when this happened.

"And I want to say as long as I am held on this charge I won't be eating. Furthermore, they won't give me a pen or paper to write."

Jorre de St. Jorre ordered a plea of not guilty be entered on behalf of Gibbens and, at that time, the hearing was adjourned to Dec. 1.

In the afternoon, Gibbens was again brought back into court in order that the Crown could change the date of the remanded hearing until Nov. 30.

Again he was asked if he wished to make a plea and if he understood the date of the hearing had been changed.

Gibbens started to say something irrelevant to the question and the judge ordered police to take him out.

"I'm not going to have this sort of a performance in this court," said the judge.

The court officer took Gibbens by the arm and, when the accused resisted, held him and wrestled him out of the chamber to the adjacent prisoners' room.

Other police officers were hurrying to assist but the one policeman managed.

As he was leaving the room the accused turned his head and shouted:

"Death to Fascism and long live the Comunist Party of Canada."

Said Jorre de St. Jorre:

"I simply will not have this sort of thing. That man will be held in custody for a psychiatric examination."

Bruce M. Bird, 22, no given address, pleaded guilty to being in possession of an offensive weapon — a new fish knife with a seven-inch blade.

Constable Gerald Cox said Bird was just entering the lobby of the Imperial Inn when he was checked by police. He said he was carrying the knife for protection and that he had just been released from the penitentiary and knew no one in Victoria.

Later Bird told the court it was true that he was just out of prison and he knew no one in town. That, he said, was the reason for the knife.

He will be sentenced Dec. 4 after a pre-sentence report.

□

Two charges of cheque forgery were admitted by Joseph Cardinal, 21, of Cache Creek.

Cheques with forged signatures were each for $235.

Det. Lorne Johnston said the accused admitted picking up a blank cheque form in the office of B and J Construction Co. He presented the cheque at his bank, had it deposited to his account and took $135 in cash.

Jorre de St. Jorre said he would sentence Dec. 4 after a pre-sentence report.

□

Frank Ellis, 52, no fixed address, will be in jail for Christmas — and that is just the way he wants it.

He pleaded guilty to vagrancy and police said that when he was picked up for yelling at a woman, he told officers he wanted to be "vagged" and spend Christmas in jail.

In court Friday, Ellis suggested a sentence of three months.

"It's not often that people come here and specify the time they want to spend in jail. Let's make it four months," the judge said.

Thomas A. Hasketh, 50, of 417 Vancouver Street, pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance in a local restaurant and was fined $15 with the option of three days in jail.

Loaded for Kabob

Huge unit for Alberta's petrochemical industry was loaded this week aboard two railway cars at Victoria Machinery Depot. VMD sales manager Dave Clarke said 150-ton unit is 130 feet in length and large section is 138 inches inside diameter. It is destined for Kabob, Alta., where it will be used to remove ethane from rich oil, Clarke said.—(William E. John)

From 28 Offences

Parking Fines Cost $265

Michael Diamond neglected his parking tickets for almost a year but the law caught up with him and the company of which he is president, M. Diamond Houses Ltd., in Provincial Court Friday.

Diamond pleaded guilty to one charge against him, personally, and 27 against the company. He paid a total of $265 in fines.

The offences, which included ordinary meter violations and illegal parking in commercial, hotel and tow-away zones, took place throughout the year from Jan. 23 until just recently.

Most of the illegal parking was in the neighborhood of Wharf, Langley, Courtney, Fort and Government with occasional offences in the Blanshard-Yates area.

Fines ranged from $5 to $15 with one, on Friday, March 13, for $17.50.

"We can't possibly give the minimum fines in this instance," said Judge Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre. "This is scandalous."

Students Opposed To Parking Lots

More than 2,500 students responded to a survey regarding transportation needs conducted at the University of Victoria this week, co-ordinator David Palmer said Friday.

The survey, aimed at finding an alternative to present prospects of seeing more and more of the campus being paved to provide parking lots, was sponsored by the UVic Environmental Action Group, an informal organization of students who want to make the campus a proper environmental model.

Results of the survey will not be officially known until early in the new year, but Palmer said preliminary perusals seemed to indicate the students are largely opposed to further campus parking lots.

The questionnaire used in the survey dealt with topics such as suitability of present bus routes and schedules, among others.

With approximately 800 residence students excluded from the study, the 2,500 turnout was greater than that usually experienced in other campus votes.

At present, with approximately 5,100 off-campus full-time students, there are 2,600 regular parking spaces available at the university. An additional 774 reserved spaces are also available.

All Electors To Vote?

All electors, tenants as well as homeowners, should have a vote on school money matters, British Columbia School Trustees Association officials told Education Minister Donald Brothers Wednesday.

This was one of the chief recommendations when the BCSTA delegation, headed by president Peter Powell, suggested legislative changes to Brothers.

Free. How come?

Free because we'd like to prove that a domestic oil fired hot water heater from Chevron is faster. Up to seven times faster than electric ones. And up to three times faster than gas water heaters. Free also, because we'd like to prove that an oil fired hot water heater from us is cheaper to operate. Up to 40% cheaper than electricity. And up to 20% cheaper than gas.

What kind of hot water heater do you get for nothing?

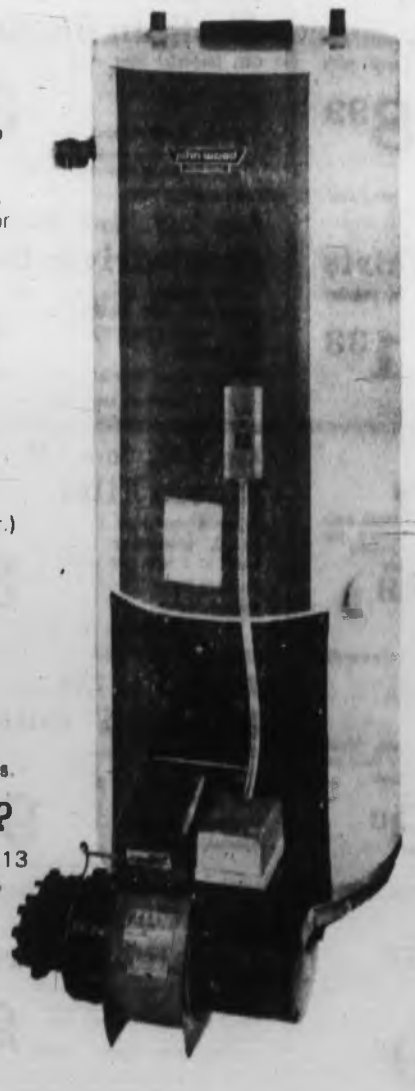

You get the best. Our hot water heater carries a ten year tank warranty. It's compact, rust-proof, fully insulated and double glass-lined. It delivers lots and lots of hot water. (90 gallons every hour.) And here's the best part: use of this oil fired hot water heater is yours for three months. Free. Including installation costs up to $80.

What's the catch?

There are two. An understandable one is that you already have to have an oil furnace. Another is that you contract to buy top quality Chevron Heating Fuels.

What do I do to keep it?

You can either lease or buy. It's only $4.13 a month to lease and if you want to buy, you can spread the payments over a ten year period.

I accept your offer in the spirit in which it's given.

We're delighted and welcome the opportunity to prove we're better. All you have to do now is call one of the Chevron Housewarmers listed below. Doctor, Woman Flown to B.C.

By PAT MURPHY

Dr. Glen Stewart, who has been questioned by RCMP in San Francisco in connection with the death of a camp caretaker at Pachena Bay, was flown under police escort to Vancouver Friday night.

United States immigration authorities in San Francisco said Friday Stewart had agreed to a "voluntary departure under safeguards" following an immigration hearing during which the former Vancouver Island doctor was denied a release under bond.

Stewart arrived on a regular airline flight from San Francisco in company with two U.S. immigration men.

With Stewart were two detectives from the Victoria subdivision of the RCMP who have been questioning Stewart in San Francisco, and a third RCMP officer from Prince Rupert who was reported to be questioning Stewart about the disappearance of a woman from Smithers.

The woman was identified Friday by Prince Rupert RCMP officers as Mrs. Sheila Haupt, 34. Mrs. Haupt's mother reported her missing about nine months ago.

Mrs. Haupt's husband is serving with the armed forces. Shortly after her disappearance a suitcase containing some of her belongings was found in the Bulkley River near Smithers.

RCMP Superintendent A. M. Nelson of the Victoria detachment said earlier Friday Stewart would be taken into custody on his arrival in Vancouver on a bench warrant charging him with failure to appear in court in Port Alberni on a non-related matter.

He is charged with being in possession of stolen goods worth more than $50. The charge involved a liferaft valued at about $500 taken in the area of Bamfield, about four miles north of Pachena Bay.

Stewart made one appearance in court in October and pleaded not guilty. He was placed on $2,500 bail and scheduled to reappear on Tuesday. When he did not, a bench warrant was issued.

* * *

Nelson said Stewart would be held in Vancouver Friday night and be escorted to Port Alberni to appear there in court.

An inquest into the death of Gordon Adrian Kralt, 23, of Duncan, whose badly-decomposed body was found in a field Sunday three weeks after he was last seen alive, was opened in Port Alberni Monday night.

The corpse was viewed, identification and medical evidence given after which the inquest was adjourned with no date fixed for it to reopen. Port Alberni RCMP said it may be waived altogether.

* * *

Although the exact cause of death could not be determined because of decomposition of the body, police have said they believe Kralt was shot in the main lodge of the Shantymen's Camp Ross where he was caretaker. They base their belief on the finding of a bullet from a "large-calibre" gun and bloodstains in the building.

Kralt was last seen alive Oct. 30 and is believed to

45 Die, 184 Survive Jet Crash in Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — A DC-8 jetliner carrying 229 persons, most of them military personnel bound for Vietnam, crashed and a few minutes later exploded during takeoff Friday night, killing 45 persons.

State troopers confirmed the death toll after rescuers made their way to the wreckage.

Anchorage hospitals reported receiving 75 persons suffering primarily from burns with more coming in.

The four-engine jet, chartered by the United States military, lifted off from Anchorage International Airport after dark in a freezing drizzle.

Scores of emergency vehicles rushed to the scene.

The plane, chartered by the United States military, began its flight at McChord Air Force Base in Tacoma, Wash. A spokesman for McChord said the passengers were believed to be army and air force personnel.

Witnesses at Anchorage International Airport said the plane aborted the takeoff, exploded twice and burst into flames.

Witnesses also said 15 to 20 men were seen running from the burning plane.

* * *

Airport police said the plane was a DC-8 owned by Capitol International Airways.

The plane carried 219 passengers and 10 crew members, spokesmen said. It was to have stopped in Yakota, Japan, en route to Vietnam.

A spokesman for the Alaska state troopers said most of the bodies were believed to be still aboard the plane. He said flames prevented an immediate search for bodies.

The crashing plane left a 500-yard trail of fuel, an airport spokesman said. He said parts of two motors and the wings were widely scattered.

* * *

A survivor, who received first aid at the airport terminal said the plane "only climbed for a few seconds, then it sort of glided down."

The man, who refused to give his name, said he had been sitting near the centre of the plane.

John Pederson, an airport mechanic, said: "It was too fast to land and too slow to take off."

He said the plane nosed down, crashed and then exploded twice about three or four minutes after it hit the ground.

Snow Blankets Roads From Malahat North

Snow blanketed highways on Vancouver Island Friday night but no serious accidents were reported.

Cities reported streets generally clear but in some rural districts more than seven inches of snow were reported.

RCMP offered words of advice—if highway travel could be avoided it would be wise to avoid it. On the Malahat, the highways to Port Alberni and Gold River and Kelsey Bay from Campbell River snow tires were mandatory and carrying chains was advised.

Farther north, a massive blanket of cold air covered the three prairie provinces and northeastern B.C.

Fort St. John, B.C., set a record low for the date with 33 below and four record lows were set in Alberta communities.

Production, Employment Thursday Budget Targets

OTTAWA (CP) — New government measures designed to pep up laggard productive activity and fight unemployment will be outlined in a special federal budget next Thursday night.

Finance Minister Edgar Benson briefly told the Commons Friday that he would present a budget at 5 p.m. PST Dec. 3, but he warded off questions.

Details of spending or tax changes in a budget traditionally are a closely-guarded secret until presented to Parliament.

* * *

However, it has been known that the cabinet planned a budget revision for the current financial year ending March 31. The aim is to stimulate an economy that has slowed down under the squeeze of anti-inflation spending and credit restraints during the last two years.

Customarily, the way governments try to encourage increased industrial activity and the jobs that go with it is by reducing taxation, stepping up government spending or both.

* * *

Reducing taxation leaves more ready cash in the tills of corporations or the pockets of consumers. This increases demand for goods and services and stimulates suppliers to speed up activity and staff to meet the demand.

Increased government spending has the same effect.

In Vancouver Benson's announcement of a new budget was welcomed Friday by Conservative leader Robert Stanfield, who said Benson is simply taking his advice.

* * *

"I have been urging him to do this," Stanfield said, "and in the course of doing so he should give an accurate indication of precisely where the federal government would like the economy to go.

"He has been making only general statements and as a consequence no one knows how much emphasis the government is placing on expansion as opposed to anti-inflationary measures. I hope that any measures he does take will be enough to get the economy moving again."

Syria Joins Projected Federation

CAIRO (AP) — Syria has joined the projected federation of Egypt, Sudan and Libya, Sudan's official radio said Friday.

No deadline has been set for creation of the federation. The four countries have agreed, however, to set up joint commissions to supervise the gradual unification of their political, economic, military, cultural and agricultural policies.

Increased Pension Coming for Needy

By MARJORIE NICHOLS

OTTAWA — The federal government has decided to completely revamp the old age security system to provide regular pension increases only to those who demonstrate need.

The application of the old age pension will continue to be universal. That is, every Canadian age 65 or over will be eligible for a basic pension.

Only those who are needy, however, will be provided with annual increases. The remaining pensioners will receive a flat amount every month with no provision for increases.

* * *

Under the government's plan, the outlines of which were disclosed Friday, the universal old-age pension will be a flat $80 a month after Jan. 1.

Pensioners living in B.C. receive a provincial supplement of up to $38.59 which is entirely separate from the federal basic pension and any supplementary payments by Ottawa. A provincial welfare spokesman said Friday it is impossible at this stage to predict what effect, if any, the announced increases will have on the provincial supplement.

* * *

In Saskatoon, T. C. Douglas, national leader of the New Democratic Party, said the proposed increase of the basic old-age pension "doesn't begin to compensate for increases in cost of living over the last few years."

He said old-age pensioners have been getting two per cent in the cost of living, "whereas the cost of living has been going up four or five per cent."

Douglas reiterated his stand that the basic old-age pension should be increased to $125 a month with another $50 for persons with no other income.

* * *

The present basic pension is $79.58 a month. Thus many pensioners — in fact more than half of them — stand to receive only 42 cents a month more under the new scheme.

For the needy pensioners, however, the pension boosts they are receiving next April 1 will be substantial. They will also be guaranteed annual increases thereafter.

In short, the government has established the new $80-a-month pension only as a base on which to build its new system.

Of the 1,700,000 old-age pensioners in the country, about 880,000 now qualify for the supplementary benefit paid on the basis of need.

In effect, only these 880,000 stand to benefit from the new scheme. They are, however, in the government's view, those who need the help.

All of the pension increases will be applied to the income supplement scheme. The maximum supplement now is $31.83. Government officials refused to disclose the amount of the planned increase to the supplemental scheme, but one spokesman issued assurances that it would be "substantial."

Full details of the new pension scheme will not be made public until the government tables its long-awaited

Auditor Check Being Dropped

● Auditors' auditors urged for CN, Air Canada. Page 5

OTTAWA (CP) — The government will quietly let die its bill to restrict the powers of the auditor-general, cabinet sources said Friday.

And it also may give up a month-long attempt to push through Parliament its public order bill as a temporary replacement for the War Measures Act regulations.

Informants said the government is reviewing its entire legislative program in the light of three weeks lost on the public order bill and an extra week that now may be required for a budget debate.

Saturday Commons sittings are a possibility, one informant said.

Bills that the government would have liked to see passed at the current session which began Oct. 8 are already being discarded, sources said.

The first to go would be the auditor-general's legislation, which the opposition says would need government closure to pass.

To Pope Paul

Second Threat Blocked

MANILA (Reuter) — A young woman carrying a small knife was detained today outside the special nuncio where Pope Paul is staying during his visit to Manila.

Police said the woman was spotted in a small crowd waiting outside the pontiff's residence as the pope drove away to go to the University of Santo Tomas to meet students.

She was taken to police headquarters for questioning.

The pope narrowly escaped severe injury Friday morning after his plane touched down at Manila airport when a Bolivian painter carrying a foot-long knife lunged at him but missed.

Smiles Become Tears If Dream Vanishes

By BILL THOMAS

The borderline between a child's smiles and tears is impossible to measure but the one dissolves into the other in an instant especially when a long-cherished expectation vanishes on Christmas morning.

In good times and bad there are always those who for one reason or another find themselves in trouble — parents who can't realize even a fragment of tiny dreams. It was 14 years ago that Colonist readers took the lead trying to put the glisten back with their gifts to the 500 Fund.

This year more people than ever find that, despite the affluent society, they will be in need.

Last year Colonist readers swelled the fund to more than $25,500 to bring aid to the truly needy. All money donated is turned over to families chosen by the Christmas Bureau, a Community Chest agency.

The sawmill set two new records for daily and weekly production during the month. A new daily record of 363,000 board feet was set Oct. 14, breaking the previous record of 360,000 board feet set March 7, 1967.

The new weekly production record of 1,659,000 board feet was set during the week of Oct. 21, breaking the old record of 1,653,000 board feet set during the week of March 8, 1967.

No. 2 paper machine turned out a total of 10,628 tons during October, topping the previous record of 10,405 tons set in March, 1969, the company said.

Brothers Tells Malaspina Council

April Merger Possible For College and School

By LYNNE WALLER

NANAIMO — Education Minister Donald Brothers assured Malaspina College council Thursday that plans for a merger with Nanaimo Vocational Training School are definite.

★ ★ ★

He said his department hopes the merger will take place by April.

He told councillors that he was "greatly impressed" by what the college had been able to achieve in such a short time and that it "excels" in the area of encouraging community interest.

During the meeting, College president Dr. Carl Opgaard said the extent to which the community was involved in the operation of the college was emphasized by the fact that 110 citizens were actively advising on programming. That was in addition to citizens serving on the council.

Brothers said he had talked with student council president Randy Reigets who complained about crowded conditions in the building.

The minister said he had told Reigets he hoped the department would be able to assist in getting a new campus but he did not go into detail.

★ ★ ★

"I have been mightily impressed by how you have taken advantage of every square inch of space in this building," he said.

Sites chairman Beattie Davis of Ladysmith said he felt confident that the college would be able to acquire 165 acres of land behind the vocational training school.

★ ★ ★

He could not say whether the property would be handed over as a gift, leased or bought. But did say that Public Works Minister Arthur Laing favored the idea of the college acquiring the land.

The council will use Nanaimo School Board resources for a feasibility study and make sure the land would be suitable for future college use.

The Navigator, Malaspina College's student newspaper, will receive an additional $200 from the council to bring their budget up to $1,051.

★ ★ ★

The college receives $1,300 from the student council to operate the paper.

The council was asked for an increased amount from the council to cover rising printing costs caused by an increased number of pages and the cost of printing additional papers with a growing circulation.

Mrs. Avis Mitchell, representing Qualicum - Parksville school district presented rare editions of English newspapers dating from the 1600s.

★ ★ ★

The papers came from Mrs. William Gould of Hilliers who, for about 20 years, was a Parksville school trustee.

One of the papers, the Weekely Newes of London, was published in 1606 and carried an account of the Guy Fawkes incident.

★ ★ ★

Included was a first edition of the Scotsman, printed in 1817, and two copies of the London Times. One published in 1805 carried reports of the Battle of Trafalgar and the other, from 1815, gave accounts of the Battle of Waterloo.

The papers will be lodged in the college library.

North Cowichan

Concert Stage Project Draws Attack

NORTH COWICHAN — A $12,000 covered concert stage, one of the centennial projects approved by North Cowichan council recently has been sharply criticized by Mrs. Louise Hamilton, chairman of the Cowichan Red Cross water safety committee.

She charged that if showed lack of understanding and suggested that at least part of the money should have been used for a pool to treat handicapped and crippled children.

In addition to the stage, to be built at Cowichan Exhibition grounds, council also approved. $4,000 for the permanent display of a logging locomotive at Chemainus; $6,400 toward a swimming pool at Crofton; $7,500 toward a project at Cowichan Valley Forest Museum.,

Mrs. Hamilton said that, as far back as June 15, a training and hydrotherapy pool for handicapped and crippled children was suggested as a centennial project but eventually the proposal was dropped by the centennial committee.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Hamilton, who often works with handicapped and crippled children, said: "One question comes to mind. Can we in all honesty and, after soul-searching, say that a covered bandshell is a more worthy project than a small, heated pool to help those unfortunate children?

"Everybody should be aware of the benefits of water therapy for physically handicapped individuals and neurologically and mentally handicapped people."

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Hamilton said it was the second time the request for such a pool "was simply forgotten."

During the last centennial, a similiar suggestion was "made in vain," she said.

"Please understand these remarks are not meant to detract from Crofton's good fortune," she said, and as water safety chairman I wish to congratulate them on their successful presentation for a pool."

★ ★ ★

She urged North Cowichan and Duncan councils to set aside money in next year's budget to meet capital expense for a training pool which would cost between $6,000 and $8,000.

Mrs. Hamilton said "With some goodwill it could be done and it would not be very expensive for either municipality. I strongly feel that such a pool is a must for our community."

She said a decision to build the pool would have great humanitarian impact because it would provide a chance for crippled and handicapped children to become "total persons."

She said such pools were used with great success at the G. R. Pearkes clinic, Victoria, and in the Richmond school district where the same pool is also used by Richmond General Hospital to treat muscle and bone problems.

Port Alberni Crematorium

Improvement Project Nearly Ready to Go

PORT ALBERNI — Alberni-Clayoquot Regional Board met at Bamfield recently.

Board member Frank Steuart of Bamfield introduced the group to spectators who attended from the surrounding district.

In addition to routine correspondence, board members heard from a three-man delegation representing the East Indian community in Port Alberni regarding a crematorium on Sanuders Road.

A petition from residents of the Beaver Creek Improvement District requested disallowance of the crematorium which has served the East Indian community for many years.

Sadhu Singh Rai, spokesman for the group gave details of an improvement plan which, he said, had been delayed for two years because of the number of approvals required by the Public Utilities Commission.

Only the approval of the health department was required to enable the East Indian group to proceed with renovations and improvements.

Beaver Creek representative William Hunt indicated he had not signed and did not support the petition. He agreed the property was in a state of disrepair but he had been assured that plans of the society, in conjunction with the health branch, zoning and other regulations would ensure that the renovated facility would not have any ill-effects on the area.

The board agreed to advise the Beaver Creek petitioners that, legally, zoning regulations would not be retroactive and to outline plans to upgrade the crematorium in compliance with health, building and zoning regulations.

The board also decided against making a grant to the Alberni Valley Centennial Committee for its planned museum project "due to the multiplicity of other Centennial projects withing the regional district."

Bamfield fire department's problems were also outlined to the board.

Bruce Adams said the department required $16,000 in capital financing, plus $2,000 for annual operating costs.

The secretary of the board is to report to the board at its next meeting to determine the best way of financing such a project.

Willow Point Issue

Residents Succeed In Horse Protest

CAMPBELL RIVER — A delegation of Willow Point residents in an area bounded by Hilchey, Westgate, Eardley roads and Island Highway attended this week's Campbell River council meeting to protest rezoning of the area from residential to light industrial.

Mrs. Ollie Penman, who is running for election as alderman in the Dec. 12 municipal elections, acted as spokesman for the group and presented council with a petition which, she said, represented 60 per cent of residents in the area.

She said: "I think this 60 per cent majority gives a fair enough idea that we do not, under any circumstances, want that area zoned for anything but residential."

Mayor Kenneth McDonald said that the application for rezoning had been turned down at council's last meeting.

Ald. Sandra Baikie said she had suggested to Mrs. Penman to keep on gathering signatures to the petition and bring it to the meeting to show how people in that area felt.

Another delegation, headed by Mrs. Gladys Smith appeared before council to protest a zoning amendment bylaw that would allow residents of the municipality to keep horses on half-an-acre or more of land.

★ ★ ★

She said: "The opinion of the residents in the Twilingate and Dahl Road areas of Willow Point was not the opinion of the majority of the people in that area."

Later in the meeting, when a zoning amendment bylaw was read a second time, it was agreed to remove the section allowing horses to be kept.

McDonald recommended that the issue be referred to the town planning advisory board for study.

The bylaw will be advertised and a public hearing will be held in the Municipal Hall on Dec. 17, at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Ald. Kenneth Forde, who has been deploring the fact that children are riding bicycles at night along the roads and highway without lights or reflectors, said that R. J. McDonald of McDonald Industries Ltd. has offered to make suitable fluorescent tape available free for that purpose.

Forde said that McDonald, who operates a sign-painting business, would spend two hours per week at district schools putting tape on bicycles providing arrangements are made beforehand.

★ ★ ★

Ald. Charles Saults said that the RCMP had done that in previous years in co-operation with B.C. Tel as part of a safety program and "as a matter of courtesy we should contact them about this proposal so as not to overlap."

Saults reported on a clearing party held Nov. 22 on the site of the proposed ice-skating arena.

He said that there was timber on a large part of the site which could be sold, the money going toward costs of clearing. Council agreed.

Twenty building permits were issued in October, six for new dwellings; two for commercial buildings; one apartment building, and 11 additions and alterations. Total value is $598,775. Building permits issued for January to October amounted to 128, with a value of $2,553,375.

Ladysmith Court

Judge Dismisses Drug Charges

LADYSMITH — Charges of possessing marijuana against Lawrence George Seymour of the Chemainus Bay Indian Reserve were dismissed this week by Provincial Court Judge E. F. N. Robinson.

Seymour was charged June 16 after RCMP officers searched his home on the reserve.

The judge said the prosecution failed to present sufficient admissible evidence to support the three charges.

□

Driving another person's car and not knowing it was uninsured did not save Louis Gagnon of Ladysmith from being fined $250 or going to jail for three months on a charge of driving without valid car insurance.

Gagnon pleaded guilty to the charge but told Robinson he did not know his friend's car was not insured.

The judge told him it is the driver's responsibility to see that there is insurance.

□

Jack Itinta of Ladysmith pleaded guilty to impaired driving and was fined $200, or 30 days jail, and lost his licence for two months.

He was arrested after his car skidded and went over an embankment. His breathaliser reading was .14.

□

Walking along First Avenue with a glass of beer cost Robert Allan Schwabe of Ladysmith a fine of $75 or 30 days jail on a charge of drinking liquor in a public place.

□

Driving a defective car cost Ellen Smith of Ladysmith $20, or four days jail. Her car had no tail-lights or brake-lights when police stopped her on the Diamond Bridge north of Ladysmith.

□

William McHeath of Chemainus was remanded without plea to Dec. 2 when he appeared before Judge Robinson on a charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident. One person was injured in the accident.

Parksville Couple

Open House Marks Diamond Wedding

PARKSVILLE — More than 100 friends and neighbors visited Mr. and Mrs. Philip Runacres of 126 Middleton Avenue, Parksville, recently when they held an open house to mark their diamond wedding anniversary.

Telegrams included congratulatory messages from the Queen, Prime Minister Trudeau, Lieutenant-Governor John Nicholson and there were letters from former Conservative leader John Diefenbaker and Premier Bennett.

Mr. and Mrs. Runacres' daughter Rhea who is living in Sydney, Australia, and grandchildren in Alberta also sent telegrams.

Mr. and Mrs. Runacres were married in Holy Trinity Cathedral, New Westminster Nov. 22, 1910. They were born in England but left when they were very young.

Mrs. Runacres was born in Enfield, England, and came to Canada with her parents in 1891. She recalls pioneer life on the Prairies and travelling by covered wagon, drawn by oxen, from Calgary to Penhold when her father moved west to homestead in Alberta. In 1896, the family moved to Vancouver and Mrs. Runacres says she feels she has really seen the city grow.

Her husband was born at Shoeburyness, near Southend-on-sea. His family came to Canada in 1900 and was brought up in the family pork butcher trade.

He met his future wife at Harrison Mills, near Vancouver where he moved after spending some time in Manitoba.

After their marriage, they farmed for a while in Alberta. Returning to British Columbia in the 1920s, they farmed at Surrey and Runacres also had a school bus contract at Cloverdale.

When the Second World War broke out, he enlisted with the Army Service Corps at New Westminster and spent seven years as a sergeant-cook.

When he retired in 1956, Mr. and Mrs. Runacres moved to Salt Spring Island. They moved to Parksville in 1961 where Runacres took on a part-time caretaking job at Parksville post office. He retired from that job in July at the age of 85.

Psychiatrist Going To Ontario

Resignation of Dr. K. J. Mackay, effective Dec. 31, will leave the Upper Island Mental Health Centre temporarily without the services of a full-time psychiatrist.

Health Minister Ralph Loffmark said Friday Dr. Mackay's successor will be Jack Kyle, psychologist attached to the centre. Until the services of a psychiatrist become available locally, he added, psychiatric consultation will be given to the centre staff by Dr. A. L. Aranas, director of the Victoria Mental Health Centre.

Loffmark paid tribute to Dr. Mckay for his services and expressed regret at his decision to return to psychiatric practice in Ontario. The Upper Island Mental Health Centre is located in the public health unit building at 875 Cumberland Road, Courtenay.

Youth Awaits Duncan Hearing

Michael Paul Wilson, 19, of Duncan, was remanded until Dec. 4 when he appeared in Victoria Provincial Court Thursday to meet the law that all persons held in custody must appear in court once every eight days.

Wilson is awaiting a preliminary hearing in Duncan Dec. 8 on a charge of wounding with intent. He is charged in connection with the axe-wounding of Johnny Jack, also of Duncan.

Prosecutor J. W. Anderson advised the court he had asked about bail for Wilson, and had found that it had been refused by Duncan Judge Lance Heard. One reason for this Anderson said, was that Wilson is an American citizen.

Public Hearings

"The parks are hereby dedicated to the people of Canada for their benefit, education and enjoyment . . . and such parks shall be maintained and made use of so as to leave them unimpaired for the enjoyment of future generations." SECTION 4: NATIONAL PARKS ACT

Public hearings are being held across Canada on provisional master plans for development and use of national parks. The plans outline the Government's proposals for intensity of park use, interpretation of natural history, protection of park environment and development of visitor facilities.

Hearings will be convened in Calgary, Edmonton and Vancouver to hear comments and recommendations on the provisional master plans for Banff, Jasper, Yoho and Kootenay National Parks. (Separate public discussion will take place on plans related to the townsites of Banff and Jasper.) Dates and places of these hearings will be announced in the near future, but a minimum of 90 days from November 13 will be allowed for the preparation of briefs and submissions. Interested individuals and organizations are invited to submit written briefs, in either official language, on any one or all of the plans and to indicate if they wish ot speak at the hearings.

'No One Forcing Anyone'

Permit Sterilization, St. Joseph's Asked

St. Joseph's Hospital's board of management Thursday was presented with a recommendation that sterilization be permitted in the Roman Catholic-orientated institution.

The board decided to table the suggestion until after next Monday's meeting at regional board offices that will discuss the future of the hospital. Representatives of the Sisters of St. Ann, regional hospital board, St. Joseph's medical staff and the provincial government will be there.

St. Joseph's current policy, because it is owned by a Roman Catholic order, denies male and female sterilizations and abortions.

The recommendation that sterilizations be permitted came from a subcommittee of the hospital's joint conference committee. It represents the feelings of a substantial number of the doctors who practise in St. Joseph's.

Dr. J. L. Hefferman, vice-president of the medical staff, told board members that Royal Jubilee has "made the point several times" that a large fraction if its increasing surgical load are patients admitted for sterilization.

* * *

"The time consumed by these procedures (male and female sterilizations) is reflected in the volume of major and minor surgery that the hospital can do," he added.

Hefferman also pointed out that St. Joseph's might lose all the fully-qualified obstetricians who practise there unless it alters its sterilization policies.

* * *

The reference to obstetrical practice was made because mothers occasionally want to be sterilized when they deliver a child. A new mother who has delivered at St. Joseph's now would have to be transported to Royal Jubilee for the subsequent tubal ligation, or tying of the Fallopian tubes.

Heffernan also said Royal Jubilee recently broadened the criteria for eligibility for sterilization to include anyone 19 years of age or older who has the approval of his or her doctor.

Previously, Royal Jubilee required candidates for sterilization to have their cases reviewed by a committee of doctors who practise in the hospital.

Dr. Peter Banks, president of St. Joseph's medical staff, said the hospital's obstetrical department was not declining as a result of the no-sterilization policy.

Instead, more babies than ever were being delivered at the hospital, which was gaining in popularity because it allowed husbands in the case room.

"On the other hand," said Banks, "to deny sterilization is to deny the law of Canada."

* * *

Hefferman said the subcommittee showed "every respect" for religious feelings.

"It was pointed out that no one was forcing anyone to be sterilized. Sterilization would be done only on the basis of approval by the patient and the concurrence of his doctor," he added.

Fred Norris, chairman of the board, said he had sympathy for the doctors and that he understood the existing policy created problems for them. The people of Victoria were fortunate in having an alternate hospital, he added.

Royal Jubilee so far this year has performed about 400 vasectomies, or sterilization of the male, and about 40 tubal ligations.

* * *

The policy of St. Joseph's does not hit doctors financially because any member of the medical staff there has limited privileges at Royal Jubilee, where he can admit the vasectomy or tubal ligation candidate.

Goodwill Treasure

Bargain Cost 99 Cents, Now $4,000 Bonanza

By BILL THOMAS

Hundreds of people scour the Goodwill Industries store on Yates Street looking for treasures. Last month artist Herbert Siebner thought he had found one. Now he knows for sure.

A 99-cent investment has turned into a $4,000 bonanza.

Siebner munched a ham sandwich in his Prospect Lake home Thursday, droping crumbs on color photographs of his "find."

"I've been rummaging around there for 16 years," he laughed, "and then I found this oil sketch on a piece of plywood. It was signed Carmichael and they were asking only 99 cents, so I took it. I often go down there to look for frames for my own work.

* * *

"When I got it home I looked carefully and on the back it said Franklin Carmichael. He was one of the founders of the Group of Seven, so I sent it to art experts in Montreal and they still have it."

Siebner later got a letter from the experts saying the picture was authentic and probably dates from around 1910. The find has been appraised at $4,000 by the experts and it will be auctioned off next spring in Montreal.

* * *

Despite its cash value, Siebner doesn't think much of the picture as a painting. "It's a little backyard background sort of thing with flowers. I think most of its value is in sentiment. But, in a way, it also carries a little moral."

When Siebner became a Canadian citizen in 1962 he gave the city of Victoria a painting of the Inner Harbor as a token of his gratitude in becoming a Canadian.

"When the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria honored me with a retrospective exhibition this year no one could find the picture I had made as a gift. The city had lost it.

* * *

"Maybe 50 years from now it will turn up in the Goodwill and somebody will get a real bargain. Perhaps we should think about things like that.

"Perhaps it happened to Carmichael that way. Nobody seems to value a gift."

Saanich

Group Will Watch

Any form of government needs a watchdog and the Saanich Action Committee has been reactivated to make sure Saanich council is informed of the wishes of residents, says committee president Frank Machin.

The committee was active two years ago at the time of the Saanich sewerage consolidation bylaw referendum, which it opposed, but has not met recently.

About 20 people attended the second committee meeting in as many weeks in St. Thomas Anglican Church Thursday evening. They included Saanich Ald. Leslie Passmore.

* * *

Machin expressed disappointment at the sparse audience and said he had hoped to have representatives from other property owner groups at the meeting.

He said the aim of the committee was to co-ordinate such groups as Royal Oak, Elk Lake and Blenkinsop ratepayers associations.

"We don't want to be a reactionary group. We don't want to fight people," said Machin. "It is not my intention to have this group simply fight the municipality because that would be reactionary and I am not a reactionary."

* * *

He said he hopes by next December the committee will be sufficiently viable to be able to endorse a slate of municipal candidates, but that this year is too early for such action.

Machin complained about the end of the ward system of voting in Saanich.

"I live in Cordova Bay, and I don't have a single representative from my area on council," he said.

Passmore said he had been instrumental in bringing about the end of the ward system and was proud of his actions.

"You don't have one representative on council—you have nine. Every member of council represents you," he told Machin.

Machin complained that when he tried to contact aldermen about Cordova Bay street lighting, he had not been able to reach either the mayor or an alderman.

* * *

Passmore apologized, saying it must be the first time he personally hadn't returned a call.

Next meeting of the committee was set for Jan. 14.

Shoplifter Given Big Fine

NANAIMO — The stiffest fine ever levied in Nanaimo Provincial Court for a case involving shoplifting was handed a 41-year-old Cowichan woman Thursday.

Judge William Philpott fined Olga Yates $500 after she pleaded guilty to theft under $50.

In passing sentence, the judge said Mrs. Yates' shoplifting of a number of small items in a Nanaimo department store was one of the most "deliberate raids on a store" he'd ever heard of.

Philpott said he would have sentenced the woman to a jail term except for the fact she has a small child attending kindergarten.

He said shoplifting appears to get worse near Christmas and that he would hand down jail terms or stiff fines if it continues.

School Bids Weighed

Herb Rate Ltd. submitted the low bid of $51,863 for renovations to Oak Bay high school administration area and art rooms when tenders were opened Thursday at Greater Victoria school board.

There were seven bids, ranging as high as $65,470. Estimated cost of renovations was $55,000. The bids were referred to the buildings and grounds committee for action.

Kralt's Car Found in Nanaimo Parking Lot

Doctor, Woman Flown to B.C.

By PAT MURPHY

Dr. Glen Stewart, who has been questioned by RCMP in San Francisco in connection with the death of a camp caretaker at Pachena Bay, was flown under police escort to Vancouver Friday night.

United States immigration authorities in San Francisco said Friday Stewart had agreed to a "voluntary departure under safeguards" following an immigration hearing during which the former Vancouver Island doctor was denied a release under bond.

Stewart arrived on a regular airline flight from San Francisco in company with two U.S. immigration men.

With Stewart were two detectives from the Victoria subdivision of the RCMP who have been questioning Stewart in San Francisco, and a third RCMP officer from Prince Rupert who was reported to be questioning Stewart about the disappearance of a woman from Smithers.

The woman was identified Friday by Prince Rupert RCMP officers as Mrs. Sheila Haupt, 34. Mrs. Haupt's mother reported her missing about nine months ago.

Mrs. Haupt's husband is serving with the armed forces. Shortly after her disappearance a suitcase containing some of her belongings was found in the Bulkley River near Smithers.

RCMP Superintendent A. M. Nelson of the Victoria detachment said earlier Friday Stewart would be taken into custody on his arrival in Vancouver on a bench warrant charging him with failure to appear in court in Port Alberni on a non-related matter.

He is charged with being in possession of stolen goods worth more than $50. The charge involved a liferaft valued at about $500 taken in the area of Bamfield, about four miles north of Pachena Bay.

Stewart made one appearance in court in October and pleaded not guilty. He was placed on $2,500 bail and scheduled to reappear on Tuesday. When he did not, a bench warrant was issued.

* * *

Nelson said Stewart would be held in Vancouver Friday night and be escorted to Port Alberni to appear there in court.

An inquest into the death of Gordon Adrian Kralt, 23, of Duncan, whose badly-decomposed body was found in a field Sunday three weeks after he was last seen alive, was opened in Port Alberni Monday night.

The corpse was viewed, identification and medical evidence given after which the inquest was adjourned with no date fixed for it to reopen. Port Alberni RCMP said it may be waived altogether.

* * *

Although the exact cause of death could not be determined because of decomposition of the body, police have said they believe Kralt was shot in the main lodge of the Shantymen's Camp Ross where he was caretaker. They base their belief on the finding of a bullet from a "large-calibre" gun and bloodstains in the building.

Kralt was last seen alive Oct. 30 and is believed to

51 DIE, 171 ALIVE IN ALASKA CRASH

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — A DC-8 jetliner carrying 229 persons, most of them military personnel bound for Vietnam, crashed and a few minutes later exploded during takeoff Friday night, killing at least 51 persons.

State troopers confirmed the death toll after rescuers made their way to the wreckage.

Police said 51 bodies were recovered from the wreckage and there were 171 known survivors. Seven persons were unaccounted for.

Most of the survivors escaped unhurt or with minor injuries, as the plane broke up into three pieces on impact.

The four-engine jet, chartered by the United States military, lifted off from Anchorage International Airport after dark in a freezing drizzle.

The plane, chartered by the United States military, began its flight at McChord Air Force Base in Tacoma, Wash. A spokesman for McChord said the passengers were believed to be army and air force personnel.

Witnesses at Anchorage International Airport said the plane aborted the takeoff, exploded twice and burst into flames.

Witnesses also said 15 to 20 men were seen running from the burning plane.

* * *

Airport police said the plane was a DC-8 owned by Capitol International Airways.

The plane carried 219 passengers and 10 crew members, spokesmen said. It was to have stopped in Yakota, Japan, en route to Vietnam.

A spokesman for the Alaska state troopers said most of the bodies were believed to be still aboard the plane. He said flames prevented an immediate search for bodies.

The crashing plane left a 500-yard trail of fuel, an airport spokesman said. He said parts of two motors and the wings were widely scattered.

* * *

A survivor, who received first aid at the airport terminal said the plane "only climbed for a few seconds, then it sort of glided down."

The man, who refused to give his name, said he had been sitting near the centre of the plane.

John Pederson, an airport mechanic, said: "It was too fast to land and too slow to take off."

He said the plane nosed down, crashed and then exploded twice about three or four minutes after it hit the ground.

Snow Blankets Roads From Malahat North

Snow blanketed highways on Vancouver Island Friday night but no serious accidents were reported.

Cities reported streets generally clear but in some rural districts more than seven inches of snow were reported.

RCMP offered words of advice—if highway travel could be avoided it would be wise to avoid it. On the Malahat, the highways to Port Alberni and Gold River and Kelsey Bay from Campbell River snow tires were mandatory and carrying chains was advised.

Farther north, a massive blanket of cold air covered the three prairie provinces and northeastern B.C.

Fort St. John, B.C., set a record low for the date with 32 below and four record lows were set in Alberta communities.

Victoria and Up-Island forecasts call for clouds and snow flurries.

Production, Employment Thursday Budget Targets

OTTAWA (CP) — New government measures designed to pep up laggard productive activity and fight unemployment will be outlined in a special federal budget next Thursday night.

Finance Minister Edgar Benson briefly told the Commons Friday that he would present a budget at 5 p.m. PST Dec. 3, but he warded off questions.

Details of spending or tax changes in a budget traditionally are a closely-guarded secrets until presented to Parliament.

* * *

However, it has been known that the cabinet planned a budget revision for the current financial year ending March 31. The aim is to stimulate an economy that has slowed down under the squeeze of anti-inflation spending and credit restraints during the last two years.

Customarily, the way governments try to encourage increased industrial activity and the jobs that go with it is by reducing taxation, stepping up government spending or both.

* * *

Reducing taxation leaves more ready cash in the tills of corporations or the pockets of consumers. This increases demand for goods and services and stimulates suppliers to speed up activity and staff to meet the demand.

Increased government spending has the same effect.

In Vancouver Benson's announcement of a new budget was welcomed Friday by Conservative leader Robert Stanfield, who said Benson is simply taking his advice.

* * *

"I have been urging him to do this," Stanfield said, "and in the course of doing so he should give an accurate indication of precisely where the federal government would like the economy to go.

"He has been making only general statements and as a consequence no one knows how much emphasis the government is placing on expansion as opposed to anti-inflationary measures. I hope that any measures he does take will be enough to get the economy moving again."

Syria Joins Projected Federation

CAIRO (AP) — Syria has joined the projected federation of Egypt, Sudan and Libya, Sudan's official radio said Friday.

No deadline has been set for creation of the federation. The four countries have agreed, however, to set up joint commissions to supervise the gradual unification of their political, economic, military, cultural and agricultural policies.

Increased Pension Coming for Needy

By MARJORIE NICHOLS

OTTAWA — The federal government has decided to completely revamp the old age security system to provide regular pension increases only to those who demonstrate need.

The application of the old age pension will continue to be universal. That is, every Canadian age 65 or over will be eligible for a basic pension.

Only those who are needy, however, will be provided with annual increases. The remaining pensioners will receive a flat amount every month, with no provision for increases.

* * *

Under the government's plan, the outlines of which were disclosed Friday, the universal old-age pension will be a flat $80 a month after Jan. 1.

Pensioners living in B.C. receive a provincial supplement of up to $38.59 which is entirely separate from the federal basic pension and any supplementary payments by Ottawa. A provincial welfare spokesman said Friday it is impossible at this stage to predict what effect, if any, the announced increases will have on the provincial supplement.

* * *

In Saskatoon, T. C. Douglas, national leader of the New Democratic Party, said the proposed increase of the basic old-age pension "doesn't begin to compensate for increases in cost of living over the last few years."

He said old-age pensioners have been getting two per cent on the cost of living, "whereas the cost of living has been going up four or five per cent."

Douglas reiterated his stand that the basic old-age pension should be increased to $125 a month, with another $50 for persons with no other income.

* * *

The present basic pension is $79.58 a month. Thus many pensioners — in fact more than half of them — stand to receive only 42 cents a month more under the new scheme.

For the needy pensioners, however, the pension boosts they are receiving next April 1 will be substantial. They will also be guaranteed annual increases thereafter.

In short, the government has established the new $80-a-month pension only as a base on which to build its new system.

Of the 1,700,000 old-age pensioners in the country, about 880,000 now qualify for the supplementary benefit paid on the basis of need.

In effect, only these 880,000 stand to benefit from the new scheme. They are, however, in the government's view, those who need the help.

All of the pension increases will be applied to the income supplement scheme. The maximum supplement now is $31.83. Government officials refused to disclose the amount of the planned increase to the supplemental scheme, but one spokesman issued assurances that it would be "substantial."

Full details of the new pension scheme will not be made public until the government tables its long-awaited

Auditor Check Being Dropped

● Auditors' auditors urged for CN, Air Canada. Page 5

OTTAWA (CP) — The government will quietly let die its bill to restrict the powers of the auditor-general, cabinet sources said Friday.

And it also may give up a month-long attempt to push through Parliament its public order bill as a temporary replacement for the War Measures Act regulations.

Informants said the government is reviewing its entire legislative program in the light of three weeks lost on the public order bill and an extra week that now may be required for a budget debate.

Saturday Commons sittings are a possibility, one informant said.

Bills that the government would have liked to see passed at the current session which began Oct. 8 are already being discarded, sources said.

The first to go would be the auditor-general's legislation, which the opposition says would need government closure to pass.

To Pope Paul

Second Threat Blocked

MANILA (Reuter) — A young woman carrying a small knife was detained today outside the special nuncio where Pope Paul is staying during his visit to Manila.

Police said the woman was spotted in a small crowd waiting outside the pontiff's residence as the pope drove away to go to the University of Santo Tomas to meet students.

She was taken to police headquarters for questioning.

The pope narrowly escaped severe injury Friday morning after his plane touched down at Manila airport when a Bolivian painter carrying a foot-long knife lunged at him but missed.

Smiles Become Tears If Dream Vanishes

By BILL THOMAS

The borderline between a child's smiles and tears is impossible to measure but the one dissolves into the other in an instant especially when a long-cherished expectation vanishes on Christmas morning.

In good times and bad there are always those who for one reason or another find themselves in trouble — parents who can't realize even a fragment of tiny dreams. It was 14 years ago that Colonist readers took the lead trying to put the glisten back with their gifts to the 500 Fund.

This year more people than ever find that, despite the affluent society, they will be in need.

Last year Colonist readers swelled the fund to more than $25,500 to bring aid to the truly needy. All money donated is turned over to families chosen by the Christmas Bureau, a Community Cheat agency.

'Tis the Season to Be Very Wary

Afternoons turn quickly to nights these days. Drivers are confronted with low visibility, complicated by slick pavements, bright lights and dark shadows. Pedestrians have to contend with rain or sleet in face and unsteady footing. 'Tis the season to be very, very wary. William E. John took this photo on Douglas near Bay.

City Manager

Regional Post Given Young

By NANCY BROWN

Victoria city manager Dennis Young was appointed Friday to the position of Capital Regional District executive director and secretary-treasurer.

Young was chosen for the $24,750 a year job from 35 applicants. Eight of them were interviewed by the executive committee, and Friday afternoon Young and another finalist appeared before the full board for interview.

He will take the place of Bill Long who has been with the board since 1967, and who is leaving to take up a similar position with the Municipal Financing Authority which has headquarters in Victoria.

* * *

Young, 47, became Victoria city manager in 1963. Before that he was treasurer and commissioner of finance for the city of Hamilton.

Young

He had previously been with the city of Victoria, joining the city hall staff as an accountant in 1950, and rising to comptroller-treasurer before being appointed assistant city manager in 1955.

"Mr. Young enjoys national stature in municipal government fields — he is a very valuable acquisition for the capital region," said board chairman Hugh Curtis, announcing the appointment.

"He is a worthy successor to Bill Long."

* * *

Curtis, who is also chairman of the Municipal Financing Authority, said Long had been confirmed in his position of executive director of the authority in late September, and at the moment is carrying the double load of both regional and financing business.

Young's position will become effective Feb. 1, or sooner if the city can make him available.

Wallace Reaction

Shipbuilding Subsidy Little Help

By BILL THOMAS

"I'd like to get enthusiastic as hell about the government's new 17-per-cent subsidy to shipbuilders but I can't," said John Wallace, general manager of Yarrows.

The government announced Friday in Ottawa that Canadian yards will be granted subsidies for the building of ships for foreign buyers of up to 17 per cent of construction costs for ships up to 40,000 tons deadweight and subsidies of 14 per cent for larger vessels.

David Anderson, Liberal MP for Esquimalt-Saanich, commented in Ottawa the aid should stop complaints from Yarrows. "If, as they claim, they are an efficient shipyard, they now have an opportunity to go abroad and prove it. We're not going to send work to them."

* * *

Wallace explained his guarded enthusiasm, saying the federal aid will go part way to stemming the differential of 15 per cent which already exists because of lower wage rates in Quebec yards.

"It still gets down to labor costs and we pay higher scales. The suggestion that a profitable world market exists is only partly true," said Wallace.

In outlining world conditions he made the point that most of the business is for supertankers and bulk carriers.

* * *

World shipyards are clogged, with the Japanese not promising delivery or ready to take new orders until 1974, but most of this trade is for ships that go up to 350,000 deadweight tons.

There is a market, Wallace concedes, for small ships if owners are anxious to pay a premium rate on the Canadian market for fast delivery.

"I know of one Quebec yard," said Wallace, "which was waiting for this subsidy because it has orders for three ships.

* * *

"We can't expect any business from U.S. customers because the American government has announced subsidies of up to 50 per cent for ships of U.S. registry built in U.S. yards."

The labor force in Canadian yards is down from 10,000 men last year to around 6,000 this year and Quebec still has the price edge. Yarrows' labor force is down to 270 from a high of 1,300.

Wallace predicts that if Eastern yards build up orders there could be some spill-over onto the West Coast yards, but he is cautious.

* * *

In Vancouver, J. W. Hudson, executive vice-president of Burrard Dry Dock, with which Yarrows is affiliated, indicated similar reaction.

Industry Minister Jean-Luc Pepin forecast the program would attract $300 million in international business and create 14,000 man years employment in the next five years.

Wallace couldn't agree with the minister that the tanker market holds out much hope for local yards.

"It costs $250 million to set up a Japanese yard to build tankers and that figure is based on multiple orders. Our hope is to pick up business in places like South America where nations are expanding their fishing fleets," added Wallace.

Warship May Return

An old-time naval friend, the destroyer-escort HMCS St. Croix, may come back to Victoria from the east coast and undergo a refit.

A naval spokesman could not offer definite confirmation that the destroyer would travel to the west coast but said whether it took place on the east or the west coast the destroyer would be up for a refit. The job would be put up for bids.

The spokesman also confirmed there was a possibility that Canada's remaining two minesweepers, the Chaleur Bay and Thunder Bay, would be transferred to the west coast, probably in the spring.

Donors Give 131 Pints

The Red Cross blood donor clinic collected 131 pints of blood Friday at the Sanscha Hall in Sidney.

A total of 601 pints was given during the five-day drive, 49 short of the 650-pint quota. The next clinic will be from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p.m. Tuesday at CFB Esquimalt (Dockyard).

Must Do as Victoria Wants

Zoning Blocks Fly-by-Nighters

By HUBERT BEYER

A new zoning regulation designed to make life miserable for fly-by-night developers and land speculators was recently adopted by Victoria city council.

Quietly and virtually unnoticed, council slipped an amendment into the city's zoning bylaw, the effects of which will be far-reaching.

Its bureaucratic title — special development area designation — sounds innocent enough, but it literally forces developers to do what the city wants — no more and no less.

* * *

Under this regulation city council may demand a performance bond from a developer; the amendment gives council the power to hold a developer to his plans.

The need for such an amendment has become more and more apparent in recent years. Council has repeatedly reacted with anger and frustration when a developer, contrary to original plans, changed the entire concept and often the quality of his project.

As long as the developer remained within the rather broad confines of the zoning bylaw, council was powerless.

Jack Collier of the city's planning department gave an example:

"Supose the city granted a zoning change to permit the building of a motel in a residentially-zoned area. There was nothing to stop the developer from selling the land, once it was rezoned, to another party who might establish a printing firm on the property," he said.

While a motel may be easily absorbed by a residential district, it was questionable whether the same could be said of a printing firm, he said.

And this is where the new regulation will come in.

If the same developer applied now for a permit to build a motel in a residential area, council may issue a permit under the special development area designation; that means, the developer can build only a motel, nothing else. The permit is only valid for his particular application and becomes null and void if he sells the land.

* * *

Furthermore, no actual zoning change is granted. Should the development fall through, the site remains residential.

The developer cannot change his plans after he's given the permit under the new regulation. If he has submitted drawings of a two-storey brick structure, he cannot suddenly build a one-storey frame structure.

Council reserves the right to cancel his permit at any time.

* * *

City Solicitor Terry O'Grady said no other section of the city's zoning bylaw ties a developer down to such an extent.

"He either builds exactly in accordance with the permit or he doesn't build at all," O'Grady said.

Legislation enabling municipalities to incorporate this amendement into their zoning bylaws, he said, was passed by the B.C. Legislature in 1968.

"We are by no means the first to take advantage of it, quite a number of municipalities in the province have used it, but we are the first in Greater Victoria," he said.

The Spencer Castle project has been proposed under this new regulation. To assure residents of the area that he will comply with every detail set out in his plans, Dannie Danzo of Port Alberni has agreed to proceed under the special area development designation.

He has put up a $250,000 performance bond and he will have to comply with every detail of his plans which will be discussed at a public hearing Dec. 17 at the city hall council chamber.

Region Asked to Increase Tourist Promotion Budget

All sectors of the community in Greater Victoria should contribute more for tourist promotion because the Capital Region is "the main attraction of the province," Ron Worley said Friday.

"I shouldn't really say this because I'm responsible for promoting tourism throughout British Columbia — but it's true," said the deputy travel minister.

He said local governments, particularly those adjoining the city of Victoria, the business community "and everybody" should contribute a much larger share because tourism this year "at a conservative estimate" poured close to $100 million into the coffers of the Capital Region.

* * *

Worley added it was "ridiculous" for the surrounding municipalities to claim, as justification for their refusal to carry a fair share of the tourist promotion load, that the city of Victoria was the "only one to get something out of the tourist business."

As an example, he said, among Californians the capital city is often regarded as "some place close to" Butchart Gardens. This illustrates the "definite need" existing for more promotion of less well-known attractions in the area.

"Butchart Gardens is more than just a famous place, however," Worley added. "It puts a lot of money directly into the coffers of Central Saanich municipality. The gardens employ some gardeners all the time and then there is all the temporary help needed in season."

* * *

Worley continued to defend the position taken earlier by Premier Bennett that $1 of the per capita grant paid by the government to municipalities was intended to be spent solely on tourist promotion.

The deputy minister said Vancouver's finance chairman Ald. Earle Adams "shows he really doesn't understand" the per capita grant system when he charges Bennett was guilty of a misstatement. Adam's own confusion, Worley said, is shown by the fact he lists part of the expenditures on parks as part of Vancouver's tourist promotion effort.

* * *

Worley added the original $25 per capita grant from the province was made to municipalities on the understanding it would be used to meet the cost of arterial roads, pollution, policing and parks. The latest $3 increase in 1969 was earmarked for ambulance services, industrial development and tourism.

Doing Plenty, Mayors Say

The mayors of Saanich, Esquimalt and Oak Bay said Friday their municipalities were doing their share for tourism.

Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis said there were other ways to aid tourism than by giving money to the Victoria Visitors' Bureau.

Through land acquisition and improvements, Saanich had succeeded in recent years to make the municipality more attractive for visitors, he said.

* * *

Oak Bay Mayor Frances Elford said her municipality had improved parks along beaches to attract tourists.

Esquimalt Mayor Arthur Young said his council had made donations to organizations such as the art gallery, the symphony society and the Greater Victoria Celebrations' Association.

All these donations, he said, helped create pastimes for tourists and residents.

* * *

The mayors were responding to charges by Victoria Mayor Courtney Haddock that they aren't spending their $1 provincial per capita grant to aid tourist promotion.

Victoria gives an annual grant of $60,000 to the visitors' bureau; Saanich gave $3,500 this year, Oak Bay $1,750, while Esquimalt made no grant.

* * *

Haddock has said the visitors' bureau may be outdated and should be scrapped. This statement drew a sharp reaction from Premier Bennett who warned that the per-capita grants might be withdrawn if municipalities failed to spend them on tourist promotion.

Power Hit At Jubilee

A power failure in the Royal Jubilee Hospital and surrounding area brought emergency power services into play at the hospital shortly before midnight Friday and a hospital spokesman said all essential services were being maintained.

Emergency measures at the hospital included "grounding" elevators" the spokesman said.

Oak Bay police reported the power outages extended throughout the Fort Street area and included Oak Bay Marina, a section of Beach Drive and Newport Avenue.

'Why Can't They Go to an Island?'

Resident Totally Opposed to Cool-Aid

Palmer Berg, 1337 Gladstone, is totally opposed to Cool-Aid plans to convert Emmanual Baptist Church to a youth resource centre, but Cool-Aid staff member Laurie Smith is hoping he will change his mind when he sees what is going on.

"Other people, especially some of our neighbors here on Balmoral, used to be either opposed to us or at least cautious, but they have changed their minds in the year and a half we've had this place," said Smith.

Berg said he hopes residents who signed a petition opposing Cool-Aid plans will be sure to attend the public hearing arranged for 2 p.m. Dec. 17 at City Hall.

He said he had four reasons for his opposition, the principal one being that he had small children, and didn't want Cool-Aid people for neighbors.

"I don't like the way these people are living, especially when they are getting by on handouts and welfare instead of working," said Berg.

He said he was afriad he would have to sell his house to get away from the young people who would be using the hall.

"Why do they have to be in the city — why can't they go off to an island somewhere to smoke pot, and do their thing?" he asked.

Berg said he felt the church was too close to a high school and those using it could exert a bad influence on students.

"I think it's taxpayers' money going down the drain," he said.

"The value of my property might go down, although that's the least important to me," said Berg.

Smith said Cool-Aid had just received a letter from a neighbor — W. G. Smith (no relation) of 937 Balmoral.

In his letter Smith said he was in his 60s and inclined to be somewhat "crotchety."

He said he is president of the Smoke and Noise Abatement Society of Victoria. He had spent a lot of money on his house, he said, and when Cool-Aid moved in he watched them closely, although he didn't quite believe all the stories about sex and drugs.

He said he had been very much on his guard, but after watching them for 18 months had decided that the Cool-Aid staff members were some of the kindest human beings he had met.

He said he was sorry about the indignities which the disinherited young people who went to Cool-Aid were forced to put up with.
